Chicago's Queer Idea.
An Aluminum Palace.
Smith's Money Recipe.
One Brick, $25,000.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.

THIS IS WRITTEN in the big city at the lake's edge, after half a day's visit to Milwaukee, another big lake city.

Walking along Chicago's lake front, from the Michigan Central Station to the Blackstone, you are fascinated, as usual, by the pawing horse, upon which John A. Logan, perched on his high mound, rides nowhere.

ON THE EDGE of the slope a man lies, asleep in the rising sun, a pile of newspapers for his bed. Chicago has signs in parks reading, "Newly-seeded, please keep off." But, if it is NOT newly-seeded, you may walk, lie, play or sleep anywhere. They have a strange idea here, that the earth, parks included, belongs to the people.

MILWAUKEE is interesting, because there, gangsters shoot you rarely. The eccentric local police have no partnerships with crime.

When something is "pulled off," the police have no share in the profits. For that reason, things are not pulled off. Other big cities, tired of being shot up and shot down, might inquire into that.

SECRETARY MELLON, who was the aluminum king, and wore several other American crowns, before he gave up business for the Treasury, should see, in Milwaukee, the aluminum palace of science, just built by L. R. Smith, head of A. O. Smith Co. The big building is of polished aluminum, without, and within, most beautiful in every detail. The furniture is made of aluminum. You touch a big arm chair, and it rolls away, light as a powder puff.

THAT BUILDING, best advertisement the Aluminum Company ever had, is devoted to pure science. It is a great series of laboratories, in which 600 scientists devote their time and knowledge to problems that affect industry and decide profit or loss. Chemists, physicists, engineers, metallurgists and 17 patent lawyers are included in the "brains department" of A. O. Smith & Co.

L. R. SMITH is the industrial genius who made all the great steel companies junk and abandon their pipe mills costing tens of millions and build new ones, in imitation of Smith, after he showed that he could make, in a week, more miles of pipe than they, all together could make in a month, and at half the price.

ON ONE SHIPMENT of oil pipe to Texas, Smith paid a freight bill of $1,200,000.

Quite a business, and he is about to reveal another surprise for the pipe makers, that will please them no more than the original surprise. That is another story.

THE AUTOMATIC mechanism that makes automobile frames in the Smith factory is the most remarkable industrial performance in this country. Row upon row of iron monsters advance, bite holes in metal with sharp teeth, insert rivets and fasten them, then retire, to come forward again and bite the metal in another place.

A thousand devils, at their silly antiquated tricks, would be dull, compared with that phalanx of steel-biting dragons. For $7.50, material and labor included, Smith makes a frame that once cost more than $100.

DO YOU ASK "Of what possible use can 600 scientists be to a mechanical industry?" L. R. Smith will tell you. His scientific building, its surface nearly all glass, has window panes 9 feet wide, 13 feet high. The lowest bid to set those giant sheets of one-inch plate glass in the window frames was $35,000.

ONE OF THE SCIENTISTS made vacuum cups to hold and move the glass sheets; nine men did all the work in a short time, and it cost $5,000 instead of $35,000.

Also glaziers came by fast train from all over the United States to see how it was done. That will interest L. J. Horowitz, chief glazier, who was in Europe at the time.

L. R. SMITH says the way to make money is simple. "Find something in universal demand, that is being made by old-fashioned people, whom easy prosperity has made indifferent. Take their business out of the rut, do it yourself, at half the price and at a good profit.

"Thus you benefit the country and earn money to experiment in other directions, which is the only thing worth while."

RETURNING to good old Wall street, you find that Broker Bernard E. Smith bought from a gold mining company o. Juneau, Alaska, a large brick of gold, genuine, not the usual kind, paying $25,000. It was stamped "Brick No. 1,000." Broker Smith is supposed to have said "I want to be able to prove that SOMETHING is worth what we thought it was, two years ago."

ENGLAND'S PLIGHT, with France taking all her gold, forced to make a combination government of Labor and Tories is the world's most pathetic picture, if you forget China.

WHATEVER WE unfortunate Americans do someone hates us for it. Returning to ancient barter and exchange, we trade our surplus wheat for Brazil's surplus coffee. Argentina says "You are stealing my South American wheat market. Shame." You can't please your neighbors, especially if you are rich.

ANNA MAY STACKLIN, 5 . . . FOURTH RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Anna May—fourth of four children in the Stacklin family, 1006 Salter way, North Side—taken to St. John's Hospital today suffering a mysterious ailment that has taken the lives of a brother, 3, and a sister, 7, and which Alice, 1½, is suffering at St. John's.

PAINTERS USE COYNE AUTOS

Although autos bearing licenses issued to Peter and John J. Coyne, of 256½ McKee place, were used by a group of seven painters who, early today, again began decorating the roadways and walls of the city with "Coyne for Commissioner" signs, James J. Coyne, candidate for the Republican nomination, had disavowed their work.

Four of the men were arrested while painting signs on the Liberty Bridge ramp by Lieut. Jack Eckard, of the county tunnel police. They were charged with malicious mischief before Alderman John P. Kearcher and held in $500 bond for court trial. They gave their names as P. O'Connor, of 256½ McKee place, John Collins, of 109 Oakland street, James Murphy, of 4011 Beechwood boulevard, and Al Kress, of 2015 Broadway avenue.

Coyne, in a letter to Public Safety Director James M. Clark, called for the arrest of all painters of political signs on city property.

In his letter he charged:

"The work is part of a campaign of my opponents to discredit my candidacy with the citizens of Allegheny County."

The spokesman for a group of sign painters this morning said:

"We're out to paint the town yellow."

One of the painters said:

"We started out Monday night and painted a nice sign at the entrance to the Liberty tubes, but next day it was rubbed out.

"We're not using any city paint, either. Look, these buckets have the name of the place where we bought it."

The cars bore the license numbers 8E088 and SY735.

According to records on file in Harrisburg, license 8E088 was issued to Peter Coyne, 256½ McKee place, and SY735 to John J. Coyne, of the same address.

CHIEF KILLED CHASING PAIR

Careening along Freeport road in pursuit of a man and his 14-year-old girl companion, Police Chief Jack Polcsak, 40, of Cheswick, was fatally hurt early today when his motorcycle sideswiped another machine. Polcsak died in the Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington.

The alleged fugitives, Joseph Doucouer, 25, of Springdale, and Olga Machalyk, 14, also of Springdale, had been missing a week, according to the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary Machalyk, who charged they had taken $2,800 of her life savings.

When Constable Harry Lloyd, of Springdale, saw them today in a new sport roadster he pursued them. In Cheswick he was joined by Polcsak and State Highway Patrolman H. E. Moorehouse.

Weaving through traffic on Freeport road, the officers pursued for several miles. Near Hulton Bridge Polcsak's motorcycle struck an automobile said to have been driven by W. W. Camp, 37, of Kirkwood avenue, Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh police later arrested the pair in a North Side hotel. Police said the pair had $580 sewed in a pillow slip, a $300 diamond ring and other jewelry.

Doucouer and his girl companion are to be arraigned in Springdale today.

The couple is alleged to have fled from Springdale in a roadster purchased recently by the girl.

When searched, police said, the pair had $580 sewed in a pillow slip, a $300 diamond ring and other jewelry.

Heckscher Celebrates His 83rd Birthday

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—August Heckscher, philanthropist, celebrated his eighty-third birthday today at a camp at Adams Corners, N. Y., which he established for the needy. The German immigrant, who amassed a fortune in the three score years in this country, has no rules for longevity. He explained:

"I ate and drank what I pleased until age imposed its limitations."

FOURTH ILL IN MYSTERY MALADY

Hint of Sleeping Sickness As North Side Children Are Stricken, Two Fatally

The same strange ailment that cost the lives of two members of the Stacklin family and threatens a third, today struck with lightning swiftness the fourth—Anna May Stacklin, 5.

Family and consulting physicians ordered the child to St. John's Hospital, where she joined her 18-month-old sister, Alice, who, physicians believe, is fighting a good battle.

Attaches at the hospital said that Anna May is being held for observation, and that Alice's condition is reported as "good."

A brother and a sister, Leo, 3, and Leona, 7, died, the former yesterday and the latter Monday. They are children of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Stacklin, 1006 Salter way, North Side.

CITY TO INVESTIGATE

Physicians expressed the belief that intestinal poisoning which may have been due to ice cream, was the cause of death, but an autopsy last night indicated acute encephalitis, or inflammation of the brain, had caused the death of Leona.

Dr. Phillip E. Marks, head of the City Bureau of Infectious Diseases, said that while he was not qualified to state what caused the deaths, his department would make an investigation. He said:

"It does not seem like infantile paralysis, because it is rare to have it strike so rapidly. While I'm not qualified to say what it is, acute encephalitis is a pathological condition which could be considered a symptom of meningitis, infantile paralysis or sleeping sickness."

PARENTS WATCHED

So far the parents of the children have shown no signs of being afflicted. But physicians are maintaining a careful watch. Yesterday Alice, baby of the family, was stricken. Shortly after 9 o'clock today Anna May showed symptoms similar to those exhibited in one of the others—neusea and high fever. Dr. F. X. Strassley, of Pressley street, fam-

Willard Denies Rail Merger Plan Failure

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, one of the trunk lines participating in the four-party eastern railroad consolidation plans, said today that as far as he knew reports that the conferences had collapsed are unfounded. He declared:

"Certainly the Baltimore and Ohio has no intention of withdrawing and filing plans of its own. The discussions will be renewed when the executives of the various roads are able to get together again."

Hayakawa, Film Star, Adopts Japanese Boy

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A 2½-year-old Japanese boy, bearing the name of Alexander Hays and babbling baby talk like any American infant, has become the legally adopted son of Sessue Hayakawa, motion picture actor, and his wife, Tsuru.

Hayakawa said the boy's father died before Alexander was born.

Vacations of Sleuths Off In Move Against Influx Of Crooks Fleeing Cleanup

Anticipating an influx of racketeers and criminals from New York as the result of a drive there against undesirables, vacations for city detectives were suspended today.

The action was decided on at a conference of Mayor Charles H. Kline, Safety Director James M. Clark, Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh and his assistant, Ben R. Marshall.

Detectives will be assigned to train and bus terminals and will do 24-hour service until further orders.

Orders were issued to arrest all suspects, and Mayor Kline has instructed magistrates to hold suspects until detectives have completed investigations.

Anti-Gang Rally Radio Announcer Threatened

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Telephone threats against his life have put John S. Young, radio announcer, on his guard.

Not only is he carrying a gun under an official permit in defiance of any possible activity against him, but two policemen were assigned today to give him a helping hand.

The threats, believed to have been made either by gangsters or cranks, followed Young's appearance as announcer at the broadcast of the anti-gang rally Monday night by WJZ of the National Broadcasting Company.

Sign Drive Pushed By Society Leader

In a second attempt to rid the Sewickley Valley of political posters adorning poles along Beaver road and other thoroughfares Mrs. J. G. Pontefract, society matron of Edgeworth, today sent out a crew of men to obliterate the signs. Mrs. Pontefract previously had assisted the crew.

Today Mrs. Pontefract sent out her chauffeur and two gardeners to paint out signs painted or pasted on poles. Others tacked to poles were torn down.

Man's Death Laid To Rum Ring Here

CANTON, O., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Working on a theory that the slaying of Joe Cotelli, of Canton, was an outgrowth of a feud between rival rum running rings operating between Pittsburgh and Cleveland, Stark County authorities today turned to the police of those cities in the hope of uncovering a clue to the killers.

Infant of Tragedy Named As Slain Mother Wished

Smiling through tears of sorrow and pain, Mrs. Anna Milko, 38, a widowed mother of seven, today discussed the future of her first grandchild, born yesterday as life ebbed from the body of her daughter, Mary Zyma, 19, a victim of an infuriated husband, who took his own life. She said:

"Ah! Its name will be Rose Marie. Mary always said if she had a girl she would call it that. And she'll be glad, too."

Mrs. Milko saw Baby Rose Marie for the first time last night. She had not been told of the death of her daughter, who died in Braddock General Hospital a few minutes after the baby was born in a Caesarean operation. She knew of the death of the husband, Adam, 22, whose fury caused him to shoot the expectant mother and his mother-in-law in the Milko home in Talbot avenue, Braddock.

Zyma died a minute before the child was born.

Mrs. Milko said her son-in-law had first become enraged two weeks ago, when he said a fortune teller predicted that the child would be a girl and that it would resemble Mrs. Zyma.

Hospital attaches said it was a little too early to determine whom the child would resemble.

Miss Lee, motion picture actress pictured with her two young children, today held for court in Los Angeles for "disturbing the peace," charge made by Writer Ivan St. Johns, who testified that she followed her estranged husband, Director Luther Reed, to the St. Johns' apartment, smashed, marred walls with her slipper heel.

Blames Illness for Her 3-Months Delay In Surrendering

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Jocelyn Lee, film actress, today pleaded not guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace resulting from her visit to a Hollywood party May 25. She explained her three months' delay in surrendering by stating she was confined in a hospital by an operation.

Bond was set at $100 and she was instructed to appear for trial September 18.

Miss Lee was arrested on the complaint of Ivan St. Johns, motion picture writer, who claimed she followed her estranged husband, Luther Reed, film director, to St. Johns' party and broke windows and marred walls with the heel of her slipper.

Edward Kenna, an assessor in the First Ward, was summoned before George J. Schad, chairman of the County Board for the Revision and Assessment of Taxes, today to explain the assessment of 51 persons from a house at 330 Liberty avenue.

U. S. Justice Holmes Rallies From Cold

Lindys Hailed in Tokio; 100,000 Jam Streets

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Recovering from the effects of the most uproarious welcome ever extended by the Japanese public to any foreign visitor, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh surveyed the practical side of their vacation flight to the Orient this afternoon and predicted that possibly within three years regular air mail service would be established between America and Japan.

The Lindberghs granted an interview after they had reached the home of Dr. R. B. Teusler, their temporary Tokio host, but before they got there they had to battle their way through 10 miles of streets jammed with cheering Japanese.

It was estimated that at least 100,000 residents of Tokio turned out to greet the visiting fliers, lining the entire route from the Kasumigaura Naval Air Station, where the Lindberghs landed after the last lap of their flight from Nemuro. Standing three deep on the sidewalks and in the street, the crowd waved Japanese and American flags and roared thunderous "banzais!" as the Lindberghs rode through the streets to the center of the capital.

GOV. PINCHOT HITS AT MALONE

Appointments Scrutinized After McGovern Charge; Boyle May Get Job Back

By MARK SHIELDS

The Board of Registration today was studying the legality of a sweeping ouster of registrars in certain Pittsburgh wards and the appointment of others in their places.

This action was considered following charges by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern that the Independent political movement had been "double-crossed in the making of registration board appointments by James F. Malone, who resigned from Gov. Pinchot's cabinet yesterday.

Three of the wards under fire are the Second, Sixth and Fifth. In the Second and Sixth wards, the present appointees are listed as unfriendly to State Senator James J. Coyne, who would be expected to benefit by changes there, although not aligned with the Independent faction.

The Fifth is Malone's home ward.

Another rumor springing up from well-informed sources this afternoon was that all Malone state job appointees were to go by the board.

MAY RENAME BOYLE

This report had former State Athletic Commissioner Havey J. Boyle replacing his successor, Dr. W. D. McClelland, of Brookline, a Malone man who has held the office but a few weeks.

Boyle was appointed to the athletic commission when it was originated by Pinchot during his first term as governor and had held the position until displaced recently by McClelland.

His ousting was one of the many causes of disagreements which led to the final breach between McGovern and Malone and the latter's resignation.

Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish arrived in Pittsburgh this morning to investigate the McGovern

HANNA GIVEN MALONE POST

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Transfer of John L. Hanna, of Franklin, from secretary of welfare to secretary of property and supplies in Gov. Pinchot's cabinet was announced today.

Hanna succeeds James F. Malone, of Pittsburgh, who resigned yesterday.

The Governor declined to discuss the question of filling the post of Secretary of Welfare.

Dr. Ellen C. Potter, who served as Secretary of Welfare in his first administration, refused the post when the Governor was forming his cabinet. Dr. Potter is now medical director of the New Jersey State Department of Institutions and Agencies. It was considered probable that the secretaryship here would again be offered to her.

WAR MONEY-RAISING PLAN TO BE USED IN RELIEF DRIVE

CAMPAIGN RUNS FROM OCT. 19 TO NOV. 25

All America Urged to Join In Effort to Provide For Poor During Winter

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The driving power which made campaigns for funds during the World War a remarkable success throughout the country will again be brought into play when all America is asked to give for relief of the needy unemployed. The drive will be made from October 19 to November 25 inclusive.

The spearhead of the drive will be Walter S. Gifford, director of the new Committee on Unemployment Relief formed by President Hoover in an effort to provide for the needy without calling upon the federal government for direct relief appropriations.

CONGRESS FIGHT SEEN

The campaign will be concluded a month before Congress meets, when there is certain to be a hard battle for federal participation in the nation's emergency relief measures.

The amount to be sought in the campaigns could not be fixed at the conference at which the dates were agreed upon. For the next two weeks Director Gifford plans an intensive survey to determine what is necessary. Some estimates have placed the amount at not less than $250,000,000.

Gifford today conferred with members of the advisory committee named by President Hoover. Further conferences were planned for next week.

RADIO HOOKUPS

The work of Gifford will be to stimulate and co-ordinate local relief activities. The drive has been described as "a national drive for local funds."

National radio hookups will be employed, aid of newspapers sought and the "four minute men" of World War days may be called into action again.

The annual roll call of the American Red Cross falls during the date agreed upon, the roll call being from November 11 to 25. This period is not disturbed.

Allen T. Burns, director of the Association of Community Chests, who participated in the conference, expects drives to be made in 227 cities having community chests.

Capital Watches Roosevelt On Relief Moves

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—There is keen interest in the capital in the unemployment relief program that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt has announced he will present to the special session of the New York Legislature in a few days.

Gov. Roosevelt is considered the foremost candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. By many politicians he is regarded as President Hoover's most likely opponent next year.

Thus the spectacle will be presented to the country of the two likely contestants for the presidency in 1932 dealing with a grave problem that undoubtedly will play an important part in the campaign. That problem is unemployment and the collateral economic issues that enter into it.

Gov. Roosevelt has indicated that he plans to go considerably farther than Mr. Hoover in bringing the legislature into the picture.

Advices reaching Washington from Albany indicate that Gov. Roosevelt intends to call upon the legislature for emergency action to meet the crisis this winter. Whether this will take the form of a special tax upon wealth or a direct appropriation is yet to be revealed, but friends of the Governor here appear confident that he will propose remedies considerably more advanced than anything the national government has yet proposed.

record padding, said some of the charges might have grown out of bona fide listings.

Among the charges of "phantom voters" which Schad said he would investigate were the following assessments:

Thirty-four persons from a warehouse at 134 Scott place, Second Ward.

Three persons from the Postoffice.

Four persons from an electrical storeroom at 70 Water street, First Ward, next door to Central Police Station.

Schad cited as an example residents of some 20 houses torn down to make room for the Ohio River boulevard in the Twenty-seventh Ward. Residents, he said, would be listed as from those houses although the buildings had been down nearly a year.

It was pointed out that several protests had been received over the assessment of aliens. Assessors are required by law, it was pointed out, to assess all adults for taxation purposes. Eligibility for voting is based on meeting registration qualifications.

Charles A. Gibson, chief clerk of the County Tax Board, today predicted one of the heaviest primary votes in the county's history. Thousands of persons permitting them to qualify by payment of a 50-cent poll tax were flocking to the offices of the tax board in the Court House to be assessed. Four extra clerks were required today.

Three Held for Court In Fifth Ward Case

Charged with conspiracy and misdemeanor, Henry Griffin, Negro, Abe Feldman and Walter Hennecke, Fifth Ward politicians, were arraigned today before Alderman Thomas A. Flanegan and held for court in $1,000 bail each.

Informations for the arrests were filed by County Detective Chief George W. Mutten, who said Griffin was accused of swearing falsely to a nominating petition placing his name in the Fifth Ward race for alderman in opposition to Martin J. Griffin, the incumbent. Feldman and Hennecke were charged with having circulated and signed the petition.

The investigation resulting in the arrests was ordered by Judge H. Gray, before whom a petition was argued to remove Griffin's name from the ballot. It was alleged that the Negro's name had been proposed to confuse voters with that of Alderman Griffin.

WABASH DEAL PROTESTED

Thomas J. Reid, a real estate and insurance operator of Wellsburg and Weirton, W. Va., today made public a protest against purchase of the Wabash Bridge and tunnel by Allegheny County for use as a vehicular traffic link between the South Hills and downtown.

Reid declared the purchase of the tunnel by the county blocked the entrance of any new railroad into the City of Pittsburgh except at convenience of the Pennsylvania Lines and will work a direct hardship therefore on the communities adjacent to the county.

worth thousands to NBC. We'll teach you wise guys to keep out of these gangster affairs."

Young, believing it was one of his friends attempting a joke, cut off the conversation by hanging up. Ten minutes later another call came in. It was a different voice but conveyed the same message, with embellishments.

After that Young decided it either was a crank or some one who felt that threats would bring money from his employers.

MURDER STIRS POLICE

Five other NBC employes also have received telephone threats, including Walter Mills, scheduled to sing at the rally but who was replaced on the program by another singer.

Another defiance of New York's drive against gunmen and gangsters aroused police and city officials today.

In the midst of a new campaign to clean up the city, four gangsters walked into a Bronx cigar store last night and murdered Theodore Naddi, 29, as he sat playing cards. Naddi was believed by police to have been a dope peddler and the authorities branded the killing as a climax to a narcotic gang war.

M'DONALD SEEN AS BRITISH DICTATOR

Coalition Cabinet Holds First Session; Cut in Government Pay Proposed

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Ramsay MacDonald became, in a manner of speaking, a British dictator today as he presided over the first cabinet meeting of the new non-partisan government which is preparing to cut $600,000,000 from the budget expenditures.

Charged by the King with forming the emergency government, the Prime Minister holds his post of power as an individual but not as representative of organized labor, which is now marshalling solid opposition to its former leader.

The program which he laid out for his ministers today was not much different from that which he and Chancellor Philip Snowden tried to force through with the Labor government. The platform of the new ministry is virtually the same as that on which the Labor government split and fell.

TO PRODUCE EXPENSES

It is proposed that the greater part of the money needed to balance the budget be made available by reducing expenses instead of by increasing taxes.

Probably the largest economy will be made by cutting the weekly unemployment dole by 10 per cent.

This means a jobless man and his wife who now receive about $6.25 a week will get only about $5.65. The allowance of two shillings a week (about 50 cents) for each child of such a couple is not to be reduced.

Another substantial economy which is proposed is a reduction in the pay of government employes. School teachers and police would lose about 12½ per cent of their pay. Soldiers and sailors would take a smaller reduction.

SUPPORTERS NOW FOES

When Parliament assembles a week from next Tuesday the Prime Minister will find aligned against him men who until a few days ago were his ardent supporters. Some predictions are that not more than 20 Labor members will support the new government.

The left wing already has expressed its resentment at Mr. MacDonald's course, and the powerful political machinery of the Trades Union Congress is swinging into action against him.

A. J. Cook, leader of the miners' union, the "Emperor Cook" of the general strike, went so far as to say:

"This is the end of democratic government in this country for a long time and the beginning of a Fascist dictatorship. I think the national government will dig itself in for a long stay and there will be a sort of dictatorship."

Plane Drives Jail Breaker to Capture

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—An airplane aided in the capture of Roy Wrone, escaped Washington County prisoner, near here today.

A five-mile automobile chase, punctuated by the rattle of machine gun firing, preceded the aerial search. Wrone was wounded slightly but escaped into a corn field. The plane, piloted by George Heywood, swooped low over the field, and the fugitive ran from his hiding place, surrendering.

HARRY NEFT

Loots Cash Register Of $150, Spurns $2 Bill

A well dressed youth walked into Sol's store, an automobile accessory shop, at 801 Liberty avenue, last night, pointed a revolver at Harry Neft, of 5511 Baywood street, the manager, and looted the cash register of $150. He ignored a $2 bill.

He then marched Neft to the rear of the store and locked him in a small room. The victim forced his way out and notified police.

Two hours before the holdup the man entered the store and bought two tires, paying with a check. He ordered them delivered to a South Negley avenue address and asked the store's closing time, according to Neft. The "customer" then loitered in the street in front of the store until Neft prepared to close.

HARRIS, BAD BOY OF LITERATURE, DIES AT 75

Varied Career of Famous Writer Ends in France; Life Story Barred in U. S.

International News Service

NICE, France, Aug. 26.—Frank Harris, 75-year-old bad boy of literature, world traveler, editor, critic and raconteur, died here today.

He died peacefully in his sleep with only his second wife, the former Nellie O'Hara, 30 years his junior, at his bedside. Harris had been suffering from asthma for years. Funeral services will be conducted Friday in the American Church.

PICTURESQUE CAREER

Harris' career was varied and picturesque. Born in Ireland, he shipped steerage to America when only 15 and had many of his most vivid experiences there during the 70's and 80's. He drove spikes in Brooklyn Bridge, punched cattle on the ranches of the wild west, fraternized with Wild Bill Hickok and saw the great Chicago fire. These episodes provided much of the material for the bizarre autobiography, "My Life and Loves," which he wrote many years later.

Harris tarried in the West to ride with the cowboys and study at the University of Kansas. Admitted to the bar at Lawrence, Kan., he abandoned his incipient law career to return to Europe for further studies. There he met Carlyle who turned his talents to writing.

At 27, Harris settled in London and became editor of the Evening News and subsequently of several literary magazines. In 1909 he wrote "The Man Shakespeare," termed deserving of literary immortality by many critics.

BOOK BARRED IN U. S.

Harris was acquainted with almost every European celebrity in the worlds of art, letters, music and politics, from Wagner and Carlyle to George Bernard Shaw. He wrote his reminiscences of them in a series of volumes called "Chief Contemporary Portraits," in "Oscar Wilde, His Life and Confessions" and in "My Life and Loves." The autobiography, sensationally frank, aroused a storm of protest and was officially barred from this country. Pirated editions of it bring large prices.

Harris had just finished an "unauthorized" life of Shaw scheuled for publication this fall.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw was philosophical today when he received word of the death in France of Frank Harris, who was writing a biography of him. Shaw said:

"Frank had to die some day. As a matter of fact I think it time that all men of his age and mine were dying. But it is sad news."

A leading brain specialist explained that acute encephalitis prevailed in some degree throughout the country as an aftermath of influenza. Known in a number of forms, one, lethargic encephalitis, was originally called sleeping sickness, he said, adding:

"It is caused by a germ which medical science has not discovered."

FIRST STRICKEN FRIDAY

The first sign of illness in the Stacklin family came Friday night when Leo complained. His parents attributed it to the commonest of children's troubles—upset stomach—and applied home treatment. The boy died at his home Monday, shortly before Leona complained of similar sickness.

Physicians sent Leona to St. John's Hospital, where a battle against the ailment was futile, the child dying there yesterday. Alice, the third stricken, also was taken to the hospital where she was reported favorably fighting the disease.

YUKO HAMAGUCHI

Former Premier Dies From Effects of Bullet Wound

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—In the midst of the celebrations over the safe arrival of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, Japan was plunged into sorrow today by the death of former Premier Yuko Hamaguchi, who succumbed at his home from complications resulting from a bullet wound inflicted by an assassin last November.

Hamaguchi was shot down on the platform of a railway station as he was leaving Tokio to attend naval maneuvers off the coast. His assailant, a young Japanese radical, was overpowered by the premier's aides and arrested.

Hamaguchi for many years was one of the outstanding figures in Japanese public and political life. Born in 1870, he was educated at the Tokio Imperial University and was admitted to the bar soon after receiving his degree. He entered into political life at an early age, his first post being that of director of the Tobacco Monopoly Bureau, which he held from 1907 to 1912.

He later became vice minister of communications, then vice minister of finance, and held numerous government and cabinet posts before being elevated to the premiership in 1928.

DO-X Arrives at Norfolk; 2 Stowaways Ejected

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—The DO-X, largest seaplane in the world, which left Charleston, S. C., this morning, arrived at the naval base here at noon today. All motors were functioning properly as she landed.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Two stowaways were ejected from the giant seaplane DO-X just before the big plane took off for Norfolk, Va., today on its way to New York.

The stowaways, Guy M. Perry, aviation mechanic, and Lewis Andrews, both 20, had boarded the plane late last night and hidden themselves in the tail. They were discovered today by mechanics making an inspection of the ship and promptly put ashore.

It is the first time in the history of the DO-X that stowaways attempted to board her.

The big flying boat carried 21 passengers and 17 members of the crew. Among the 12 persons taken aboard here for the flight to Norfolk was Congressman Thomas S. McMillan, of Charleston.

The DO-X took on 1,800 gallons of gasoline before hopping off.

Three Pilots Forced Down; Mrs. Thaden Tenth

By LOUISE THADEN
Winner of the 1929 National Air Derby for Women, and Pittsburgh's Representative in the 1931 Cross-Country Derby.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 26.—It was a tired lot of pilots that gathered at the airport here this morning ready to continue the Santa Monica-Cleveland derby, hoping to make Amarillo, Tex., tonight. The weather is extremely hot and disagreeable.

Three of the fliers were forced down on the trip from Tucson yesterday. Blanche Noyes dropped out at Douglas, Earl Rowland 15 miles east of that city and Barney Rawson eight miles west of El Paso.

Fifty-two of the 55 planes in the race made port, being led by Gladys O'Donnell. Phoebe Omlie was second, Mildred Morgan third and Glenna Granger fourth.

My motor is working better now. Some more people are going to have motor trouble, too. We've been flying over bad country, mountains and desert, but it is pretty, nevertheless.

The airports are dirty and I've been filthy for two days now.

After tomorrow the bad country will be behind us and we'll all be relieved, especially after we get to Roswell, which I think is the worst part of the trip.

AKRON 'WALKED' IN FIRST TEST

AKRON, O., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The Akron, queen of the air, poked her nose out of her giant dock early today for her first visit into the open air.

A ground crew of 250 men "walked" the ship, the largest dirigible in the world, outside of the hangar in the dress rehearsal to prepare for the first flight some time in the near future.

Lieut. Com. Charles E. Rosendahl, captain of the Akron; Lieut. Com. H. V. Wiley and Lieut. Wilfred Bushnell gave orders from the ground for the "walkout" maneuver.

With the first launching rehearsal completed, the program of construction tests inside the dock was ready to be resumed. Overload tests several days ago strained one portion of the ship and as a result greater localized strength will be built into several sections. The maiden flight will not be staged before September 5, Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation and Navy officials said.

FIRST-AID SHOW ON POLE TOP

A new application of artificial respiration, credited with saving the life of Lineman J. A. Gauger, of the Duquesne Light Company, after he came in contact with an electrical wire at Oakmont July 31, was demonstrated at the top of a pole yesterday while cameras recorded the action.

R. C. Van Ryn, who administered respiration to Gauger at the top of a pole, yesterday re-enacted the part. David E. Toy, who also helped in the rescue of Gauger, acted the role of the victim.

When Toy shouted for help and slumped against the pole, Van Ryn showed how he swung around behind Gauger, and by pressure against his abdomen started the heart and lung action which kept him alive. The quick respiration saves about three minutes in getting the man down from the pole, after which the prone pressure method is used.

The new method was devised by F. W. Oesterreich, superintendent of the distributing department of the company, and Dr. W. M. Holtz, of the medical department, after consultation with Dr. Davenport Hooker, of the University of Pittsburgh.

CANNON NOTES SCANNED BY PROBERS

Senate Committee Shows $5,000 Paid Off in 1928 Campaign; Banker Called

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Bank records showing that $5,000 in notes held by a Virginia bank were paid off by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., during the 1928 presidential campaign when he headed the anti-Smith committee of Virginia, were identified today before the Senate Campaign Funds Committee.

The committee is seeking to determine the disposition of more than $65,000 given to the bishop by E. C. Jameson, of New York, for use in the campaign, and whether the law was violated in failure to report expenditure of all the funds.

John A. Booker, cashier of the Citizens Bank and Trust Company of Blackstone, Va., related that the Southern Methodist churchman had a checking account in his bank for 20 or 30 years.

Chairman Nye of the committee observed the Blackstone account showed "a total of Cannon notes for an even $5,000." One of the notes, he said, was for Edward Cannon. Nye continued:

"The record shows $5,000 in Cannon notes were paid off between the period from June 1, 1928, to March 2, 1929."

Booker said that was the fact.

Italo-Vatican Pact Precludes Future Breaks

ROME, Aug. 26.—(Universal.)—The basis of the agreement by which Pope Pius and Premier Mussolini expect to settle the Italo-Vatican quarrel, was revealed last night. The highlights of the agreement will be:

1—The government will permit the reopening of the Catholic Action Society youth clubs, whose activities under Vatican guarantees will be confined to strictly religious matters.

2—Extraneous activities, such as athletics, which the clubs previously conducted, will be taken over by the Balilla, the Fascist youth organization.

3—The Vatican will remove the barriers and allow the establishment of Balilla branches in Catholic schools.

4—The government will furnish guarantees giving Catholic chaplains full freedom to conduct religious observances and instruction within the Balilla.

5—A Fascist edict issued during the height of the dispute forbidding party members to belong to Catholic Action will be recalled.

6—The government will pay for damages to church property during street demonstrations.

The agreement represents a compromise which its sponsors believe will remove all friction, since it sets up well defined spheres in which the government and the Vatican will share control of the education of the nation's youth. In an effort to head off the recurrence of serious troubles a provision is included requiring the submission of future differences to arbitration.

10 INSURANCE DEATHS LAID TO WOMAN

Banked $68,000 in Eight Years, Prosecutor Charges; Runs Cheap Rooming House

International News Service.

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—Allegations that Mrs. Rose Veres, 48-year-old woman "Bluebeard" suspect, banked $68,000 during the eight-year period in which 10 men died in her rooming house were made today by Assistant Prosecutor George Stutz here.

The woman, the official told Judge Henry Sweeny, has no other means of support than rent collected from the rooms in her unkempt boarding house in a poorer section of the city. Mrs. Veres is a widow and the mother of three children. One son, William, 18, is also held in connection with the deaths of 10 men whom, authorities charged, were victims of an "insurance" plot.

Mrs. Veres was arrested in 1925, charged with murder, and then ultimately released after a probe into the other deaths. Five of the men died of acute alcoholism, two others succumbed to carbon monoxide poisoning and two hanged themselves.

KILLED IN FALL

The latest death occurred yesterday when Stev Mak, 68-year-old roomer, fell from a ladder through an open attic window of the three-story frame dwelling. Injuries received in the three-story fall caused his death.

According to Mrs. Veres, the man lost his balance while working on the ladder and fell. Police, in filing the murder charges, maintained that all of the bruises on Mak's head and neck could not have been sustained in one fall.

Authorities announced that they were seeking the woman's 18-year-old son, William. They believe he may be able to shed some light on the "mystery" deaths.

Mrs. Veres was sullen and silent in the face of a grilling by detectives. She insisted that she was innocent. Her attorney, Frank M. Kenney, Jr., branded the murder charges as "ridiculous."

It is alleged by homicide squad detectives that Mrs. Veres was paying the premiums on four small insurance policies on Mak. The policies totaled $1,568.

TELLS OF BRIBE

Meanwhile, authorities discounted the story of John Walker, a Negro neighbor, who declared in a statement that he had been offered $500 by Mrs. Veres to "keep my mouth shut." He told police that the woman had said that she had beaten Mak.

Children in the neighborhood, who witnessed the "fall" of the aged man, were to appear at police headquarters today for questioning. One little girl already declared that she saw Mrs. Veres run from the house a short time after Mak fell. The girl said:

"She had cobwebs in her hair and on her clothing."

Mrs. Veres was arrested in May, 1928, in connection with the alleged abduction of a woman grocer, who later was freed and returned unharmed. In April, 1929, she was arrested on a warrent charging her with embezzlement of $400 from a confectioner for whom she worked.

AWAITS CHANCE TO DIVE UNDER HEAVY SEAS

Sub Passing Over Submerged Mountain Range; Crew Miserable in Bitter Cold

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS

Commander of the Wilkins-Ellsworth Trans-Arctic Submarine Expedition.

By Radio via American Radio News Corporation via Norddeich Radio station, Germany.

ABOARD THE SUBMARINE NAUTILUS, at Sea, Aug. 26. — We are making good progress on a course slightly east of north and are now about 350 miles from the North Pole.

The sun shines coldly low on the horizon. High winds from the East continue as we push through the scattered ice pack. We have encountered considerable open water.

Wild choppy waves ride high about us, carrying with them great chunks of steely blue ice and myraids of small white fragments.

Solid ice lies three miles north, its edge rising and falling in waves. It glinted in the sunshine for a few minutes when the sun burst through the clouds and snow squalls.

We have moved under motor and engine power along its edge, turning north at every opportunity looking for an opening or sheltered area where we might push under the floes and use our drills, take soundings and bottom samples and other scientific data, but the wind continues lashing the sea furiously.

The wave crests ride our superstructure from stem to stern. It is impossible to remain on deck.

Soundings show that we are passing over mountain ridges on the ocean's bottom, as the depths of the water vary from 1,800 feet to 6,000 feet within a few miles.

It is miserably cold. The men now sleep with their clothes on and in camel hair sleeping bags, and drag two blankets over them as well.

We are colder in our compartments than I have been in a snow house at 50 below zero.

The temperature is lowering each day. Each bare iron girder and the wall of the ship in touch with the water is covered on the inside with a glistening mass of ice crystals.

We are continuing our way and expect soon to meet the solid pack under which we must push our steely shell.

Mrs. Marshall and Vanderbilt were seen together frequently in Reno and the possibility of an elopement was discussed in their set. Mrs. Marshall is due to arrive in Chicago tomorrow on her way to New York.

Reference to his feud with Peter Arno brought a broad grin to Vanderbilt's face, but he would not comment.

PINCHOT PROBES APPOINTMENTS BY MALONE

Beamish Sifts McGovern Charge 'Independents' Were 'Double-Crossed'

charges against the registration appointees.

'MACHINE' GETS JOBS

McGovern has made the charge to Harrisburg that many appointments, supposedly at his own instance, actually redounded to the advantage of Malone and organization factions in Allegheny County politics.

This is especially true of the Registration Commission, and the interest of Beamish is particularly concerned with the administration of John K. Morrow, chairman; Mrs. Sarah Braun and E. Lowry Humes, the latter a Democrat. All were appointed by Pinchot, but McGovern is understood to be dissatisfied with the manner in which the commission has selected registrars.

Malone within a few days is expected to announce his indorsement of Senator William D. Mansfield for County Commissioner.

At the same time Malone indicated his intention of taking a part in the campaign when he told the Sun-Telegraph over the telephone that no live man could stay out once he had been in the game.

ANNOUNCEMENT DEFERRED

It is improbable Malone will make any public announcement until he returns to Pittsburgh the latter part of the week. In lining up with Mansfield, however, he will only be following the course of other political figures who followed the fortunes of former Senator M. G. Leslie.

Malone's resignation, together with the bitter personal attack he made on McGovern in a letter to the Governor, has caused a great stir in Allegheny County politics. There was much discussion today that Malone might forget some animosities of his unsuccessful mayoralty campaign two years ago and also declare for County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong. Coupled with this would be an indorsement of the Independent councilmanic ticket, with Malone looking to the help of Armstrong and the Independent Councilmen in another mayoralty campaign two years hence.

COYNE AID UNLIKELY

That Malone will give any assistance to Senator James J. Coyne, fourth commissioner candidate, is improbable. Throughout the life of the last Legislature, when Coyne and Mayor Charles H. Kline were allied with Gov. Pinchot, Malone was putting spokes in their wheels through his position in the cabinet. He was one of the most potent factors in inducing the Governor to compel Coyne to withdraw the bill creating two additional judgeships in Allegheny County, a measure in which Kline was vitally interested as an instrument for the payment of political obligations.

When the Legislature adjourned and the Governor began to parcel out patronage, not only Coyne and Kline but McGovern found that the cabinet member from Pittsburgh was doing well for his friends while the other three local leaders claimed they were being ignored. McGovern charged that Malone was not even directing jobs to those who had been loyal to Pinchot in the last campaign, but was meeting obligations incurred during the Malone mayoralty fight.

PARK INDORSEMENT

On top of this came Malone's indorsement of District Attorney Andrew T. Park for election though Ralph Smith, now the Independent candidate for that office, boosted by McGovern, had long been associated with Malone. Smith was so intense for Malone two years ago that there are Independents who have never forgiven him for some of his attacks on the late Judge Richard W. Martin, third candidate in that municipal primary.

Some McGovern adherents contend that the Governor has not been fully aware of what was being done with Allegheny County patronage, and this ill-feeling toward some of the Pinchot official family has not helped matters.

Despite the manner in which Malone succeeded in the patronage line, there still are evidences that the Harrisburg administration has a kindly feeling toward Coyne.

MORE BEWILDERMENT

Allegheny County politicians, already bewildered, now see the election outcome less clearly than ever. They still predict a drifting together of Armstrong and Mansfield. Mansfield shies from the subject, but it is understood Armstrong has been keeping silent only until he sees W. L. Mellon, who returned today.

It was predicted today that the only possible hope existing for an alliance of Coyne and Armstrong is for Mellon to publicly declare his support for such a ticket. Few believe Mellon would go that far, thus inferentially indorsing Mayor Kline, Coyne's close associate.

M'GOVERN LOSES STRENGTH

McGovern's declaration that Malone is now where he really belongs, outside the Independent ranks, cannot disguise the fact that the open defection of the former cabinet member takes from the Commissioner some strength which he must work hard to regain.

Kline and Coyne tonight will carry their fight into McKeesport, home of Mansfield. Slated to speak with them are Attorneys M. A. Musmanno and Benjamin Lencher, judicial candidates. If these two aspirants are adopted by the Mayor they will have strong organization support in the city and county, as both were invited to the payroll meeting at which Cavanaugh declared for an Armstrong-Mansfield ticket.

McGovern Statement Assails Malone for 'Run-Out'

James F. Malone "simply took a run-out powder on Gov. Pinchot" in resigning as state secretary of the Department of Property and Supplies, according to County Commissioner C. C. McGovern in a statement issued last night.

He declared:

"In deserting the Governor, he is running true to form. Those who know Pittsburgh's political history also know Mr. Malone has deserted every individual and movement that he has connected himself with. In succession, he 'ran out' on Kline, Armstrong, Mackrell and Smith.

'DOMINATED SESSIONS'

"As a member of the Pinchot cabinet, Malone dominated the Independent sessions held in the Keystone Club for 10 weeks, which sessions were held for the purpose of forming an Independent ticket. While I attended these sessions, I remained silent while Mr. Malone projected a campaign for a full ticket in Allegheny County.

"It was Malone who conducted negotiations with prospective candidates for District Attorney. When he 'ran out' on his personal friend, Ralph H. Smith, he had the hardihood to declare that he knew of no excuse for opposition to Park.

At a citizens' meeting in Avalon Borough Hall last night, McGovern repeated his attack on Malone. McGovern said:

"Sunny Jim's resignation was a good thing for Gov. Pinchot and a good thing for me. He said no one could get along with me, although I got along with the late Senator Flinn for 27 years, with Gov. Pinchot for 21 years and with former Senator Barr for 20 years, and none of them could be called gentle. The only ones I don't get along with are the Regulars."

McGovern laid the blame for the "$500,000 Nadine pumping station blunder" and "the $3,000,000 airport mudhole" upon County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong.

SMITH RAPS PARK

Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith, Independent Republican candidate for District Attorney, based an attack on District Attorney Andrew T. Park on the latter's "alliance" with Armstrong and State Senator James J. Coyne, candidate for County Commissioner. Smith said:

"I say and Coyne admits that he is a real estate broker and a stakeholder; I say and he has not denied that he is a specialist in wet goods. Now he wants to spend $100,000,000 of the people's money as a county commissioner.

"When the government had the termerity to try to collect $300,000 income tax, Coyne replied in a petition that he feared to tell the source of his money as it would tend to incriminate him. Yet the present district attorney has publicly stated that he did not know any man better fitted than Coyne to be a county commissioner."

Other speakers included Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court; Clarence B. Nixon, for judge of County Court; Judge Sara M. Soffel, Prothonotary John Vogt, seeking re-election, and Burt A. Llewellyn, for director of the poor. Harry Quay presided.

SHAPIRO SCORES ARMSTRONG AND COYNE

"Independent of Public Will And Liberal With Public Money," He Declares

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and State Senator James J. Coyne, seeking the "organization" nomination for County Commissioners, were assailed "independent and liberal" by Attorney Leo I. Shapiro addressing the noon meeting [illegible] Fourth avenue.

But here is how he said it:

"Armstrong, Coyne and their confederates, to judge by the signs they have posted and painted throughout the city, are both independent and liberal—independent of the public's will and interest and liberal with the people's money.

JURY OF VOTERS

"A grand jury has indicted Mayor Kline. In the coming election a greater jury will take charge of the trial and convict his confederates."

John [illegible], seeking [illegible] James O. Corbett, Recorder of Deeds candidate, and Attorney Ruben Gershon also spoke.

Councilman Robert Garland and former Councilman P. J. McArdle, candidates for Council on the Independent ticket, were the principal speakers at a rally last night in East End Independent headquarters, [illegible] Penn avenue. Former Morals Court Magistrate A. D. Brandon presided.

Garland said:

"In the East End districts there are people who never vote. The vote in the independent districts varies from 10 to 40 per cent of the qualified residents. In controlled wards it is sometimes 200 per cent."

McArdle declared that the great issue of the campaign was not so much the attributes of the candidates as their viewpoint. He said:

"It is not really whether my colleagues on the independent ticket are better than their opponents, but how they stand. The principles of the two groups present in all cases a clear-cut choice."

REID ANSWERS JUDGES' FOES

Judge Ambrose B. Reid, candidate for re-election to the Common Pleas Court bench, assailed the attacks on his running mates, Judges Gardner, Dithrich, Snee, Stadtfeld, Egan and McNaugher at a mass meeting in Shaler Township last night. He said:

"To asperse the seven sitting judges now before the people for nomination, they have attacked all the 14 judges of the Court of Common Pleas and the courts en bloc, notwithstanding the many years of honorable service on the bench by the seven sitting jurists."

Frank C. McGirr, past president of the Pennsylvania State Bar Association, today issued a statement urging the retention of the seven sitting judges and denouncing the tactics of those trying to supplant them. He declares:

"Every one of them is infinitely superior in ability to the self-nominated candidates who oppose them."

Piekarski, Rivals Speak at Picnic

Attorney Frank A. Piekarski, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, presided yesterday at Polish Day in Kennywood Park, where he introduced his rivals for the seven judicial positions to be filled at the fall election. Last night he addressed a Republican rally in South Eighteenth street.

Piekarski will address meetings tonight in Dickson School, Swissvale, and tomorrow night he will speak in Serbian Hall, McKees Rocks, and at Twenty-eighth street and Penn avenue.

Reich Again Flays Combine of Judges

Attorney Joseph H. Reich, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, reiterated his opposition to political or legal slates of judicial aspirants in a speech last night to citizens of Ross Township and vicinity at a rally in Turner's Grove. He said:

"The one for all and all for one" motto adopted by the seven sitting judges is now slowly being discarded by pressure of public opinion and in a vindication of the position I have taken that there must be no slate."

Haniak Re-Enters Alderman Race

John Haniak, candidate for alderman in the Seventeenth Ward who announced last week his intention to retire from the race, today stated he had reconsidered his plans and would continue to run. He said he decided not to drop out after he learned his decision had been made too late to keep his name off the primary ballot.

Grenet Organizes 27th Ward Workers

City employes of the Twenty-seventh Ward met Monday night in the home of Ward Chairman Samuel J. Grenet to organize for the primary campaign. Grenet declared he would remain neutral and appointed City Detective Edward McAfee to handle the reins. An assessment of $5 from each employe was made to defray campaign expenses, it was said.

Shaffer Announces Series of Meetings

Maj. C. B. Shaffer, independent candidate for City Council, announced today from his William Penn Hotel headquarters that a series of night rallies would begin Friday with a meeting of World War veterans.

The 82nd Division Association, Pittsburgh Branch, of which Maj. R. R. Sutton is president, met yesterday and indorsed Maj. Shaffer's candidacy.

Alderman Petition Suit Dismissed

Stating that the suit had been filed one day after the legal date for attacking nomination petitions, Judge James H. Gray, in Common Pleas Court, refused to make an order striking from the primary elections ballot the name of Herman A. Regenstein, candidate for Alderman in the Fifth Ward.

Lewis A. Schwartz had filed a taxpayers' suit, claiming Regenstein did not live in the Fifth Ward but resided with his parents in the Twelfth Ward. Regenstein maintained he does live in the Fifth. The suit was filed August 18, and Judge Gray pointed out that the seventeenth had been the last day for attacking nomination petitions.

Wymard Nomination Urged by Banker

C. C. Stotler, secretary of the Guarantee Title Company, today issued a statement declaring that Attorney N. I. "Skip" Wymard is qualified for the position of judge of County Court for which he is seeking the Republican nomination. Stotler said:

"Mr. Wymard has been a practicing attorney for 15 years and I have known him personally and professionally for many years. He is a man whose character is above reproach and if elected will, I believe, prove to be an asset to the bench."

MRS. PINCHOT LAUDS FIGHT ON GANGS

Governor's Wife Impressed By Huge Crowd at Rally Intent on Ending Menace

By CORNELIA BRYCE PINCHOT
(Wife of Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—Monday night at the inspiring mass meeting sponsored in in Madison Square Garden by the New York American I got the point of view of the audience.

Usually my lot is to sit on platforms. This time I wanted to get first hand the public reaction at this great demonstration against the desperate evil of gangdom. So I went to the very top gallery and was glad I did.

The thing that impressed me most was the earnestness of the crowd. People came there by tens of thousands, soberly, thoughtfully and with intent to help. At least that was my observation. It was one of the most interesting meetings I have ever attended.

Most of those around me were young people—men in their twenties and thirties—and in their shirt sleeves! It was a shirt-sleeve crowd, and shirt-sleeve philosophy where I sat. But it was quite as sincere and forceful as any of the speakers. Once, when I turned to say something to my companion, a young man in the next seat asked me:

"Would you mind being quiet, please, so we can hear the speaker?"

That was typical of the feeling around me, I think. These people were not there to see a show, or to hear oratory. They were there because they were interested in a grave public menace and intent on supporting any measure that would correct the condition. As a matter of fact they were less swayed by oratory and what is best described as "ballyhoo" than any crowd I ever saw.

Concrete good for New York City and the nation at large cannot fail to come from this sort of meeting. It crystalizes public sentiment, which eventually is bound to result in action as stern and forceful as the necessity demands. I think the New York American is to be commended in sponsoring this meeting. I am in entire sympathy with Mr. Hearst's call to the public to act.

GANG COMBAT AID PLEDGED

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(Universal.)—Public response to the resolutions and sentiments sounded at the Madison Square Garden mass-meeting to combat gang murder and racketeer rule remained emphatic today.

Hundreds of messages of congratulation continued to the New York American and the committee in charge. Many organizations of citizens pledged co-operation in carrying on the movement. Scores of persons presented definite plans for prosecuting the campaign to cleanse the city of criminals.

Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia School of Journalism and a newspaperman of international fame, telegraphed to the New York American:

"Please accept congratulations for your conception and management of last night's historic assembly. In periods of national distress the security, as well as the progress, of all people depends upon the vision and resourcefulness and the public service of the press."

The Howard S. Evanses and their daughters Evelyn and Laura are sojourning at the Hotel George V in Paris.

The house committee of the Pittsburgh Field Club announces that the usual Saturday evening dinner dances will not be held this Saturday nor Saturday, September 5, but there'll be one on Labor Day, September 7.

Mrs. Elizabeth Marshall Longdon, of Morewood avenue, has returned from a three-week visit at Eagles Mere, where she was a guest at the Lakeside Hotel.

Miss Claudia M. Isay Weds S. A. Greenfield

On Thursday afternoon Miss Claudia Martha Isay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Isay, of Shady avenue, became the bride of Sidney Arthur Greenfield, of Pittsburgh, formerly of Chicago, in the Concordia Club. Rabbi B. Benedict Glazer officiated before an embankment of tropical plants, dahlias, roses and liatrus, supplemented by tall white tapers in brass candelabra.

The bride wore a gown of eggshell satin having long, close-fitting sleeves, and a veil of tulle finished with a cap of rose point lace, a family heirloom. She carried sweetheart roses showered with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Allen I. Schwartz, of Elizabeth, Pa., a classmate of the bride at the University of Chicago, was matron of honor, wearing a gown of beige and brown lace with a matching hat, and carrying an arm bouquet of dahlias in fall shades. Bernard R. Greenfield served as his brother's best man. The ushers included Charles Goldberg, Alfred Rothschild, of Hammond, Ind., and Milton Isay, brother of the bride. The bride's mother wore a gown of black chiffon with a shoulder corsage of Claudius Pernet roses and lilies of the valley.

There was a reception for 100 guests, and a family dinner for 28 guests. The oval bridal table was centered with dahlias, roses and liatrus.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield left for a Canadian wedding trip and upon their return will be at home in the Ambassador apartments about September 15.

CLUBS TO FURNISH PARK MANSE

Women Will Help County In Efforts to Restore Historic Homestead

As Allegheny County's part in the George Washington Bicentennial, local club women are again to engage in an undertaking of importance. Under the supervision of the home department of the State Federation, which so successfully put on the home exposition in the South Side Market House a year ago and the art in industry exposition in Kaufmann's this spring, the women will furnish in period the old Stone Manse in South Park after it has been restored by the County Commissioners.

Mrs. John M. Phillips, chairman of the Federation's home department, met yesterday with Mrs. H. J. Fox, president of the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs, and Paul B. Riis, director of county parks, to discuss the women's part in the work.

It is to be wholly an Allegheny County project with Mrs. Fox as chairman of the committees. The plan is to appoint a committee in charge of each of the seven rooms and in the spring before the close of the school year to have the school children make pilgrimages to the historic old place. It will be permanently maintained as a landmark in local history.

The house is the old Miller homestead which was built in 1808 by James Miller, son of Oliver Miller, the first settler in Snowden Township. It's occupants were linked up, albeit innocently, with the Whisky Rebellion, as told by Henry Christopher McCook in his book, "The Latimers."

Built In 1808

Until 1927 when the house was taken over by the county it was occupied by descendants of the Millers. It is staunchly built and the wooden pegs with which its timbers were held together are still there. Other evidences of its age, such as the handmade iron hardware, the handturned porch posts and many other details also remain.

The house has been used by the county as the keynote in developing that corner of the park, for even the beautiful wading pool has been built to harmonize with the character of the house.

The women plan to furnish the house completely, to plant a Martha Washington garden and even to restore and furnish the old spring house.

Mrs. Lindsay Gives Second Political Tea

At the second political tea which Mrs. Alexander P. Lindsay is giving this afternoon on behalf of her husband's campaign (Mr. Lindsay is a candidate for the Common Pleas bench), the hostess is assisted by Mrs. H. P. Wherrett, Mrs. Frank Detweiler, Mrs. M. W. Heilman, Mrs. George M. Swan, Mrs. Carl S. Lamb and Mrs. James L. Weldon.

Judge Sara Soffel and Clarence B. Nixon, both County Court candidates, and Mr. Lindsay will address the women at 3 o'clock in the Lindsay home, Briar Cliff road.

Mrs. Saudek Heads Club Home Department

Of more than ordinary interest is the announcement that Evelyn Gardiner Saudek (Mrs. Victor Saudek) has accepted the chairmanship of the home department of the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. Saudek is also director of the KDKA home forum, a position which she has held for two years.

Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, president of the Congress, will be hostess at a luncheon in Congress House tomorrow, the guests to be chairmen of all departments and committees and the directors. Luncheon will be followed by a round table discussion of the plans of departments and committees for the coming club year. The following chairmen return to the departments and committees over which they presided last year: Miss Helen Cowan, evening department; Mrs. May T. Neff, literature; Mrs. J. A. Gesler, welfare, and Miss Helen Bennett, as director of the school of physical education. Mrs. D. Allen McCully has again been appointed Congress historian. Mrs. J. Charles Wilson will again plan programs and Mrs. H. G. Taylor will have charge of the social-hospitality duties. Mrs. Ralph S. Davis returns as chairman of publicity and editor of the Congress Outlet, the official organ.

The board of directors will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for the regular semi-monthly meeting.

Miss Gismondi Bride At Church Ceremony

This morning Miss Ida Rose Gismondi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gismondi, of Farragut street, East End, became the bride of Michael E. Catanzaro, of Mayflower street, East End, in Our Lady of Help Christians' Church, Meadow street. The Rev. C. Rosatio officiated. The altar was banked with ferns and gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of eggshell satin with a full court train. Her veil of tulle was arranged in cloister fashion, finished with a wreath of orange blossoms, and her shower bouquet was of orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Mary Catanzaro, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of deep coral satin with a brown velvet hat and carrying talisman roses. Tolstoi Fabiani served as best man and the ushers included Matthew A. Catanzaro, brother of the bride, and Anthony J. De Simone.

The wedding breakfast for the immediate family was held in the Knights of Columbus Club, after which Mr. and Mrs. Catanzaro left for the East. They will reside in the East End upon their return.

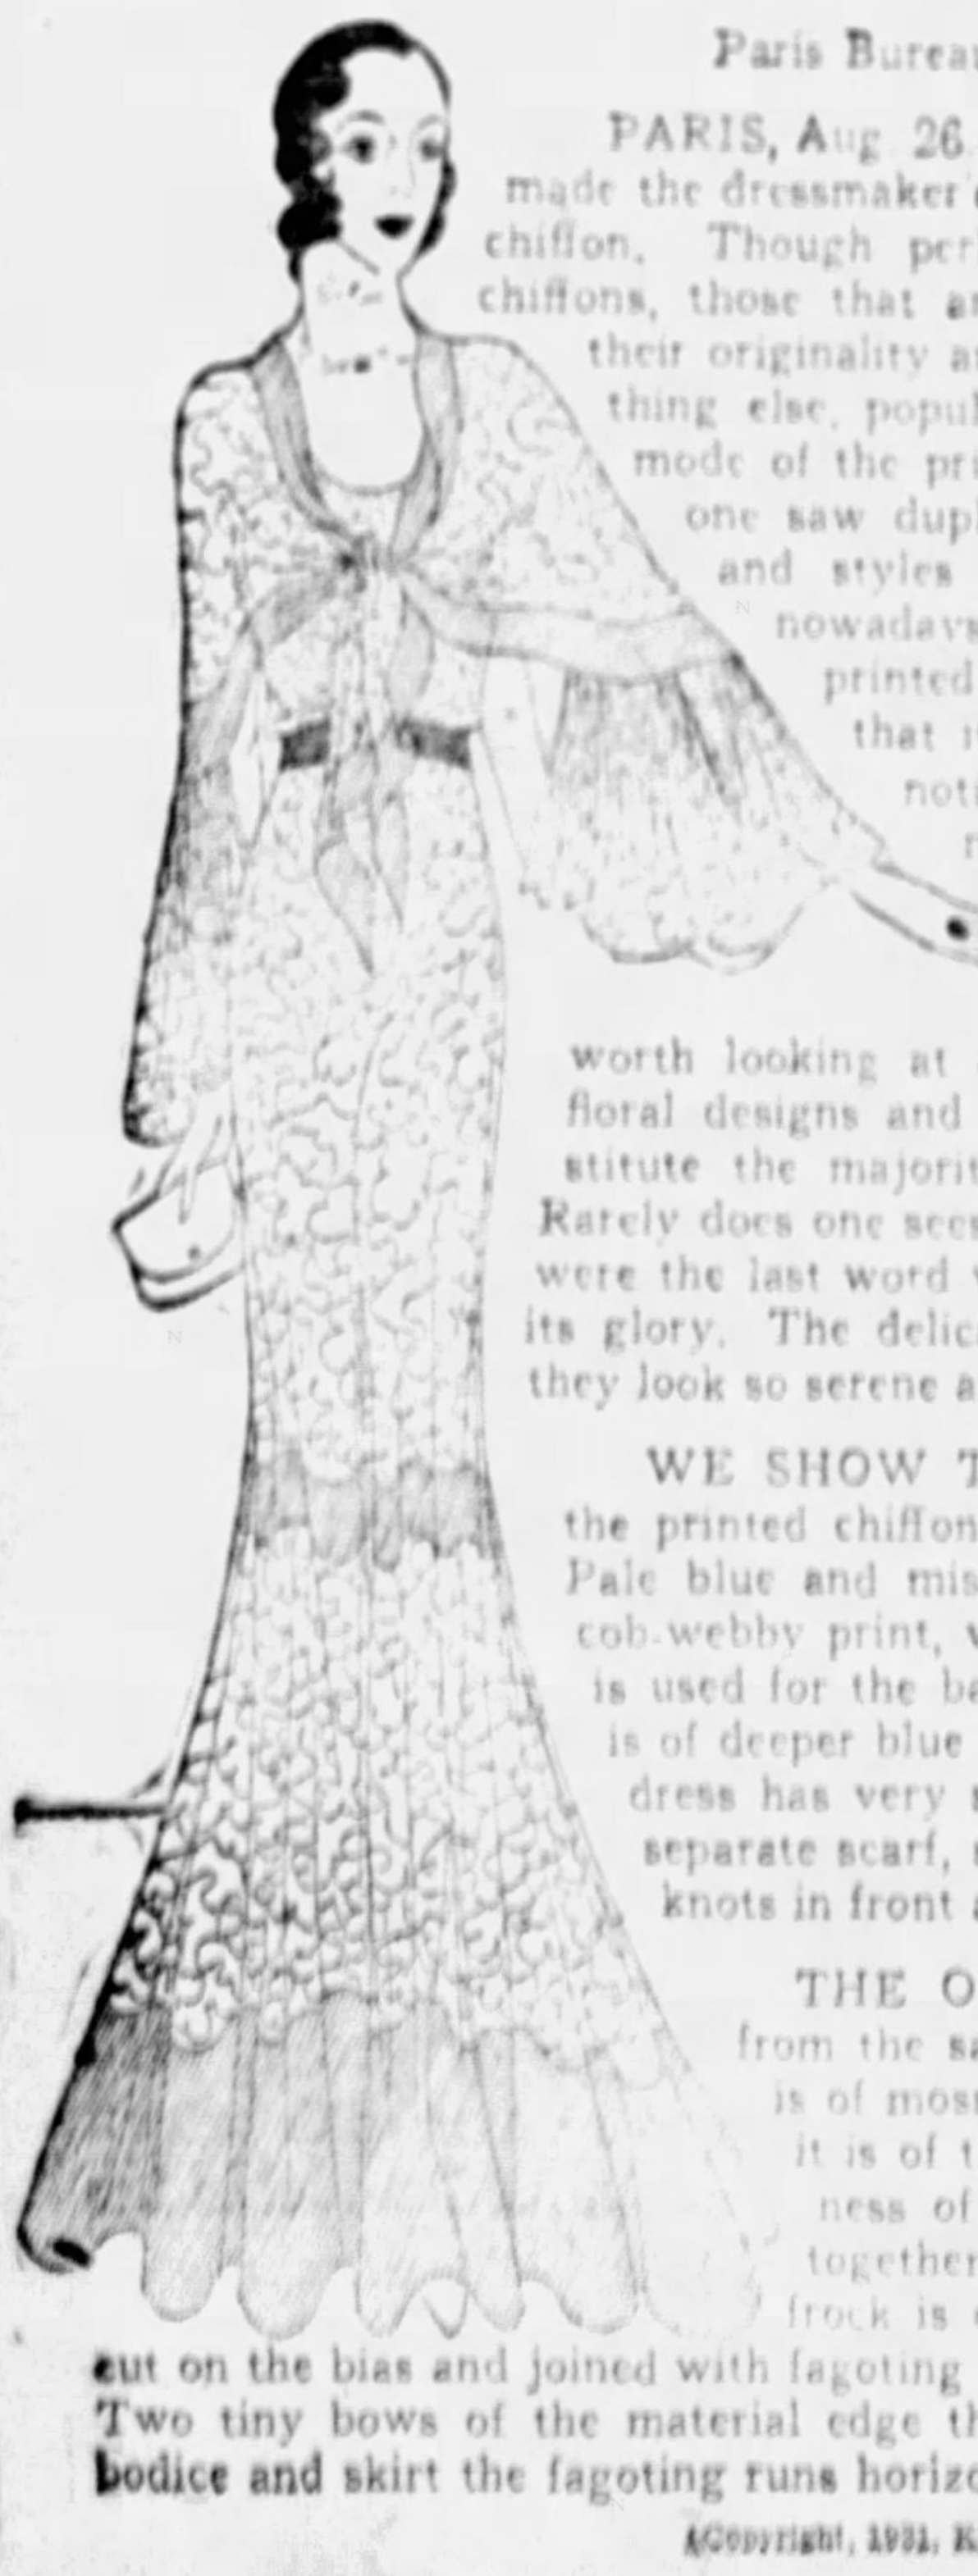
PRINTED CHIFFONS RARE, BUT, NOTICEABLE FOR ORIGINALITY

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Quite obviously absence has made the dressmaker's heart more partial to printed chiffon. Though perhaps one sees fewer printed chiffons, those that are glimpsed are noticeable for their originality and charm. Just like everything else, popularity tended to kill the mode of the printed chiffon frock and one saw duplicates of the prints and styles everywhere. But nowadays the wearer of a printed chiffon knows that it is going to be noticed and commented on and is therefore very careful to see that her frock is well worth looking at and studying. Small figures, floral designs and delicate, misty traceries constitute the majority of the prints shown here. Rarely does one sees the splashy, vivid prints that were the last word when the chiffon frock was in its glory. The delicate designs are best of all, as they look so serene and cool, and are soft to the eye.

WE SHOW TODAY the latest version of the printed chiffon frock from Louiseboulanger. Pale blue and misty gray are combined in the cob-webby print, while plain, light blue chiffon is used for the band trimming, while the belt is of deeper blue ribbon buckled in back. The dress has very short sleeves and there is a separate scarf, shown in the sketch, which knots in front and has pleated side ruffles.

* * *

THE OTHER MODEL is also from the same designer. The dress is of moss green toile de soie and it is of the chemise type with the fullness of the bodice and skirt bunched together beneath the belt in front. The frock is composed entirely of piecings cut on the bias and joined with fagoting about one-half inch in width. Two tiny bows of the material edge the cuff. At the back of the bodice and skirt the fagoting runs horizontally.

MACKAYE GETS RECOGNITION

John Angus Mackaye, former Pittsburgh newspaperman, is one of the first new authors discovered in a nation-wide search instituted by Roane Phillips, editor of the Cosmopolitan, in an effort to rejuvenate American popular writing.

Mackaye, whose story, "The Man Who Forgot Consequences," was purchased by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate, has been out of the Pittsburgh newspaper field for about 15 years. For a number of years he has been employed at the Cambria County Home at Ebensburg. Old-time Pittsburghers remember his vivid writings while on the staff of the old Pittsburgh Times and later the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

TYPHOON KILLS 3,200 IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Aug. 26.—INS.—The toll of dead in the Chinese flood disaster was increased by at least 3,200 by the typhoon which struck the devastated Hankow area, a check-up indicated today.

Approximately 2,200 survivors of the floods were believed to have lost their lives in Hankow when the howling wind overturned sampans and swept away scores of homes and buildings already weakened by the flood waters. New deaths at Wuchang totalled 1,000.

In addition, four Chinese were killed in Shanghai when they were trapped in the vaults of the National City Bank by the flood waters.

Meanwhile Hankow began today to hope for some alleviation of its suffering. The Yangtse River, which rose to a depth of 53 feet during the height of the floods, receded several inches last night.

POLICE BALKED IN SEARCH FOR KIDNAPERS

Disappearance of 3 Men Unsolved; Carrier Pigeon Messenger for Abductors

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The supposed kidnaping of two young men, one of them a prominent broker and the other a son of an attorney, and the mysterious disappearance at sea of a millionaire Japanese presented county and federal authorities with a series of perplexing problems.

Nassau County authorities were working to trace Charles Marvin Rosenthal, 24-year-old broker, whose family was keeping a vigil for further word from his kidnapers as to how to pay them the $100,000 ransom.

BLACKMAIL VICTIM

The father of Edgar F. Hazelton Jr. revealed that he received a telephone message instructing him to dispatch $2,000 ransom by carrier pigeon to the supposed abductors of his son.

The disappearance of Hisashi Fujimura from aboard the liner Belgenland took a new twist when federal investigators revealed he had been the victim of blackmailers. The theory was advanced that the wealthy importer submitted to extortionists to conceal revelations concerning his private life.

He already had paid over $310,000 to a mysterious band of enemies, authorities said.

Mrs. Nellie K. Rosenthal, of Lawrence, L. I., mother of the missing broker, has notified the kidnapers that the $100,000 ransom has been raised.

PIGEON MESSENGER

Hazelton, instead of sending the $2,000 ransom, attached a message to the legs of a carrier pigeon which he found in a box at a designated street corner in Flushing, demanding some word from his son.

Shortly afterward he received a telephone message ordering him to "send that money." He turned the second carrier pigeon over to police.

Hazelton once defended Ruth Snyder.

BOYS' KIDNAPER ELUDES SEARCH

LONE PINE, Cal., Aug. 26—(AP.)—A thorough search of the desert and mountain area near here failed to give a clue today to the whereabouts of Henry Billingsley, who, Monday, kidnaped his two small sons in an airplane stolen at Bishop, Cal., and landed the ship on a dry lake near here.

Sheriff Tom Hutchinson said he would abandon the hunt in Inyo County and request authorities in Los Angeles and Bakersfield, Cal., to make a check of rooming houses and hotels for the trio.

When Billingsley seized the children from his estranged wife, he said he was "going to kill everybody."

The father took off in the stolen plane and landed it successfully, although he had taken only two flying lessons.

Notes found in the abandoned plane demanded immunity from prosecution and that his wife return to him.

POLICE ON TRAIL OF KIDNAPERS

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Spurred by the discovery of a rendezvous occupied for a few hours by John J. Lynch, Chicago sportsman, and his kidnapers, authorities today were believed closing in on the abductors and their wealthy victim.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the Cook County state's attorney's office, assumed personal charge of the search, which he concentrated on an area 10 miles square.

Roche and his aids, at a cottage on Pell Lake, eight miles southeast of here, uncovered evidence that a party thought to have been the kidnaping gang had been there a short time.

Chain Store Leader Denies Farm Plan

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP.)—Albert H. Morrill, president of the National Chain Store Association, today contradicted a recent statement by Prof. Walter B. Pitkin, of Columbia University that chain stores were planning to go into the farm business on a large scale.

In an article in the magazine, "The Country Home," Prof. Pitkin said a chain store representative was going about the country with funds for purchase or lease of thousands of acres of farm land.

Conner Far Ahead In Mississippi Vote

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Victory of Mike Sennett Conner, lawyer, in the run-over of the gubernatorial Democratic primary election seemed assured today as mounting returns gave him a substantial lead over Hugh White, millionaire lumberman.

Returns from half of the 1,590 precincts gave Conner 64,841; White, 42,787.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Let Boy Friend Do All the Talking About Love

Why does the ardent boy friend suddenly cool and fade out of the picture?

Plenty of girls would like to know.

Just last month the Wonderful Man couldn't see enough of them.

Called every night, phoned two or three times a day, even sent special delivery notes between lunch and dinner.

And now what a change!

He's distant and different; always has some other engagement when the Girl Friend wants a date.

Why?

Marjorie has wondered why—but she doesn't know.

Why do men love 'em and leave 'em? Here's the answer in her letter:

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I have seen so often how you gave help and advice to people that I thought perhaps you might be kind enough to help me with my problem. I seem to be in a whirlpool and I don't know what's wrong.

"My mother and I have been going to a certain restaurant here in the city for our meals and there we got acquainted with a man I felt sure I could learn to like. He is cashier there and after we had been going there quite a while he began saying 'hello' and finally one day he asked if he could take me to dinner on his night off. I said yes and gave him my phone number. Sure enough the following week he called up and took me to dinner and a show and later came up to my home and met my dad.

INDIFFERENT YOUNG MAN

"Two weeks later he took me out again. He asked if I liked him, and I told him I loved him. And then the trouble started. He told me that he liked me and thought I was nice and sweet but he didn't want me to take him too seriously because he was in love last year and it broke up and he doesn't expect to fall in love again.

"I know you'll say I'm foolish but I can't help it. I have met numbers of young men but I never felt this way before. I know I love him. When we're together he sometimes acts as if he cared a lot, and then next time he acts different—cold—towards me.

"My friends say he does like me . . . that he is just careful and cautious and watches his step on account of his other affair. And they say I am making a big mistake by showing him I care a lot. Well, I do know that when I do show I care, he does get cooler.

"Please tell me what I should do. Why is he like that? Should I try to forget him or hope that he will care for me? I have learned to love him a great deal. Please help me. I am so miserable.

MARJORIE."

Your friends are right, Marjorie. You're spoiling your own chances. No man wants a girl who is too easy. If she's that easy for him won't she be equally easy for some other guy? That's the way a man reasons. And there's sense in that reasoning.

Also a man values the thing he fights for. He loves the mystery and zest and difficulty of a struggle. It stirs his blood and warms his pride. It changes life from a humdrum drag to a challenging adventure. And because he is allured by the adventure he is able to forget the dangers and penalties of love.

SCARED AWAY

For remember, Marjorie, most men don't want to fall in love. They know how love can upset them and wreck their nice comfortable bachelor programs. And a girl must be very tantalizing an alluring to offset their well-grounded fears.

If you had been a real smart little girl you would have let this man see that you liked him and enjoyed being with him . . . that you thought he was a good guy and mighty interesting . . . but would have let him do the talking about 'love.' And you would have been a little slow about being convinced that he was your Hero. You'd have kept him on his toes . . . given him 'a run for his money' . . . but instead you scared him off by looking too anxious yourself.

You frightened him. You also bored him. For there's nothing more tiresome to a man, honey, than a woman who can talk and think only of love. He wants a chum. A smart, lively comrade, not just a permanent petting partner. You failed him in that, too.

BE REGULAR

And now can you mend matters? Perhaps, if you'll use some self-control and common sense. Cut out the moonlight 'n' roses act for a while and be Regular. Stop talking about love when you see him. Stop sighing and mooning and fluttering and flushing . . . laugh and joke and tease and be different. Gather your other friends about you. Throw yourself into some new interests. Make yourself worth loving and winning—and I'm betting his interest will return. Here's hoping!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Typhoid Fever 'Carriers' Should Be Supervised

Recently, after a wedding held in New York City, 15 persons were stricken with typhoid fever. The Health Department immediately investigated and found that a woman who had assisted in the preparation of the food was a "typhoid carrier."

Dr. Copeland

A typhoid carrier is an individual who carries the germs of typhoid fever without being infected. Usually such persons are not aware of the fact that they are carriers.

It is the duty of all public health bureaus to follow up and carefully study all cases of this sort. The menace of typhoid carriers is apparent and the results of what they can do are readily seen, as in this recent wedding dinner with its unhappy sequel.

In this instance all those who were stricken with the disease had eaten chicken salad which had been prepared by the carrier. This woman is now under the observation of the Department of Health and she will be required to conform to the rules relating to typhoid carriers. These rules prescribe regular supervision by the Department of Health and forbid the carrier to cook or serve food.

Typhoid fever is caused by taking into the body typhoid germs which may be present in contaminated water, milk or other food. The disease is exceedingly rare now, but at one time was numbered among the most dreaded diseases of mankind.

Within the past few years there has been perfected a vaccine against typhoid. This vaccine, when injected at weekly intervals for three weeks, gives protection from typhoid fever. It is called a "triple vaccine," because in addition to protecting against typhoid fever, it protects against two types of "paratyphoid" fever, diseases very similar to typhoid fever.

This injection is given to all soldiers as well as to most government employes. It is because of this preventive that one never hears of a case of typhoid fever in the United States Army or Navy.

If you are living in a neighborhood where there has been any typhoid, or if you are contemplating a trip abroad through countries where the water and milk supply are of doubtful quality, you should be inoculated. The injection is simple, painless and will give practically complete protection against a terrible disease.

It is hoped that eventually all typhoid fever carriers will be under the close supervision of the proper health officials. When this is the case there will no longer be any sudden outbreaks of this disease.

Answers to Health Queries

Anxious. Q.—What benefit is yeast to the body?

A.—It is helpful in correcting constipation.

J. M. Q.—What do you advise for freckles?

A.—Use equal parts of lemon juice and peroxide as a bleach.

Household Hints

We use so much lemon juice during the warm weather that it is a time saver to squeeze a dozen lemons at a time and strain the juice into a bottle for future use. Lemonade is a mere matter of a moment.

When giving a person any article of clothing that you have made yourself, include in the package the pieces left over from the cutting out. They may seem very small, but invariably the person would love to have just those few bits for patching later on.

The windows in the motor-car curtains soon become clouded unless care is taken. Rub them with slightly warm cylinder oil. Then wipe off with a piece of clean cloth. A clean cloth dampened with gasoline removes the remaining traces of oil and leaves the isinglass like new.

Mistakes Valuable Only When We Learn Lessons From Them, Says Fay King

WE DO NOT LINGER TO WEEP AS WE WEED THE GARDEN, AND SNIP OFF BLIGHTED BUDS EYES ARE IN THE FRONT OF OUR HEADS TO LOOK FORWARD—NOT IN BACK!
THE BEST WAY TO MEND THE PAST IS TO FORGET IT AND CONCENTRATE YOUR MENTAL ENERGY UPON THE PRESENT
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

There are many persons who stumble along in the present not seeing opportunities for improvement or happiness, because they are too busy looking backwards at mistakes and regrets of the past.

Our eyes are in the front of our heads to see where we are GOING, not in the back of our heads to watch where we have been.

In every life there are regrets. Mistakes we might have avoided. Opportunities we failed to grasp. But sitting and concentrating on them will never eliminate them.

The thing to do is to forget them. Only making the most of the present can mend the past.

Mistakes are only a valuable experience if we learn our lesson from them and so avoid making them again.

Heart of a Wife -:- -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

"But I do know," Lillian said emphatically as I confessed my ignorance of what reactions might be Katherine's and her husband's when he should come back from South America where he had been immured during a long engineering expedition.

"Katrina is as true and staunch as they make 'em," she said, "but this brother-cousin of yours"—at her withering tone, I remembered that Lillian never had liked Jack Bickett—"seems to me, saving your presence, to be about the last egg in the cold storage basket. Just look at what he pulled on this last trip. Left her for that engineering trip to South America to be gone two or three years, and refused either to take her along or to permit her to practice her profession while he was gone. The man has an abnormal slant on things, I tell you. His wife without a relative in all the world, and no friend within a thousand miles, for you know how he would not go away from home himself or let her meet anyone—they lived like hermits—and he expecting her to sit in a two-by-two apartment all the time he was gone with nothing to do but think of him and write to him. By the mercy of Allah you needed her sorely just then and after a trying period you finally secured a reluctant consent from him for her to stay with you while he was gone. And he's written her at the rate of one letter every six months since he's been gone. Oh, the love of a high-spirited woman like Katrina thrives on that sort of treatment."

"And there is already a woman down there," I said reflectively.

"Exactly, and a dangerous wren she is too. I've heard of her and I'd like to have the wringing of her neck. She's a sister of Jack's business partner and her one virtue is being a 'wilderness woman.' She shines in the wilds, but in civilization she's a mess. However, I know of two homes she's broken up when she's been a member of these expeditions. She's one of of these articles who believes in the complete individuality of the individual. You know the theory—if you see a man you happen to like, you go out and annex him, regardless of his wife or aged mother or seven children or anything else."

"Provided you can," I interposed laughing, although I did not feel particularly mirthful.

"Well, it isn't so hard to do when you are the only white woman within a thousand miles," Lillian retorted, "and she generally takes good care that there's no other woman in camp."

"You think then ——" I began.

"I don't think. I pretty nearly know," she retorted. "Oh, I know how hard it is to get mail from there and all that. But it isn't so far in the interior as his other trip was and she got letters much more frequently then, for I've heard her speak of receiving them.

"But if her husband doesn't choose to write her, Hal Meredith certainly makes up for his dereliction," she went on. "That is, he was setting a record before I went away. Every foreign mail brought her a letter, and generally a package with some remembrance of his travels."

"She's still receiving them," I said gravely.

"Hal and Kathie were sweethearts when they were just out of college, weren't they?"

"Not acknowledged sweethearts," I answered, although I knew that she knew that old story nearly as well as I, and was only asking to check her memory with mine. "He was an interne and she a student nurse in the same hospital, and they were very much in love with each other."

"But before Hal had a chance to tell Katherine about it, Lucia Thayer, daughter of the head of the hospital, and desperately in love with Hal, went to her father, whose idol she was, with a story involving a married man with whom she had been carrying on a flirtation. There wasn't a word of truth in it as it happened, but Lucia made her father believe there was and herself proposed the scheme that her father should save her 'name' by getting Hal Meredith's consent to marry her. Hal owed her father his education, and a peculiar debt of gratitude besides, and when the old man, broken and despairing, came to him, Hal put all thoughts of Katherine away and married his patron's daughter, being rewarded incidentally by being aided to one of the finest medical careers going. How about it, old dear? Have I got the dope straight?"

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Don't fail to drink six glasses of water a day. The kidneys are an organ of elimination; by drinking water more of the body wastes are eliminated. All avenues of elimination should be active.

Hands are not precisely lily white during the silly season. They are collectors of freckles, tan, moth patches. They burn in the sun and grow scale like little fishes. Need a hand lotion at least once a day and the leavings of the facial anointing at night. A simple bleach is made by combining four ounces of rubbing alcohol, two ounces of rosewater and 15 drops of simple tincture of benzoin. Winter not far away, and mottled, mildewed little mitts won't look so well with the gay evening robe.

Every woman should develop an appreciation of beautiful fabrics and beautiful colors. If a femme is about to invest in a new sartorial drapery, she might as well have one that contributes an element of charm as to select some drab shade that will make her look duddy. A saleswoman in a large shop says "We have to have ugly materials; some women prefer them." A depressing statement. Clothes have a psychological effect. Gay, luscious colors; gay, luscious spirits. The die-hards haven't learned that a girl can be as sweet and proper in a red frock as in a somber gray or dingy brown one.

Correct Manners

Wedding Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. How should wedding announcements be worded in a case where there is a stepfather?

2. Is it proper for the bride to wear white lace gauntlets instead of white kid? (The wedding is to be formal.) M. M.

1. If there is, as we always hope, friendliness between the stepdaughter and her stepfather, the best of form is to refer to the bride-to-be as the "daughter" of the mother and the stepfather. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore Adams request the honor of your presence at the marriage
of their daughter
Miss Adele Foster Johnson
to

And for the announcement, the same form:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore Adams
have the honor of announcing the marriage
to

If this form is not agreeable to the bride-to-be, she may have the third line read:

at the marriage of
Mrs. Adams's daughter.

Too, the Miss may be omitted before the name, but usually it is used, when the last name of the name on the third line differs from the last name of the name on the first line.

2. Yes.

At Home Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married next month and I will have to go to another state to live for awhile. I don't know just how long I will be there—possibly two months or more. Now my question is, on the announcements is it necessary to have "At Home" and should any special date be mentioned, and should I put my address in the other state on it?

Any further help you can give me on this subject will be greatly appreciated. K. S.

Since it is not at all necessary to send At Home cards with the marriage announcement, and since you are so uncertain as to your future address, I suggest that you do not send At Home cards. Instead wait until you are settled, and then give a housewarming, perhaps, and send your new address, in the invitations, to your guests-to-be.

The Girl Walks Between

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A claims that when a girl goes out with two men she walks on the inside and the two men on the outside.

B claims that the girl walks between the two men. J. S.

B is right.

Hurry Before School Opens to Have Your Child's Eyes Examined at Our Special Children's August Clinic

The marvelous success of this clinic is due to the discovery that many a child's eyesight would have been found defective in the school-test and the child sent home for treatment. Reaction to strain on the eyes often does not seriously assert itself until sometime after the strain. Therefore, it is well to have the child's eyes examined before school starts. We make no charge for these examinations. If the child does not need glasses our Dr. Grozman will frankly and gladly tell you so. The wonderful service we give in the correction of cross eyes without operation, is one of the most modern features of our recently enlarged new optical rooms.

Across the Kalahari Desert in a Ford

THIS is the story of 3500 miles of grueling automobile travel through the sandy coastal region of Southwest Africa, across the Kalahari Desert and through N'Gamiland.

Five naturalists, representing the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, three South Africans and three native boys were in the de Schauensee expedition. Seldom do white men visit this country. Seldom do white men penetrate to the last remote stronghold of the fast disappearing African Bushman. The trip was made in a Ford car and three Ford trucks.

Traveling over rough, irregular trails—leaving those trails to crash through tangled, thorny underbrush—traversing dry, parched areas that had not seen rain in years—the Fords made a remarkable record for stamina and reliable mechanical operation. Through days of summer heat and nights of freezing cold, on occasions when the water supply was almost gone and delay would have been fatal, the Fords went steadily on and on. And, finally, when the long trip was over, they were sold at good prices in the little village of Maun.

Never were sales made under similar conditions. The purchasers knew what the Fords had been through and sought proof of good condition after so many miles of strenuous travel.

So they were driven along the river trail, turned abruptly off into deep sand-beds—extricated without need of help—and subjected to other tests in this land of difficult transportation. Sales were quickly made after such a demonstration.

This is but one of many interesting stories about the ability of the Ford to stand up under the severest driving conditions. The extra demands of long, hard travel reveal the high quality of its materials and extraordinary care in manufacturing. Whether you buy a Ford for a scientific expedition along rough African trails, or for every-day motoring in a busy city, you will develop a very real and definite pride in its stamina and dependability.

For here is a car that needs no coddling—no sparing from the rough places and the hard jobs. An important consideration in its designing was the realization that it would be used by millions of people, in different ways, in every section of the world. So it is made with a reserve of strength and power beyond the needs of the average day.

That is the Ford policy. That is the secret of the long-lived satisfactory performance of the Ford. Every part is built to endure—to give you many thousands of miles of economical, care-free motoring.

ALONG RADIO LANES

The Loud Speaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—The open season for noisy radios continues to be a fruity topic for letters to the editor. The heat of this summer has made the season more open than ever. The result — more letters than ever.

V. De Pauw, of New York City, sums up neatly the whole question of the incessant din of loud-speakers and its effect not only upon the health of citizens in general but upon the health of the radio business in particular. Says De Pauw:

"I am writing you to suggest that you consider in your column the question of the decreasing popularity of the radio due to the persistent infringement by loud radio receivers on other people's quiet, privacy and sleep. It sounds like a trivial thing compared to the millions of dollars invested in the industry, but it wouldn't be the first instance of a major institution being tripped up by an insignificant detail.

"While I have enjoyed my radio from time to time, I have had enough of it and now do not desire one because of hearing it all day long from people who do not confine their entertainment to their homes, but insist on dinning it into the ears of a neighborhood—from 7 a. m. to 12 midnight and later.

"Wouldn't it be wise for the big men in the radio business to train people generally to tone down their radios and let the other fellow choose his own brand of entertainment? I am convinced that ultimately radio will kill its own goose if it fails to see the importance of this vital factor."

The correspondent's complaint has become a general one in the big cities. Board of health ordinances are apparently not respected nor are the police particularly alert in lessening what is really a disturbance of the peace. Perhaps, it is because most people subjected to the nuisance do not want to take the trouble of making a court issue out of it. They either suffer in silence or air their protests to their families and to the newspapers.

Wholesale Budget Spree on As Economy Wave Hits Movie Colony

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.

Hollywood stars are hiring investment counselors to put them on budgets, clear up their debts and help them save money for a rainy day.

More than a dozen of these firms now operate in the film colony. For the most part, they get the star's checks each week from the studio and deposit them in a joint signature account. Every check the star issues has to be countersigned. All bills are paid by the investment company, which sends each client an itemized statement at the end of the month, showing how much has been spent on clothes, cars, household expenses, etc.

Usually, the stars receive so much spending money each week. They also are allowed an emergency account of a few hundred dollars.

Dorothy Mackaill

It is the policy of these firms to tactfully dissuade clients from foolish expenditure, and to recommend sound investments. If the occasion arises, they also aid in divorce property settlements, or take over blackmail demands.

A single firm, the Equitable Investment Corporation, handles the affairs of Constance Bennett, Warner Baxter, Robert Ames, James Gleason, Helen Twelvetrees, Dorothy Mackaill and 29 other prominent players. Rex Cole, vice president of the company, declares that the stock crash and the depression has made the film people increasingly money-conscious. They are learning to save enough in their five years or more on the screen to make them independent for the rest of their life. They are learning too that when it comes time to talk new contracts the producer fears a fat bank account more than anything else in the world. And they are enjoying a new freedom from debts and attachments.

Naturally, there will always be a few spectacular spenders and bankrupts. But the economy wave is on.

LATEST GOSSIP

This month's leather medal goes to the KNX radio announcer who described "Secrets of a Secretary" as "a delightful expose of New York's 400." . . . Benny Rubin, the boy with the Yankee Doodle laugh, has an offer from the Palace in New York to organize and be master of ceremonies of a complete vaudeville program. . . .

Billy Dove

Billie Dove has a year and a half more to go on her contract with Howard Hughes. . . . Gus Arnheim and his orchestra will appear in M. G. M.'s new musical "Flying High." . . . William Le Baron has decided against sending the "Marcheta" company to Spain. A crew of technicians will be assembled in Barcelona to take atmospheric shots in Spain. There is talk of the company going on location in Mexico. . . . The trial scene of "An American Tragedy," they bring a row-boat into the courtroom for Phillips Holmes to re-enact the murder of his sweetheart. The man behind me complained softly:

"Where's the lake?"

WHAT A CHANCE HE MISSED

So far as I know, Ray Milland holds the record for novel ways of crashing the acting game in Hollywood. Some years ago, the young player was doing fairly well with British International Pictures. Coming out here, he found the going much tougher. In fact, he might never have found a job in pictures if he hadn't been a sharp-shooter. The studios finally hired him to shoot cigarets out of stars' mouths or put bullet holes through their hats.

His break finally did come, however. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer put him under an acting contract. And now Fox has signed him to play opposite Marguerite Churchill in "Ambassador Bill."

PRISON STORY FOR AYRES

Star of Roland Brown's first picture for Universal will be Lewis Ayres.

The story, dealing with a youth falsely condemned to death, will be called "Gallows." Production starts in about three weeks, with Brown directing. In the meanwhile, he is on a trip to San Quentin prison to get atmosphere for the death-house scenes.

Brown is the man who wrote "The Doorway to Hell" and who wrote and directed "Quick Millions."

STRANGE PLANT IDENTIFIED

Widespread interest in the strange plant which sprang up in a strawberry patch of William Molzer, gardener, of Washington street, Munhall, was shown by readers of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph in which a photograph and description of the "mystery plant" appeared.

Several readers, including Mrs. R. W. Glenn, of 509 Orchard avenue, Avalon, identified the odd plant which has small orchid-like flowers followed by pods, as the "Martynia" often seen in the West where it is commonly known as "Devil's Heart." She had one in her yard until several weeks ago.

O. H. Kilpatrick, of Dubois, Pa., a native of Texas, wrote that the plant grows wild in that state where it is regarded as a noxious weed. Others said the pods when green were used in mixed pickles. James N. Thomas, of Hyndman, Pa., ventured the opinion the plant was "Ague Root" having medicinal properties.

Politics

Peggy Shannon portrays a girl who becomes involved in big town politics in "The Secret Call," film opening Friday in both the Fulton and the Sheridan Square.

Dye, 62, Waynesburg real estate broker, who was knocked down by a truck in Liberty avenue, while in Pittsburgh on business January 8, has filed suit for $40,000 in Common Pleas Court against Warren H. Alston, owner of a hauling business. Dye's right arm was broken, his side injured and he suffered internal hurts, he says.

Two Boys Shot, Man Held in Jail

Accused of shooting two boys in the rear of his home, Alex Rodgers, 32, a Negro, of 2420 Breckenridge street, was committed to the County Jail late yesterday by Alderman Martin J. NEW YORKERS OPEN CRUSADE ON GANGSTERS

My Life is in DANGER!

My whole family is in danger if I tell what I saw—but I'll not be intimidated by threats from a mob of white livered rats who think they can run our country!

Too long American citizens have stood idly by and let gangland trample our pride in the dust! Too long have we kept silent ... afraid to testify against this menace!

I'LL JOIN THE CRUSADE AGAINST GANGSTERS AND RACKETEERS!

Threaten me! To Hell with them! I saw who fired that gun. I'll talk! I'll tell! I'll offer my life again if necessary to keep America safe for my grand children and their children's children!

IT COULD HAVE HAPPENED TO YOU »

Off with the old love ... on with the new! A new girl ... a new face ... new kisses ... new ecstasies!
"Gentlemen of the Jury, Roberta Alden loved the defendant with all the strength of her soul!"
Her arms, once heaven to him, were now like strong white chains.

"An American Tragedy" is just what the name implies. It didn't happen to imaginary people. It is a true story. It might have happened to you, or the boy across the street, or the girl next door.

It is a drama of youth, on the threshold of life ... awakening to love! Eager and bold! Plunging along dangerous paths, scorning advice.

It is life as you might have lived it! And in it you can feel the throb of your heart ... the ecstasy of your first kiss ... and taste the salt of the world's tears.

"AN AMERICAN TRAGEDY"

Paramount's most important contribution to the screen.

Novel by THEODORE DREISER, with PHILLIPS HOLMES, SYLVIA SIDNEY and FRANCES DEE.

Directed by JOSEF VON STERNBERG

"An American Tragedy" has happened a million times and will happen a million times more whenever the wildfire of youth burns away age old barriers! It is not new ... and never old! It could have happened to you!

Legacy

I doubt that fate has much in store for me,
For I have played and loitered on the way;
The narrow path holds little ecstasy
For one who figures life a holiday.

If I must make my bed beneath the moon,
And filch my food from any passing hand,
I still will count my heritage a boon—
And keep my faith—and strive to understand.

But you must have the best—a laughing lad
To turn a latch unerringly at night;
Sweet, dimpled children who will make you glad
You once erased a vagrant from your sight.

Cool, sky-blue days—and just occasionally
The time to wonder what became of me.

—Don Wahn.

A Form of Criticism

Take it from Sidney Blackmer, of the Lenore Ulric tribe. A disgruntled actor was standing near the Ace Music Hall where Lou is the Holtz show.

He saw a former pal (an actor who was working) ankle by. The pal didn't pause even to say "Howdy," so the idle one groaned:

"Oh, boy! If I had a coupla eggs and a few slices of that guy I could have a marvelous breakfast!"

Tee, Hee!

The telephone company now gives you the correct time by striking a gong. Izzy Elinson, however, wishes they'd try giving the correct number by striking the operator.

Observation

It was in a speakeasy and a lad was buying beer for his friends and drinking two-bit whisky. Some of us overheard him moan about conditions—and how he didn't know from where his rent coin was coming.

Which reminded one of us of O. Henry's passage:

"The poor are notoriously temperamental, and when they get money they exhibit a strong tendency to spend it for stuffed olives and enlarged crayon portraits instead of giving it to the installment man!"

Lou Meltzer added that a good slogan for the girl show would be:

"Give the tired business man a swift kick and a coupla shakes!"

Boff!

They tell of the ham who complained long and loud to the producer about the size of his name in the lights.

"Oh," groaned the actor, "I know I'm not a star, but I do think that my name should be featured, at least. Why don't you mention the name of the show plus the principals, and then before my name put: 'AND——'?"

"And!" screamed the fed-up producer. "Why not 'BUT'?"

Merciless Truth

From the letter of an insurance man to a prospect:

"Protect yourself—because there always is an army of people who will do nothing to help you—unless it is tar the pole they've been feathering!"

Studies in Redundancy

From B. A. Rolfe: Lying press agent . . . rich millionaire . . . haughty head-waiter . . . conceited columnist . . . unfunny master of ceremonies . . . shady traveling salesman joke . . . fast express . . . cut rye . . . poor newspaperman.

Novelette

They would have you believe it is an old tale. Nevertheless: A man was motoring along a lonely country road when a tire went fooofff! He had no tools with him and could not change a shoe anyhow, so he sat there and sighed.

Along came a stranger in a flivver, who paused and asked:

"Can I help you?"

"I wish you would," pleaded the fellow.

The stranger changed the tire for him in a jiffy and then motored away.

The grateful one was musing: "Gee, that was nice of him," when he discovered that his watch was gone. He immediately gave chase to the stranger and, when he caught up to him, he whipped out a pistol and growled:

"Give me back that watch!"

The stranger handed over the watch. Then both motored off in opposite roads.

Later the pistol-waver found his watch on his office desk.

And they punch time-clocks!

Very Likely

A chap was limping along Broadway wrapped in bandages.

"Hmmm!" hmmm'd an observer, "there goes a guy who was talking when he should have been listening."

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggestion for the Simile Dictionary: Ted Cook: Thin as lunch-counter soup after the Sunday rush-hour . . . Dull as an honest wrestling match . . . Norman Sullivan: Went down like a commuter's breakfast . . . James Bishop: As difficult to invent as a clever simile . . . As interesting as a divorce case in which a "Follies" gal is involved . . . Bugs Baer: Flat as a bedroom slipper . . . Melville Hammet: Difficult to detect as perspiration on a fish . . . Texas Guinan: Optimistic as a trans-Atlantic flier who cables ahead for a room . . . Barrett Kiesling: Hungry as a fly in a Scotch restaurant, and J. H. Pollock's: As romantic as Paul Whiteman in a nightgown!

Eavesdropped

"If I only could get some sleep! I have insomnia, you know."

"Why don't you try counting sheep?"

"Oh, I tried that—and the sheep fell asleep!"

Man Bitten While Petting Stray Cat

Maxwell Gensamer, 28, of 166 North Dithridge street, was bitten on the right hand when he stopped to pet a stray cat in Fifth avenue, near Bellefield avenue, last night, police reported.

He was treated by a physician. The cat, captured by police, will be turned over to the Animal Rescue League for observation.

By Mark Hellinger

Unsung New Yorkers

PERHAPS YOU WILL tell me that such a man could not exist. If you do, I will have to give you the old answer that you must take my word for it. Come to think of it, though, it may be easy to understand him after you have heard a bit of his background. So let's tackle that background before we do anything else.

At the age of 50, Jack had lived a very full life. When his wife had died some 20 years previous, she had left him two daughters for whom to provide. He had thrown himself into his work with everything he had in order ot forget the hurt. And so well had he done that he was able to retire with a comfortable fortune 10 years after her death.

In due time both daughters were happily wedded to young men of their choice. With the marriage of the second one, Jack sat back and surveyed the situation. His job was finished. His income was assured. In the years that remained to him, he could do and play as he wished. The only problem still present was to play in the proper fashion. And that's something that, strangely enough, very few mortals are ever able to do.

Shortly after his 50th birthday, then, we find Jack in the city of Miami, Fla. Two of his best pals are with him—and the three men are enjoying themselves in the approved Miami fashion. One afternoon, on the beach, Jack is introduced to Eleanore.

The lady was a widow. About 30 years of age, with a pretty figure and beautiful eyes, Eleanore was a highly attractive woman. She sat with Jack for the better part of a day and gave him plenty of what is known on Broadway as "the business." She let her hands touch his. She urged him to don his robe so that he might not catch a cold. She told Jack, with a suggestion of tears in those gorgeous eyes, that he reminded her of that wonderful man who had been her husband. And so on and so forth.

Well, two months later it happened. Perhaps he might have been a little wiser, or perhaps he saw more in the woman than any of his friends. But whatever it was, it really didn't make much difference. He asked Eleanore to become his wife.

So Jack stepped into a marriage that the world regarded as a very dubious undertaking. And as time went on, the world proved to be quite right. Shortly after the wedding Eleanore went on a spending splurge that was a corker. She developed a society urge and threw hysterical parties in order to climb another rung on the social ladder.

She picked on her husband at every opportunity. If he was detained at his club and arrived home five minutes late, he found his wife's guests eating without him. Eleanore nagged him, spent his money at a hectic pace, encouraged the attentions of other men and did nothing whatsoever to help his peace of mind.

But the husband stood everything without complaint. When a few of his remaining friends begged him to leave her, Jack merely gave them a tired smile.

"I married her," he murmured. "And I love her. Nothing else matters." . . .

Now comes the part that is so difficult to understand. After they had been married about a year, and Eleanore had tossed away a great deal of Jack's fortune, she came to him one night and told him she was in love with another man.

Yes, me hearties, she did it just as simply as all that. No fuss. No frills. No feathers. Just a cold-blooded announcement that she was through and that she wanted a divorce as soon as possible.

"Are you sure you love him?" asked her husband quietly.

Eleanore said she was quite sure.

"If that's the case," Jack said, "there's no use fighting. You may have your divorce. Has the man much money?"

Eleanore said he hadn't.

"Well," Jack went on, "I'll pay all your expenses. And I'll turn over a certain sum to you each week as long as you live. I think that would only be fair on my part."

The woman regarded him seriously. His simple speech affected her greatly. She would have been made of stone if it had not.

"Why," she asked, "are you doing all this for me?"

Her husband never moved.

"Because I love you," he told her evenly, "and because I want you to be happy. The world will tell me I'm crazy, but the world has never worried me.

"Good luck to you—dear." . . .

All this happened a little more than two years ago. Eleanore divorced Jack and married the other man. Jack supported her and very probably the other man too. A few months ago she sued the other man for divorce. She alleged too many things to print here.

As soon as she gets her degree Jack is going to ask her to marry him again. His friends think he should be in a straight jacket. But Jack's explanation is very simple.

"Nothing means very much," he says, "except that I love her." . . .

Stoneroad Compiling Views Of Tri-State Mine Heads On Curtailing Production

Complying with the Chief Executive's request, J. T. M. Stoneroad, head of the Carnegie Coal Company, will give his views to Gov. Gifford Pinchot on using the police powers of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia to control coal production as soon as he has had opportunity to obtain the opinions of some of the coal leaders on the subject, he said today.

Gov. Pinchot yesterday expressed a desire for Mr. Stoneroad's views in detail before making any comment on the subject. Some leading coal men of the district have expressed themselves to Mr. Stoneroad as favorable to his plan as published in the Sun-Telegraph last Sunday. Mr. Stoneroad's suggestion was that the governors of the three states discuss plans of curbing the coal output, similar to the methods now being used to limit production in the oil fields of Oklahoma and Texas.

AWAIT LEGAL OPINION

Several of the largest operators here, however, have not publicly expressed opinions, desiring time to consider the proposal and discuss it with legal authority.

There is also a feeling that West Virginia might take an adverse attitude on curbing production to a four-day-a-week basis, proportionately distributing work as suggested. However, some operators believe it would be difficult to obtain an agreement from operators on any fixed plan.

In Oklahoma, Gov. Murray called out the militia and closed the oil wells in spite of protests of numerous operators. Gov. Sterling, of Texas, then followed suit, both stating they would not permit the wells to reopen until oil reached $1 a barrel. It had sold as low as 10 cents a barrel in Texas. Today $1 a barrel was being offered by a number of leading companies.

BENEFIT SEEN

Operators here declare that if something could be done by the Governors of the tri-state district to keep down production, since the chief ill of the coal trade is overproduction, it would be highly beneficial.

There is a belief that the whole question should be under state control, with the states co-operating in a general way.

The United Mine Workers of America favor federal control of some kind, both Philip Murray, international vice president of the organization and P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, having so expressed themselves.

HOME FOR AGED GOAL PASSED BY $22,013

Reports Still Incomplete, Bishop Thanks Workers; Stores' Donation Largest

Workers in the campaign to raise $300,000 to rebuild the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged, destroyed by fire July 24, surpassed their goal by $22,013.61 reports showed at a meeting of the workers in Synod Hall, North Craig street, last night. The total amount raised was $322,013.61.

This represented only the money raised in 231 of the 350 parishes of the Pittsburgh Catholic diocese. Results from the remainder will be made later this week.

BISHOP PRESIDES

The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese, presided at the meeting.

It was shown that the largest single contribution was made by the Donahoe stores, which turned over $8,000, or 10 per cent of last weeks' sales, to the fund. The largest parish contributing was St. Paul's, which turned in $19,781.86, with Sacred Heart parish second in reporting $11,801.45.

It was shown that church committees solicited $240,590.79; voluntary donations were $32,911.32; donations by priests, $44,000; religious communities of nuns, $475; direct contributions to the Little Sisters of the Poor, $1,400; contributions for beds for the home, $1,052; miscellaneous, $1,584.50.

WORKERS THANKED

The committee announcing the results was composed of J. Rogers Flannery, chairman of the general committee; the Rev. J. P. Gallagher, chairman of the relief fund executive committee, and the Rev. R. L. Hayes, secretary.

Bishop Boyle thanked all workers and contributors in the campaign, and newspapers and radio stations which aided in furthering the work.

All officers and patrolmen at Central and Center Avenue Police stations today were contributing $5 each to the fund. As soon as all collections are made the money will be turned over to the committee, it was said.

DREAM OF SON'S HOMECOMING REALIZED

Body of Boy Killed in War Found in Lonely Grave and Returned to McKeesport

A mother's dream that her son, killed in the war, had returned, came true today.

In a flag-draped casket, the body of John Gablehart, soldier-son of Mrs. John Gablehart, 69, of 1835 Beach avenue, McKeesport, was back home, ending 13 years of hope and despair.

Killed in action in 1918, Gablehart's body was found in an unmarked grave on a French farm. It was identified by an aluminum tag attached to the wrist.

Mrs. Gablehart several days ago, dreamed her son had returned. The following morning a letter was received from the War Department at Washington telling of the finding of the body.

A military escort brought the casket to McKeesport from New York. It was received by the Carl Everett Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, which plans a military funeral.

Pvt. Hugh McCole accompanied the body to McKeesport from New York, and stood guard at the bier until noon, when he was relieved by Adjt. D. J. Lang, of the Veterans Post.

SOLDIER BURIAL FOR VETERAN

A soldier's funeral will be given the body of John J. Fitzgerald, 42, former United States Army private, friend of destitute men, who died last week in a downtown rooming house.

The body was taken from the morgue today to the undertaking rooms of Grimes & Blair, 4112 Main street, at the direction of McNulty post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, which will bear all expenses.

High requiem mass will be held at 9 a. m. Friday in St. John the Baptist Catholic Chruch, Liberty avenue and Thirty-sixth street. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Fitzgerald disappeared from the Veterans' Hospital at Aspinwall two months ago. Investigation showed he had spent most of his money buying food and clothing for derelicts.

DROWNED BOY'S BODY FOUND

In a North Side home today a mother sits beside a white casket containing the body of her son, Tony Orlando, 10, of 1104 Wolfendale street. The boy was drowned in the Ohio River, near Manchester Bridge, yesterday afternoon.

The mother became hysterical while police dragged the river and had to be restrained from jumping into the water. Last night the body was recovered and taken to the boy's home.

Tony had been wading with three other children, Steve Puskar, "Bud" Reilly and Theodore Merz, when he was swept beyond his depth by a treacherous undercurrent. The children tried to save him, but after a struggle, Tony lost his grip and was swept away.

Instead of notifying the police, the terrified children dressed and went home to tell their mothers, who notified Mrs. Orlando.

Cross-Country Hiker Here Shines Shoes for Funds

A novel, if not new way, to get across the country, a trifle more certain than the hitch-hike racket, has been inaugurated by Thomas V. Goodwin, a young Philadelphian.

Bedecked in a sleeveless shirt and legless trousers, Thomas will be seen the next few days in downtown streets and office buildings, shining Pittsburghers' shoes until he obtains sufficient dimes to move him along to the next city west.

His goal is Arizona, where he will work on a ranch. The worries of unemployment have broken his resistance to the extent that he has developed lung trouble, he says. He began his journey at Philadelphia, his home.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

See where the Japanese jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" against Lindy. They not only freed him, but complimented him for finding some island that they didn't know they had themselves. Funny how they guard those forts. I don't reckon there is a fort in the world that all other nations don't know more about than the country that owns it. The Labor government of England fell because it wanted to cut the salaries of those that wasn't laboring. Now they got a coalition government. That's one they have when there is nothing left to divide up.

Uncle Sam's Girl Friends Squawk At Diluted Rum

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Federal government will not buy any more liquor for lady decoys. It won't even take 'em to the movies.

That's tough on the girls who have been acting as guinea pigs for the raiders. The usual procedure has been to purchase a sample slug of hootch for the lady informer. She downs it. Screams. Falls flat on her face. Then she gets up, dusts herself off, straightens her hat and says:

"Gosh, that's good."

The ladies get paid for helping to grab information for future raids. It's nice work.

But the booze has been so bad lately that none but college graduates need apply.

After the guinea pig has been removed to the hospital and given the pulmotor, the dry agent works on his swindle sheet and marks down the price of the poison as entertainment.

There are all kinds of ways of making a living, even in a depression. But lately, the lady decoys are complaining that the speakeasies are diluting the evidence.

CORONER AND CLARK PROBE NORTH SIDE MYSTERY DEATH

POLICE QUIZZED IN MYSTERY DEATH

Man Found on Street Dying When Taken to Hospital For Second Treatment

Allegheny General Hospital Internes, Wagonmen Harry Busch and Samuel Lefkowitz and Turnkey Thomas Phillips, of the North Side Police Station, were to be questioned by Sergt. Samuel Wheeler, of the police homicide squad, at 2 p. m. today in the city's investigation into the death of Lazo Rodokobisch, 60, of 2164 Straub's lane, North Side. Rodokobisch died in Allegheny General Hospital of a fractured skull Monday.

Wheeler's conference is a part of the investigation ordered by Public Safety Director James M. Clark to determine the manner in which Rodokobisch received his injuries.

Deputies James Carroll and John Artz were instructed to inquire into the case from every angle but not to make a hasty probe.

According to the hospital report the victim had no skull fracture when taken to the hospital Sunday night by police who found him lying in Lowrie street near his home. When returned to the hospital the following morning it was discovered he had a fractured skull.

Dr. J. W. McMeans, who performed the autopsy together with Dr. H. V. Hetham of the hospital staff, and Chief Deputy Coroner John Aldisert will also attend the conference. According to the coroner's report Dr. Hetham stated that Rodokobisch had no serious injuries when taken to the hospital Sunday night. Dr. McMeans said the fracture could have been caused by a fall but no blunt instrument could have caused the fatal injury.

Rodokobisch was bleeding from the ears and nose when taken to the hospital the second time. He died without regaining consciousness. Police professed ignorance of the man's injury, saying that he was treated as an alcoholic patient on each of his trips to the hospital.

The hospital in its report to the Coroner asked how and where the injury was suffered.

GUN LAW DRIVE OPENED BY CLARK

Magistrates Urged to Aid Police in Enforcement of Act Aimed at Racketeers

Police court magistrates today were asked by Public Safety Director James M. Clark to co-operate in the enforcement of the new firearms legislation effective on September 1. Clark urged magistrates to start enforcement of the law now by holding for court all persons appearing before them carrying forbidden firearms.

Clark's request was made as Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh announced the completion of plans for the issuance of permits to responsible persons. Applications for the sale and the purchase of revolvers and certain classifications of shotguns and rifles must be made in his office, Walsh said. He plans to personally scrutinize each application.

The law, designed to prevent crimes and violence, provides that a license must be obtained to carry revolvers with barrels less than 12 inches long, shotguns less than 24 inches and rifles less than 15 inches. A maximum penalty of $3,000 or imprisonment for three years or both may be imposed upon conviction.

HAY BUSINESS BOOMS, TRADE HEAD SAYS

Horse Gaining in Society And Industry Despite Auto, Bellevue Man Holds

Mr. Walton

More hay is now being shipped than ever before, according to William L. Walton, of Bellevue, newly elected president of the National Hay Association. City markets have dropped off as the horse has been displaced by motor vehicles for deliveries, he said, but channels of distribution for hay and grain have become diversified in outlying districts. He continued:

"New coal mines are being opened and hay and grain is required to feed mining stock. In the last year, the horse has been going back on the farm to replace machinery. With the exception of the far western states, where the ground is level and especially adapted to tractors, the horse is much better suited to the needs of the small scale farmer."

Walton predicts a greater use of horses on eastern farm in the next few years than there has been since before the depression.

Walton is well known in the hay and grain business in Pittsburgh, is secretary of the Samuel Walton Company, past president of the Pittsburgh Grain and Hay Exchange and is the youngest president of the National Hay Association. He succeeded his father, Samuel Walter, in the company which was established 38 years ago.

Ground was broken yesterday for the new East Liberty Presbyterian Church. Richard King Mellon, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mellon, and great-grandson of Jacob and Barbara Negley, who more than a century ago gave the land upon which the church has stood, broke ground.

The Rev. Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison, pastor, spoke. Charles A. Fisher, chairman of the building committee, presided. The church is a gift of the R. B. Mellons.

VETS TO RECALL WAR DAYS AT PICNIC

Salvation Army to Serve Doughnuts and Hot Coffee At Kennywood on Saturday

Pile upon pile of doughnuts, 900 dozen of them, with steaming coffee, all served free by the Sun-Telegraph, will be one of the highlights of its twelfth annual reunion for veterans of all American wars at Kennywood Park on Saturday.

Salvation Army lassies, as of war days in France, will be there at a special booth to serve the thousands of veterans who journey to the park annually to meet their war-time buddies.

There will be doughnuts for all. The supply will be so plentiful that if stacked one upon the other they would reach to the top of the Grant Building two times.

SALVATION ARMY AIDES

The lassies, in charge of Capts. David Isaac and Charles McLaughlin, will include Capt. Martha Isaac, Adjt. Elizabeth Thomas, Capt. Mabel Chamberlain, Capt. Helen Snow, and the Misses Dorothy Fowle, Evaline Smith, Beatrice Smith, Alma Lewis, Anna Vigna, Vesta Maxwell and Mabel Asher.

Civil War veterans and disabled ex-service men now in local hospitals will be the guests of honor for the day. They will be guests of the paper at dinner in the park at 6 o'clock.

FREE TICKETS FOR ALL

Free tickets for all amusements will be given every veteran in attendance as he registers upon entering the park. Free motion pictures, through the courtesy of United Artists-Warner Brothers, will be an evening treat at the bandstand. A thrilling motorcycle act, staged by the Looping Nixes in a huge steel-latticed cage suspended 16 feet in the air, will be given afternoon and night.

Every veteran in the district, whether or not a member of the more than 25 invited organizations, is asked to attend. Chairman John Bingham and Vice Chairman Harry S. Hall predict the largest attendance ever participating in the yearly event.

ELECTRIC FARM SHOW SEPT. 5

An electrical field day is to be held at the Baur Farm near Greensburg, Pa., September 5, at which well known authorities on farm electrification will take part. Hundreds of farmers from this district and the tri-state area are expected to attend the series of demonstrations and talks to be given by engineers of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, experts from the West Penn Power Company, instructors from Pennsylvania State College and editors of the Pennsylvania Farmer.

A hog calling contest and an old time fiddling contest will be additional features of the program, for which winners will be awarded prizes.

Woman Files Suit To Annul Marriage

Claiming her husband already had a wife when he married her, Mrs. Nevina Sherwood, 516 Kelly street, Wilkinsburg, has filed suit for annulment in Common Pleas Court against Robert Eugene Sherwood, alias Roach, whose last address known to her was the Ohio State Penitentiary, she says.

The couple were married and lived in Homestead from November 12, 1929, to February 10, 1930, the wife says. She left him when she discovered that he had been married to Marion E. Roach in 1925. The latter got a divorce June 28, 1930, from her husband after his second wife had left him.

Son Killed by Auto, Mother Asks $10,000

Because of the death of her son, Thomas, 19, in an automobile accident, Mrs. Elizabeth Hutchinson has filed suit for $10,000 damages in Common Pleas Court against Roger Bissell, of Forest Hills.

In her suit the mother says the youth had been riding with Bissell, and had alighted when the engine stopped. When it suddenly started again he jumped on the running board, the mother says, and had not been given an opportunity by Bissell to get in when the latter's car sidewiped another machine.

Policeman's Ankle Broken in Chase

Patrolman James McKnight, 32, reporting at North Side Station, was in Mercy Hospital with a fractured ankle, suffered early today when he slipped while chasing a prowler in an alley in the rear of 20 Royal street, North Side.

South Side Needy Share Food Gift At Settlement

Twenty needy South Side families yesterday shared a truck load of fruits and vegetables sent by Marshall Bell, of Oakdale, as a feature of the closing day of the Home Information Center of the Brashear Settlement, 1209 Bingham street.

BEWARE!

If You're Told Some Other Preparation Is the Same as GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN

WATCH OUT

THIS warning is printed to put the public on guard against a deception which may be practised against those who seek genuine Bayer Aspirin for pain, headaches or colds.

We take this means of warning you, so you may be able to protect yourself and your family against the results of such deception.

BEWARE!

Other preparations, we are informed, have been offered at times to those who ask for Bayer Aspirin; and even represented in some cases as being "the same as Bayer Aspirin."

Watch Out! Remember that years ago doctors warned the public against "headache remedies," some of which are heart depressants and unsafe for many people to take.

Then remember how Genuine Bayer Aspirin came. And was acclaimed the world over by leading men of science as SAFE relief for pain, and was prescribed without hesitation by eminent physicians. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

What folly, then, in the light of these things, to dose yourself with drugs of which you know nothing. Don't gamble—KNOW.

The genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets are made by a special process, under careful supervision of scientists, in the Bayer Laboratories, with over 25 years of highly specialized experience.

So when you want SAFE relief for pain, cold or headache, ask for BAYER ASPIRIN. You have a perfect right to ask for what you want. And an equal right to get what you ask for.

Look for the name BAYER on the package. And the word Genuine in red. Insist on Genuine Bayer Aspirin and refuse substitutes.

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

STRAIN MAY AFFECT GROVE IN SERIES

Lefty Grove

THE DRIVE OF Lefty Grove for a pitching record is one of the most interesting features of the waning baseball season, but there is another side to the thing which is beginning to cause speculation. That is the effect it may have upon Grove's work in the world series. With Lefty striving to be the first southpaw to win 30 games in a year since Frank Killen ran up a string of 36 for the Pirates in 1893, the question arises as to whether the strain involved may not leave the Mackian ace below par for the post season classic.

The average fan is inclined to believe that Connie Mack is too smart to let Grove run any such risk. With the pennant so near to being sewed up that the A's can finish at a walk, it would appear to be Mack's part to frown on individual records and to work his star forkhander only at wide intervals, just often enough to keep him on edge, and thus conserve his strength for the world stakes. Cold baseball judgment would seem to dictate such a course.

BUT THERE ARE others who think Mack will be indulgent with the slab ace and permit him to finish under pressure in his efforts to add as many victories as possible to his total. One of them is none other than Gabby Street, manager of the prospective opponents of the A's in the big series. Gabby is basing his confidence of a Cardinal victory largely on the belief that Grove will not be up to form.

"Grove will be burned out by that time," Street declares. "He has been pitching far beyond his natural gait; any pitcher is who has such a record as he boasts. From now until the end of the season he will be trying to win 30 games. When he gets them he will be through. There is a natural reaction to any great pitching feat. Sometimes when a hurler has reached a goal after a hard fight he loses several games before he can regain his efficiency."

THE PIRATES WILL be home tomorrow for a bargain double-header with the Cubs at Forbes Field, but the woozy schedule will not permit them to linger long on their own lot. They'll have to hop right out again after a single day here.

Following the dual card with the Bruins, the Bucs must depart for St. Louis for a series of four games in three days, concluding with a double bill on Sunday. A couple of open days will follow before they come back for the final long home stand of the year.

INSTEAD OF MAKING up on the final eastern trip for some of the ground lost on the first two excursions through that sector, the Pirates only went from bad to worse. They won only six games while losing 12, or an average of but one victory in every three contests. Every series played on the jaunt was lost—three out of five in New York and Philadelphia, and three out of four in Boston and Brooklyn. The record of the local club for eastern tours this season is the poorest in many years. On the three trips the Rovers won only 16 games all told, while losing 27, a percentage of but .372. One game remains to be played in Brooklyn on September 13 to complete the eastern schedule.

Morley Drury

AMONG FORMER COLLEGE gridiron stars who never yielded to the lure of the professional game is Morley Drury, all-America back at Southern California in 1926 and brother of Herb Drury, for many years a Pittsburgh hockey player.

Drury, in the bond business now and doing a little broadcasting during the football season, has made his annual appearance on the Southern California campus to lend a helping hand in the Trojan training preliminaries. He says he has never regretted his refusal to go in for pro football.

"I don't mean that I never had the itch to play again," Drury said. "If I had it to do over again I'd like to go back to Southern California and play end. That was my favorite position in high school. They made a ball carrier out of me in my last year in high and I could not get away from it in college.

"Professional football means easy money for a while, but when you're through you've got to start in and go to work. You're older then, and it's a harder proposition. There are mighty few fellows who come out of pro football with anything but past reputations. Take Red Orange, for example. What has he got left to show for his years of pro glory and big salaries?"

THE INDOOR BOXING season of 1931-32 in this district will have its opening in McKeesport. Jim McGirr, Tube City promoter, and one of the smartest and most careful matchmakers in the game, will be the first Queensberry showman in these parts to resume operations indoors, and he has selected Thursday, September 17, as the date of his inaugural attraction at the Palisades. He is now at work on his opening card, and promises an appealing bill. The McKeesport shows, as usual, will be held weekly on Thursday night during the fall and winter. Promoter McGirr requests that all boxers throughout the tri-state district desiring bookings during the season communicate with him as soon as possible, giving their weights, records and present addresses.

THERE IS LITTLE danger of over-emphasis creeping into Geneva basketball if you take the word of Ken Loeffler, the coach, for it. Loeffler entertained his class of floor coaches at Penn State this summer with a yarn about one of the members of his squad at Geneva which belies any suggestion that basketball may steal the play there.

Last winter, according to Loeffler, one of his players came to him at the heights of the season with a request that he hold the daily practice an hour later on that particular night so that he, the player, could tune in on a Rudy Vallee program which he wanted to hear.

Ernie Schaal

LOEFFLER DID NOT repeat his reply for the benefit of his listeners in the coaches' class, but it's probably a safe bet that Vallee was shy one fan in his audience on that particular night.

Things have come to a pretty pass, Loeffler argues, when basketball coaches receive such requests on practice nights from players who evidently can't be taking the game any too seriously.

PRECEDING THE STAGING tomorrow of Charley Retzlaff's test against Joe Sekyra, postponed from last night, another bout that should reduce the field seeking the heavyweight fistic title is on the bills for tonight at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, when Ernie Schaaf and Victorio Campolo will tangle for 12 rounds. The winner will gain some new prominence in the championship chase, with the loser dropping out of the procession. From this distance, Schaaf looks like the probable victor. Campolo, though he never got anywhere, is not without ability, and his great height makes him a hard man to fight, but Schaaf appears to pack a little more Queensberry class. Ernie hasn't the color to enthuse the crowds, but he can box, he can hit, and he can take punishment as well as give it, and all around is a pretty fair sort of heavyweight, possibly a shade too good for the string bean from the Argentine.

LEYDA TO MEET ACKERMAN IN JUNIOR FINAL

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Harold Mathieson

Ralph Bald, clever local racqueter, won the championship in the 15-year-old division, and Henry Ackerman of Mt. Lebanon and Bud Leyda of Bellevue gained the final in the Junior competition in matches today in the annual Western Pennsylvania youths' titular tennis tournament on the Carnegie Tech courts.

In annexing the boys' crown, Bald achieved something of an upset by defeating Harold Mathieson, Koppel lad who won the Pittsburgh Center Boys championships of 1930 and 1931, by the scores of 6-0, 6-2. Bald gave Mathieson some stiff competition in the Center competition last month, but prior to today had not been able to take the measure of the Koppel slasher.

Ackerman advanced to the final in the Junior milling by defeating Nicholas Marzkov, 6-3, 6-0, and Leyda put out Paul Elliott, Wilkinsburg contender and former Center Boys premier, 6-2, 3-6, 8-6, in one of the hottest matches of the tournament to gain the ultimate round. Weather permitting, Ackerman and Leyda will dispose of their title duel late today.

Ackerman, holder of the Harvard interscholastic cup, rules a slight favorite to gain the crown. The summary of matches played yesterday:

JUNIOR SINGLES

Second round—Paul Elliott defeated B. L. Ginsberg, 6-3, 6-1. Third round—Henry Ackerman defeated William Reynolds, 6-2, 6-1; Nicholas Marzkov defeated Paul N. Crichton Jr., [illegible]; [illegible] Leyda defeated Samuel S. Harper, 6-0, 6-1; Elliott defeated Don Hamilton, 7-5, 6-1.

BOYS' SINGLES

Second round—P. McArdle Jr. defeated Dudley F. Wells, 6-1, 6-4; Donald Hatch defeated David Boyton, [illegible]. Third round—Harold Mathieson defeated John T. Jones, 6-1, 6-2; Edward Carson defeated William Fair, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3; Ralph Bald defeated McArdle, 6-1, 6-0; Barham Greenberg defeated Hatch, 6-3, 6-1. Semi-final round—Mathieson defeated Carson, 6-2, 6-2; Bald defeated Greenberg, 6-2, 6-3.

LAMPUS WINS TECH TITLE

Robert Lampus of Bellevue rose to the heights yesterday to annex the Carnegie Tech Tennis Club's trophy, emblematic of the club championship for 1931, defeating Henry Ackerman of Mt. Lebanon, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3, in the tournament final.

Lampus was unseeded in the tourney, but he galloped through the competition with the loss of only one set. He won the Harvard cup in 1928, defeating Billy O'Loughlin in the final.

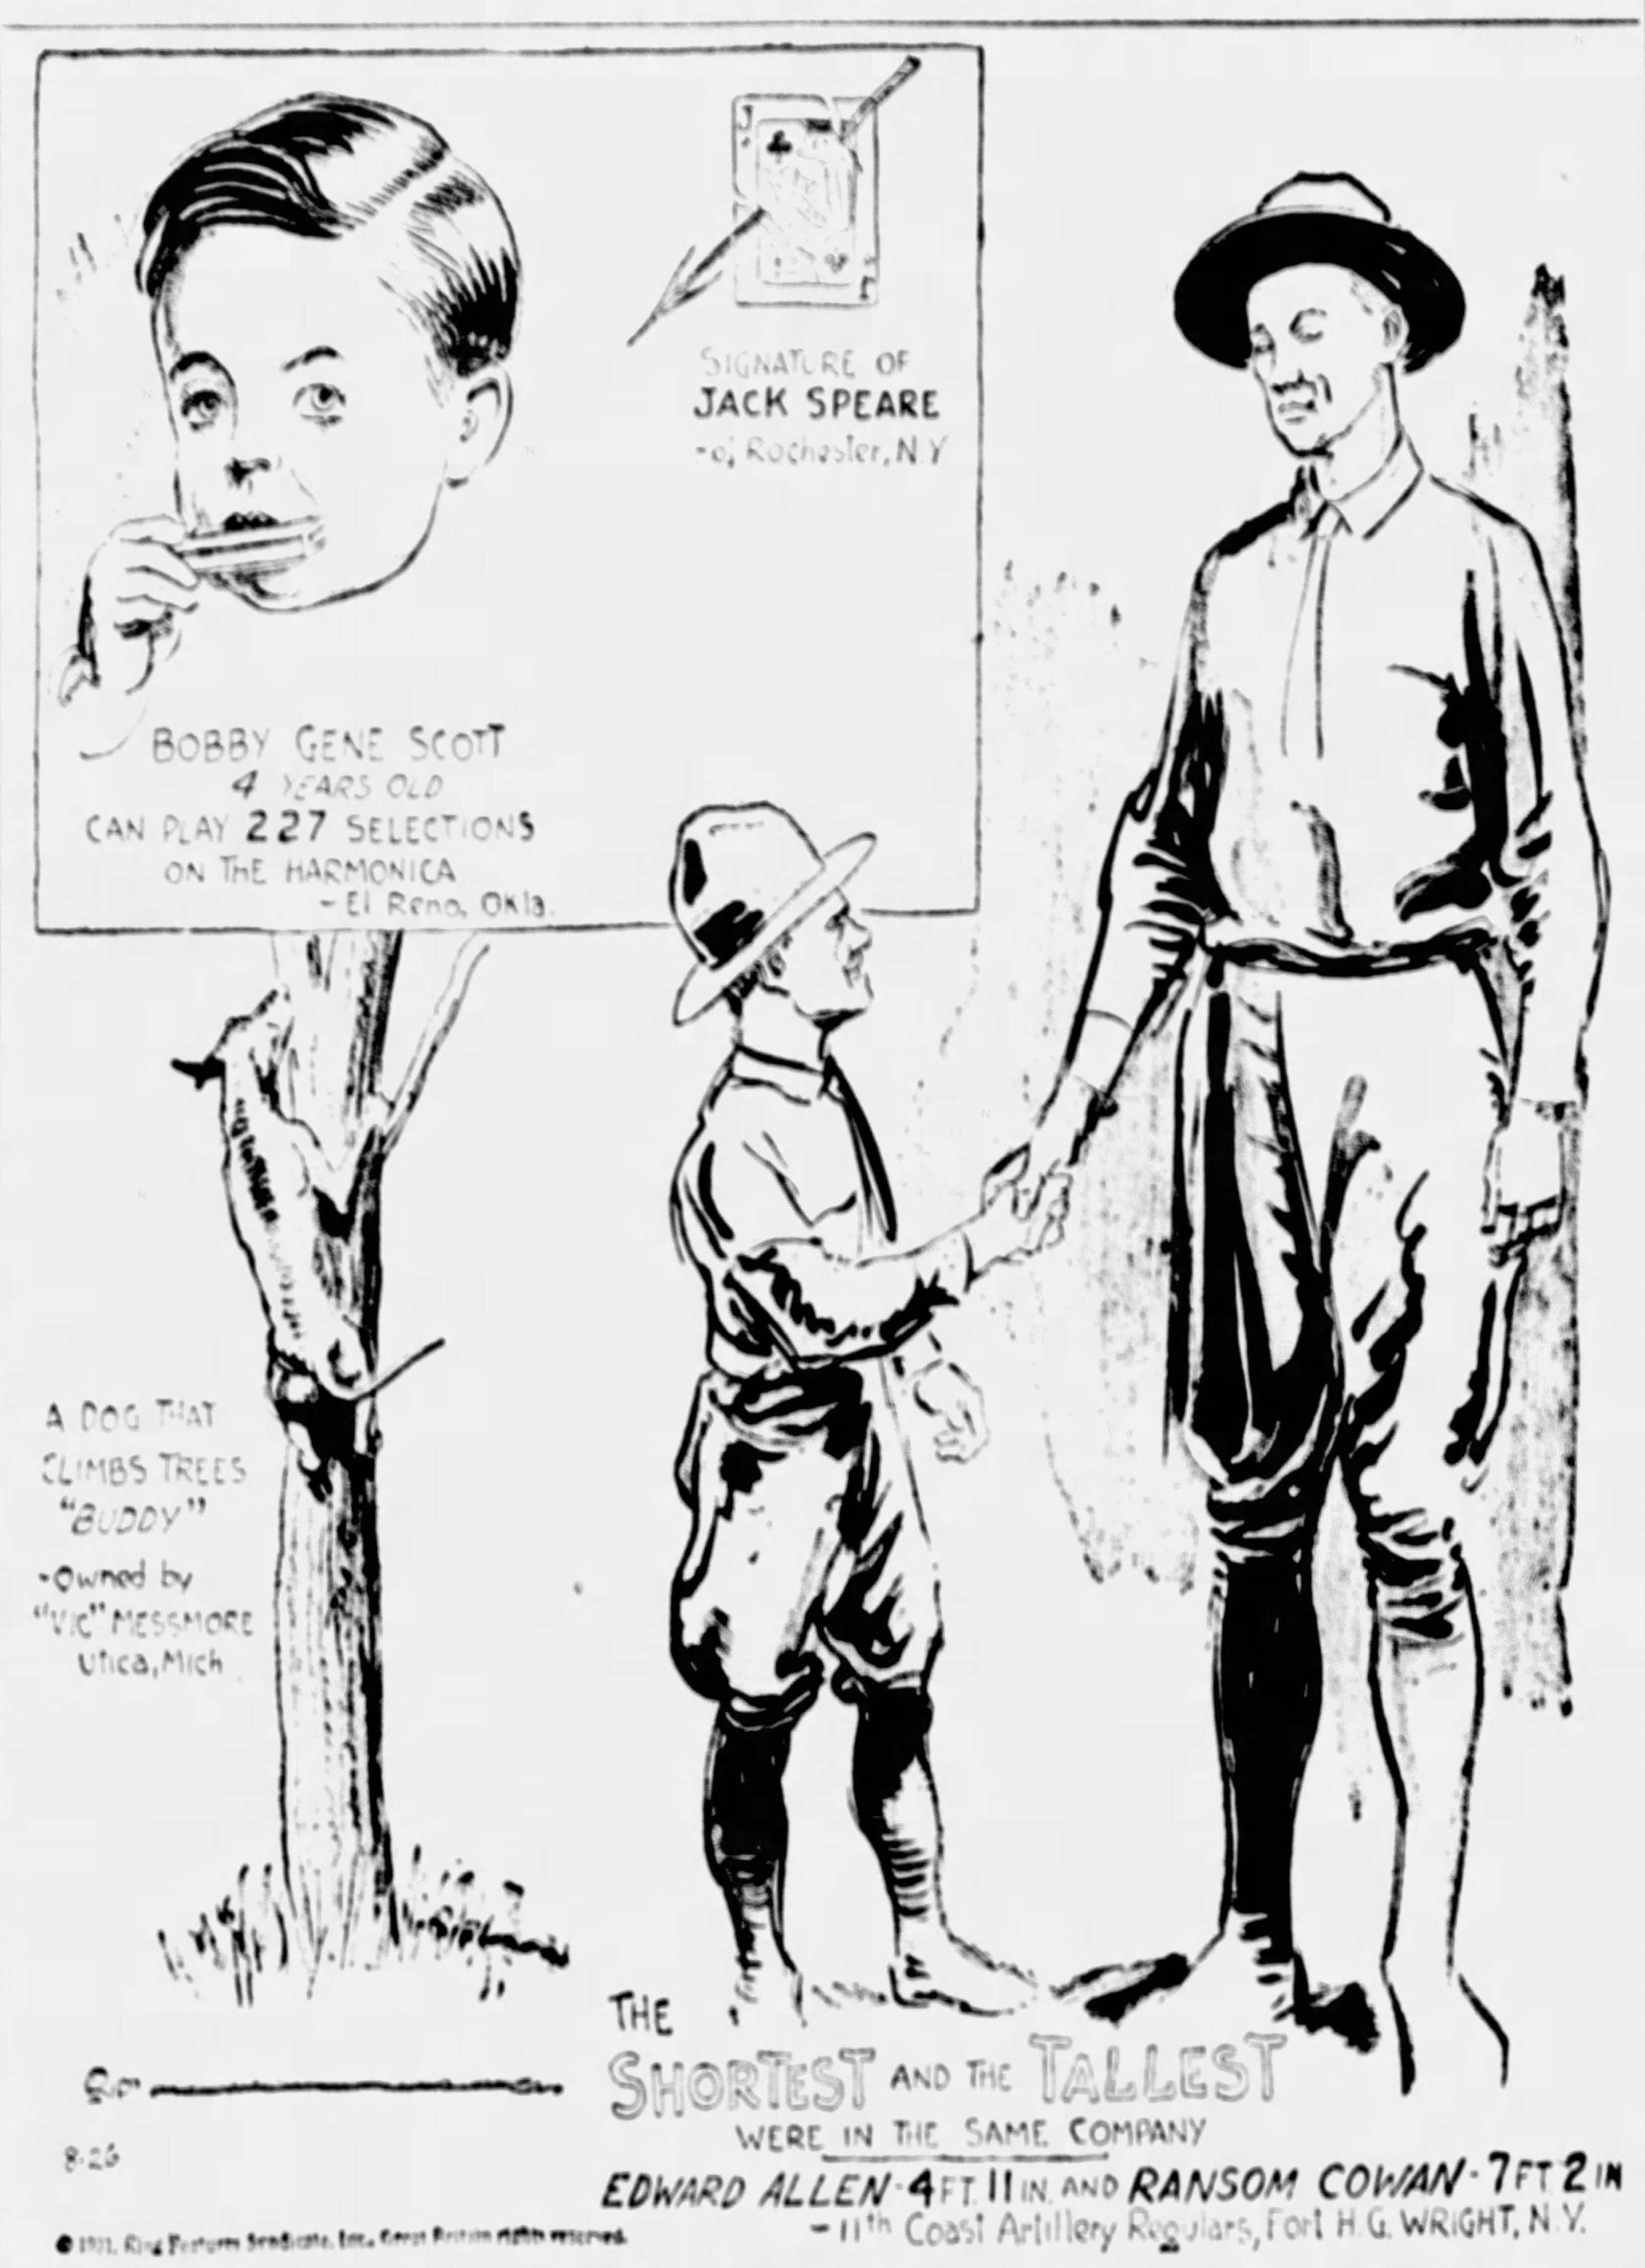
HURLS NO-HIT GAME

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Andy Rush pitched a no-hit, no-run game for the Harrisburg Senators in the seven-inning second game of a doubleheader against the Scranton Miners yesterday. The score was 6 to 0. The Senators won the first game in 10 innings, 7 to 6.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT (Reg. by U. S. Patent Office) By RIPLEY

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)



EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE SHIP THAT WALKED OVER THE LAND—On January 5, 1928, the four-masted lumber schooner, North Bend, was attempting to make the port of Astoria, Ore., on a return trip from Sydney, Australia, when, within 10 miles of her destination, the helmsman felt the craft fail to respond to the rudder. Powerless against the tide and the adverse winds, the schooner drifted onto the Peacock sandspit, near Cape Disappointment, and with each wave it was buried deeper in its grave. A year later, it was noticed that the North Bend actually was moving toward the ocean, and, by April, 1929, the incredulous news went out that she had salvaged herself and again was afloat, after having moved inch-by-inch over a half-mile of beach. Today she is in the lumber service as fit and trim as ever.

TOMORROW: THE MIRACLE OF THE CROSS.

CUBS TO PLAY LOCALS HERE TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The first-string sharpshooters of the Pirate entourage rolled into the city this morning after a disappointing eastern trip. The main body of the club will spend part of today at Wilkes-Barre where they will entertain the hard-coal district fans and help to honor Adam Comorosky while competing against the Wilkes-Barre club of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

As a youth in his early teens, the Polish outfielder worked in the coal pits of the anthracite section. Like many another boy of the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton sector who rose to diamond fame, Commy loved the sport of the diamond and he played the game whenever the opportunity presented itself.

STAR LAST YEAR

Last year Adam was one of the outstanding players of the major leagues. Fleet of foot and a ball hawk on defense, the former breaker boy rose to great batting heights. His batting, fielding and baserunning won him a big reputation.

But alas! the Wilkes-Barre athlete, like other Buccos, went into a severe slump this year. Commy's diversion from the star's path became so pronounced that Manager Ens had to lift him from the lineup.

Manager Ens was looking ahead to tomorrow's doubleheader with the Cubs when he sent his regular hurlers home. Rogers Hornsby & Co. are due in the city tomorrow morning, about the same time the Pirates land from Wilkes-Barre. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the Buccos and Bears will tangle in a bargain bill.

Glenn Spencer and Ervin Brame have been groomed for the dual tussle with the Cubs.

ST. LOUIS SERIES NEXT

Pirate fans will get their first glimpses of Tony Piet in the bargain attraction. Tony has fallen down somewhat in his batting, but his fielding is clever and his mates look for him to hold up his end with the hickory stick. At the conclusion of the twin bill the Pirates will go to St. Louis, where they are scheduled to take on the league-leaders four times in three days.

The last eastern excursion of the Pirates held many regrets. Only six of the 18 games brought the laurel wreath to Pittsburgh. Competing with the Giants and Phillies, the Pirates won two and lost three games in each series. Moving to Boston, they lost three out of four games—and every defeat was a 2-to-1 setback. They closed the trip in Brooklyn, where they won only one game in four starts.

The Buccos divided a dual bill with the Robins yesterday. In the first game, thanks to a pinch single in the eighth inning by Gus Suhr, the Bucs managed to break the six-game winning streak of the Robins by copping a 5-to-3 decision. Heinie Meine pitched a very creditable game.

In the second fracas, however, Fred Heimach, American League castoff, limited the Bucs to three bingles, while his mates slammed Remy Kremer and Bob Osborn for a 5-0 win. Babe Herman contributed a home run to the Brooklyn cause. The Pirate stickwork in the second game was as weak as boarding-house soup.

BASEBALL VET DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—With clippings and pictures which told of a career as a baseball player of the 90s clutched in his hand, Johnny Walker, 65, died yesterday in a rooming house. He had been ill for several days. The clippings disclosed he started on Philadelphia baseball teams and the West Side Athletic Club of New York, 35 years ago.

EDITOR ROLLS 300

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A perfect score of 300 in duckpins was bowled on the recreation club alleys here yesterday afternoon by Clyde H. East, an editor on the Charleston Gazette.

MRS. HILL WINS IN TOURNEY

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, charged into the quarter finals of the women's Western golf championship today by crushing Rena Nelson, of Chicago, 6 and 4.

Mrs. Charles Dennehy, formerly Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, wedged into the quarter finals by defeating Mrs. Perry Fisk, of Dekalb, 2 and 1. One down at the turn, Mrs. Dennehy started back winning the next two holes with a birdie and a par and never was headed thereafter.

Virginia Van Wie, Chicago's first ranking feminine star, advanced by turning back Jean Armstrong, of Chicago, 2 and 1. The match was close throughout, but Miss Van Wie salted it away on the sixteenth where she sank a chip shot from 10 yards off the green for a birdie four. She meets Mrs. Dennehy in the quarter finals tomorrow.

Pittsburgher to Race At Lincoln Fields

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—With Sun Beau and Mate passing the Lincoln Handicap Saturday, Bargello, from the stables of C. V. Whitney, will be the eastern standard bearer in the $25,000 added event at Lincoln fields.

Other thoroughbreds being pointed for the rich stake are Paul Bunyan, Knight Commander, Plucky Play, Pittsburgher, Chief John, Brown Wisdom, Jimmy Moran, Canfli, Quatre Bras II, Mania, Knight's Call and Sir Percival.

Sun Beau, the champion money winner, and Mate, the leading 3-year-old of the season, will remain in the East to prepare for the Saratoga Cup, September 5, in which they will meet Twenty Grand.

Well, That's Over!

Braden Heir Cops On Grand Circuit

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Braden Heir, consistent performer from the J. D. Hopper stables at Murfreesboro, Tenn., today won three closely contested heats to take the $5,000 added American pacing classic, big prize of yesterday's Grand Circuit program at the Illinois state fair.

Driven by Jake Rodman, Braden Heir's margin in each heat was just a nose, and the time in the first two heats, 2:01½, was only a quarter of a second slower than the world record established here last year.

MAUST WINS SHOOT TITLE

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Karl Maust, an automobile salesman from Detroit, yesterday captured the North American clay target championship by outclassing a field of more than 500 shooters in the feature event of the second day's program of the thirty-second annual Grand American Handicap tournament.

Maust replaces Gus Payne, former Oklahoma City Indian, as the king of amateur shooters on the North American continent. Payne did not defend his crown this year.

MAKES FINE RECORD

The Detroit sniper gave one of the most remarkable exhibitions of shooting ever witnessed on the Vandalia traps in a shoot off with three other men. The quartet was tied at the end of the regulation 200 targets with 199 each. They were: Frank Troeh, Portland, Ore.; George Slaughter, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Dr. E. L. Botts, Waverly, O., and Maust.

In the shoot off Maust broke 150 straight targets to give him a score of 349 out of a possible 350 for the day. Troeh dropped out on the one hundred and thirty-fourth target of the shoot off to take second place, Botts missed on the seventy-fourth to win third position and Slaughter missed his fiftieth clay.

MISS JAY WINS

To 18-year-old Jeannette Jay, of Waverly, Ia., went the North American women's crown. Miss Jay, a student at Wartburg College and Iowa state champion, annexed her title in a shoot off with Mrs. H. Grisby, of Oklahoma City. The two tied by shattering 191 targets out of a possible 200.

In the shoot off Miss Jay broke 25 straight to Mrs. Grisby's 24, the Oklahoma woman missing the fifteenth clay.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

Nick Altrock

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—You can talk about great baseball towns, but they don't run any better than Chicago. The White Sox are so low they have to excavate to hand them their salaries on payday. Yet, 52,500 turned out to see 'em play the Yanks a few days ago. That's a better attendance than they had at the Chicago fire.

For a town so broke that it gave its high school graduates I. O. U.'s instead of diplomas, Chicago sure manages to scrape up four bits to get up to the ball game. Of course, the fans went out to peek at Babe Ruth, too, but you wouldn't expect 52,000 of 'em unless you had Marlene Dietrich and Calvin Coolidge warming up for the second half of a doubleheader.

Books at Dormont, with the leadership of the City League at stake. That is the plum facing sandlot fans this evening. Dormont and Book have been battling it out all the second half for the title, and this game will go a long way toward settling the championship once and for all.

Dormont, as first-half champion of the circuit, hopes to evade the necessity of indulging in a post-season series for the championship, and is out to gather in the second-half flag as well. The club is not interested in the possible hefty gate receipts a playoff series might bring. The people of Dormont, behind the team to the last man, are all set for the championship and will be out this evening in full force, hoping to see the downfall of Books.

THOMAS, HOMEWOOD CLASH

The other game in the loop finds the Homewood nine clashing with the J. L. Thomas outfit at Bloomfield. The Bloomfielders stuck to their reputation as in-and-outers when they beat Book at Olympia Park, Monday, and, while nothing is at stake in the game this evening, it will be hard fought.

Swissvale and Marty Griffin should give the Hill district fans something to cheer over, even though the clubs seem to be out of the West Penn League race.

Camp Horne will see another good tilt this evening when the Rieck nine travels to the camp to clash with Sam Craig's outfit. Rieck's find this an important game and naturally want to win it.

The league-leading East End Cardinals will clash with St. Elizabeth in the Steel City League, this game to be played at Homewood. The Penn club travels to the North Side to hook up with Oliver Cubs.

DICK JONES STARS

The weather of late gives the impression of an early fall, and it would appear that some of the clubs are going to have a tough time getting in their postponed games. All the clubs in the district should utilize every effort to get these games out of the way at the earliest date.

Dick Jones, Rieck's hard-hitting catcher, won the ball game for his club against Reliance last evening. Dick hit two pitches out of the lot at Langley Field, each time with a man on base.

Dutch Spencer was pitching, and it takes a real wallop to knock the apple out of the lot on that field.

Honus Wagner will be at first base this evening when the Washington (Pa.) All-Stars engage the Homestead Grays in Washington.

By JAMES MILLER

Yesterday afternoon, while indulging in a little conversation with John Hernon, manager of Hickey Park, Millvale, Prof. Bunny Buntach boldly claimed that his new fighter, Wyn (Red) Lyday, of Columbus, O., is another Mickey Walker, and he will give you an argument if you doubt it.

Lyday will be given an opportunity to prove his resemblance to Walker tomorrow night at Hickey Park, where he is to meet Henry Attell, a hard-hitting youth from Girard, O., in the eight-round semi-final. Attell has won 14 of 29 bouts via the knockout route. All this does not frighten Lyday, who claims that Attell will have the tables turned on him before the fight reaches the half way mark.

BOJARSKI RETURNS [illegible]

In the main go, the local fans will welcome back Frank Bojarski, of Erie, the southpaw with a wallop, against a newcomer to local rings, Charley Baxter, formerly of Columbus, O., but now of this city. Bojarski is fresh from victories over Cowboy Eddie Anderson and Billy Wallace and Baxter recently fought a great bout with Jose Estrada, the Mexican lightweight sensation. This indicates that both boys are in fine fettle for the scrap, and plenty of action is anticipated.

Matchmaker Bill Dummer signed Lee Sala, of Donora, to take the place of Mike Lynch, of Homewood, against Baby Face Barry, of Kittanning, for the second bout. Lynch was forced to pull out when he injured a hand in training. Bobby Vogel, of Erie, mixes with Jimmy Scott, Hill district Negro lightweight, in the opening six-round bout.

Between Rounds

Ernie Schaaf, blond Boston heavyweight, who scored two knockouts over Jimmy Maloney, tackles a tough one tonight when he meets Victorio Campolo, the huge Argentine, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. Al Fay, of Charleroi, who is managed by Jack Kearns, boxes Yale Okun in one of the preliminaries.

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight and junior welterweight champion, boxes Henry Perlick, one of the Perlick twins, at [illegible] Stadium, N. J. Tony's junior-welter title is at stake, but there is little chance of him losing it.

Benny Goldblatt, of the Hill, and formerly of Charleroi, hereafter will do his fighting for Bill Heckman. Benny signed a contract with Heckman today.

Carl Montebano, Frank Klaus' rugged middleweight, is paired with Lloyd Clements, of Swissvale, for the second bout to the Tuffy Griffiths-Emmett Rocco fight at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, Monday night.

Dr. M. R. Goldman, boxing commission physician, is vacationing at Conneaut Lake, and according to the postcard received, he is golfing in a big way.

An X-ray picture reveals that Marty Gornick's left hand is broken and the knuckle in his fore finger twisted. Dr. S. A. Norris, attending Marty, said he would be out for two months. Gornick hurt the hand in the first round of his fight with Ray Collins Monday night.

Billy Brent, Hill Negro, is angling to get himself a new manager. Billy is a junior-middleweight, who can fight.

COACH SPIKES COURT CAMP REPORT

By JESS CARVER

Developments today concerning the basketball training camp rumor has established, or plans to establish, for Pitt's varsity cagers, follow:

1—Dr. H. C. Carlson, the high tension coach, knows nothing about it; hasn't been invited to attend and doesn't think the university will give its O. K.

2—No requests have been made to the university to establish such a camp.

3—If such a camp does materialize, it will be strictly informal.

Before pole vaulting into an upper berth last night en route to Frankfort, Ind., where he'll lecture on basketball today and tomorrow before the Indiana State High School basketball coaching school, the good Doctor told me he knew nothing of the proposed camp, except that he'd been given to understand that two or three of the team members had some idea of taking a short vacation together.

"Naturally, my boys are bound to think about basketball now and then, even when they are camping," boasted the Doctor. "In fact, some of them think about the game anytime except when they are playing. They're funny that way."

Lee Spillers, former Wash-Jeff football star, came busting along about that time and cost the Braddock firetop another milkshake. Spillers and Carlson fell to discussing Ira Rodgers, somehow or other, and the matter of the training camp was dropped, which goes to show just about how much there is to it.

Time Out

Elmer Layden, head coach, no, pardon me, director of athletics, chairman of the athletic council AND head coach at Duquesne University, is due back in his office today from Hollywood, where he has been making a moving picture or two or maybe three.

Dr. Carlson tells about the time he was playing baseball on the same team with Ira Rodgers, Bob Peck and a few other college luminaries during the summer. The boys were playing at Somerset, and during the course of the game, a fight broke out.

"After it was all over," Doc relates, "we missed Rodgers."

"My goodness," chirped Peck, "maybe they've killed that poor guy. We'd better hunt him up."

It didn't take long to find Ira. There he was, back under the grandstand in a nice dark corner. When Peck and the boys asked him why he was hiding and not fighting, Ira replied:

"Me fight! Say, don't be silly. I didn't start it."

HORSE SHOW TOMORROW

A horse show is to be one of the features of the Allegheny County Farm and Flower show at West View Park tomorrow. The judging will be done in the afternoon, but the fancy steppers also will be exhibited in the evening.

SEEDED STARS VICTORS IN DOUBLES

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26—(AP.)—Opening play in the national doubles tennis tournament ran on in an even and enjoyable course for the favorites. Each of the nine seeded teams, including one foreign pair, gained the second round.

The draw for this golden jubilee team play was so lacking in dynamite that the first-round matches were nothing more than brisk workouts to fit the favorites for the stiffer competition ahead. Most of them, including the defending champions, Johnny Doeg and George Lott, used their opponents for experimental purposes.

Doeg and Lott drew J. Brooks Fenno and Henry R. Guild, Bostonians. They sauntered through the first two long sets, but cut loose in the third and blasted the Bostonians off the courts for a 10-8, 9-7, 6-2 victory.

Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, the second seeded Californians, won as they pleased against Edward Yeomans, Washington, and Elmer Rudy, Baltimore, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Ernie Schaaf vs. Victorio Campolo, 15 rounds; Ernest Guhring vs. Pat Redmond and Steve Hamas vs. Mike De Santo, 8 rounds each, and Al Fay vs. Yale Okun and Jack McCarthy vs. Mickey Taylor, 6 rounds each, Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.

Freddie Edwards vs. Jackie Herman, 10 rounds, Parkersburg, W. Va.

Frankie Simms vs. Walter Cobb and Patsy Perroni vs. Primo Ubaldo, 10 rounds each, and Jack Palatti vs. Joe Martin, Kid Willie vs. Sammy O'Dell, Chico Cisneros vs. Wilbur Chevalier and Sam Cohen vs. Eddie Simms, 6 rounds each, Cleveland.

CHAPMAN, PENNOCK STAR

YANKEES GET FIRST SHUTOUT OF YEAR

Associated Press

Having pretty well settled the question of team supremacy in the two major leagues, the boys have hit upon a new scheme to whet the interest of the fans. They're putting on track meets and the possibilities are limitless.

When Ben Chapman, the Yankees' favorite speedster, outfooted Carl Reynolds of the White Sox in a special 100-yard race before yesterday's game in Chicago something unprecedented was started. From now on the customers perhaps will expect to see jumping [illegible] and [illegible] as regular equipment in a well regulated park.

CHAPMAN STARS

After beating Reynolds by some four yards in the special dash, Chapman utilized his speed in the game that followed to steal his fiftieth and fifty-first bases of the year. The last American Leaguer to equal the mark was George Sisler of the St. Louis Browns in 1922. He still, however, is far from Ty Cobb's 1915 record of 96 thefts.

The Yankees won, incidentally, 8 to 0 behind Herb Pennock's six-hit pitching.

Eddie Rommel pitched the Athletics to a 4-to-1 victory over the St. Louis Browns, allowing only six hits along the way. The Washington Senators, so far back now it scarcely matters, trounced the Detroit Tigers [illegible].

Their bases all set for second place in the National League, the Giants helped matters along by trimming the Chicago Cubs twice, 6 to 3 and 7 to 1, stretching their lead over the Hornsby clan to five games.

The Robins, likewise nursing second place ambitions, divided a pair with the Pittsburgh Pirates. A four-run splurge off Watson Clark in the eighth inning gave the Pirates the opener, 5 to 3. Fred Heimach squared matters by holding them to three hits and winning the nightcap, 5 to 0.

REDS, PHILS SPLIT

Cincinnati and Philadelphia took turns applying the whitewash, the Reds winning the first, 8 to 0, behind Red Lucas' brilliant pitching and the Phils taking the second, 1 to 0, as Jim Elliott bested Young Si Johnson in a tight duel.

Old Socks Seibold held the Cardinals scoreless for eight innings, but they nicked him for one to tie the score in the ninth and then collected three more in the tenth to defeat the Boston Braves, 4 to 1.

JONES' HOMERS BEAT RELIANCE

Featured by Dick Jones' two home runs, Riecks defeated Reliance in the C. & I. League last evening at Langley Field, 7 to 3. Jones twice smacked for the circuit with a man scoring ahead of him on each occasion.

In the City League Dormont and Books maintained their respective places, Dormont defeating the Buicks, 8-1, and Books blanking the N. S. Civics, 3-0.

Edgewood won over Murs, 7-2, Whitaker tied Jenkins, 3-3, and Iroquois defeated Fitties, 10-8, in the Greater Pittsburgh circuit. In the Central League Colliers walloped Williams, 13-2.

St. Joachim downed the Martins, 8-4, and Linwood took over Turtle Creek, 10-1, in the West Penn loop. The Methodists trimmed St. Philips, 3-1, in the Crafton-Ingram Church circuit, and the Lindys eked out a 2-1 win over St. George in the North Side Twilight League.

Both the Homestead Grays and the Crawfords scored triumphs in independent battles. The Grays walloped Beaver, 15-6, and the Crawfords blanked Bakerstown, 12-0.

WHEELING SET FOR RACES

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 26.—Purses totaling $34,500 have been hung up for the autumn meeting of the Wheeling Driving Club, which opens here tomorrow and continues until September 12.

Many snappy features have been arranged for the 15-day session. Several handicaps have been opened and many nominations forwarded. With the majority of horses that competed on the Canadian circuits expected here today, the stake events will undoubtedly be filled.

The opening day finds three distance contests, a pair of dashes and two middle distance races on the card. The feature of the opener is the Wheeling Handicap for 3-year-olds. Entries for this event closed yesterday.

Another early feature of the meet is the Speed Handicap, a five-furlong dash for all ages. This contest comes on Thursday, September 3, and is the feature race of the day.

BUTLER COAST GRID CZAR

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, PALO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Jonathan A. Butler, present assistant to Maj. John L. Griffiths of the Big Ten, today had been named football "czar" of the Pacific Coast Conference.

The announcement came from Prof. W. B. Owens, of Stanford, president of the Coast Conference, and head of the committee appointed to find a "dictator" for the Coast circuit. Prof. Owens declared that the choice of Butler had been confirmed unanimously by all member colleges.

Butler was chosen on the recommendation of Maj. Griffiths, it was revealed. He will bear the title of commissioner for the Pacific Coast Conference, but actually will be far from a "czar" of college football, for the 1932 season at least.

The appointment is for one year, and although the salary is unnamed, it is understood to be in the neighborhood of $5,000 per year.

The duties of the new commissioner are: To study athletic conditions among members of the conference and discover what duties might reasonably in the future be entrusted to a conference commissioner.

FAMOUS STABLE TO BE SOLD

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP).—The famous green and white silks of Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas stable will be temporarily retired from the turf next week, when the entire stable of horses in training, 25 in number, is sold at auction in the Saratoga race course paddock.

Sinclair's announcement came unexpectedly yesterday and followed a recent ruling of the Saratoga racing officials forbidding the entering of Rancocas horses in overnight events. The ruling was made as the result of the poisoning of the stable's Ladana, the Saratoga stewards holding Trainer Frank Taylor responsible for his horses.

In making his announcement the oil man said he was unable to give his stable proper attention due to the press of his business. Sinclair has been in the West for the greater part of the last eight months.

Al Brown Keeps Bantamweight Title

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—(AP).—Panama Al Brown, lanky Negro, generally recognized as bantamweight champion of the world, successfully defended his title last night by outpointing Pete Sanstol, Montreal Norwegian, who had been recognized by the Montreal Athletic Commission as titleholder, in a 15-round bout. They each weighed 117 pounds, one pound under the class limit.

Miss Underwood Nemacolin Victor

BEALLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 26.—Displaying consistent driving and making fine headway with her iron shots, Mildred Underwood, of California, Pa., won the Mrs. George Chaney trophy in 18-hole medal play under full handicap with a score of 88-8—80 at the Nemacolin Country Club yesterday. Miss Underwood was out in 44 and back in the same number.

James J. (Gentleman Jim) Corbett will discuss the Loughran-Campolo fistic clash in a broadcast to be heard from Radio Station KDKA at 6:30 o'clock this evening.

Last May Loughran fought Campolo. In addition to discussing this interesting battle, Corbett will also reveal what effect popularity has upon fighters.

WOMEN PLAY AT GREENSBURG TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

A number of women are participating today in the weekly one-day handicap tournament of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania at the Greensburg Country Club. It was expected that a field of more than 100 would tee off in the 18-hole competition.

Walker McGhee, as chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged for a fine affair at the Chartiers Heights Country Club for tonight, when the old caddie house will be burned to the ground.

CARD SWEEPSTAKES

The doings will begin late in the afternoon with a sweepstakes handicap tourney, a corn roast, and then, when darkness is complete, the razing of the old shed. The new golf shop will give Dale Zimmerman, the Chartiers pro, one of the most modern and best equipped shops in the district. Strange as it may seem, it will be entirely a stag entertainment.

Stanton Heights Golf Club will be the scene of a Red and Blue team match today, with one part playing this morning and the remainder of the field competing this afternoon.

Tomorrow three chapters of the Pennsylvania Society, Sons of the American Revolution, will gather at the Butler Country Club for an inter-chapter match. Pittsburgh will be competing against compatriots from New Castle and Butler.

The West Penn open driving championship at Sander's range, Freeport and Fox Chapel roads, is progressing. Qualifying for both men and women is being held this week. 200 yards will get you in if you can hit the ball that far. Sander's also is offering a free trip to Canada in September in conjunction with the tourney.

FINAL DATE SET

The West Penn Golf Association has announced that the final for its team championship, originally slated for last Monday, will be held at the Westmoreland Country Club Wednesday, September 9. Oakmont, Fox Chapel, Highland and St. Clair will play for the crown won by Highland last year.

Sharon Country Club golfers will go to Oil City Saturday to play members of the Oil City Club in the only inter-club match of the year.

Andy Petrolia, caddiemaster at Schenley Park, is limping around with a bone broken in his left foot. He fell and, in doing so, suffered the injury.

Al McBride has made elaborate preparation for his first annual caddie tourney at the South Park county links Friday. Fine prizes are to be awarded the boys.

Mrs. Clinton Boggs, of Sewickley, set a new record for women golfers at the Washington Country Club yesterday when she shot an 86.

Mrs. Hood, Partner Win Golf Tourney

Mrs. Harry Hood and Gertrude Dally, of Chartiers Heights, won the guests' day two-ball foursomes at the Chartiers Heights Country Club today with a score of 96-18—78. In second place were Mrs. E. E. Glass and Mrs. R. H. Hoy, who recorded 112-26—86. Third honors went to Mrs. C. C. Moyar and Mrs. Frank Baerman, who had 116-27—89. About 50 participated. The rest of the scores were not available.

BOBBY JONES' Lessons in Golf

By Robt T Jones Jr.

U. S. Amateur Champion and Former U. S. and British Open and British Amateur Titleholder

To become a good putter may not be the easiest thing in the world. To get the ball into the hole requires so many things more than striking the ball accurately.

Bobby Jones

But it is safe to say at least that no one can make a better start toward putting excellence than by developing a sound putting stroke.

It seems to me that the two most important features of the putting stroke, and indeed of that which should be employed for all the very short shots, have to do with the left hand. They are, first, that the club should be swung back with the left hand, and second, that the left wrist should be firm as the club strikes the ball.

These are precisely what I should name as two of the outstanding features of a sound swing of any length. I can see no reason why there is need to further complicate the situation by employing for putting a stroke which is radically different from that which is used for the other shots. In the shorter stroke, of course, there is less arm and body movement, but in the end I think the player will benefit if he will simply regard the putt as an ordinary golf shot of a very short distance.

DELICATE GRIP

The beginner is usually too loose in the wrists. He starts off with some idea that he should putt entirely with his wrists, so he waves the putter back and forth with flabby wrists, which cannot control even the small weight of the club head. I prefer a delicate grip to one which squeezes the handle of the club, but I think it is important that the grip of the left hand should be firm—at least positive—to make it easier to use this hand in taking the club back. I do not like for the right hand to have any active part in this movement, for its tendency is always to lift the club outside the line, whence it must cut across the ball coming down.

In my method of putting, the left hand is of direction and the right is the hand of touch. In other words, my left hand is entirely responsible for the alignment of the putter-face when it strikes the ball—the right has nothing to do with this except when it causes it to be wrong—and my right hand is responsible for adjusting the range by a tiny flick of the ball which adds the crisp quality to the blow.

In order to assure correct alignment, the left wrist must be firm as the club strikes the ball, and the left forearm must move with the stroke so that the wrist will not be forced to bend. If the left wrist relaxes, the right hand then becomes the master and can do anything it likes with the stroke. Its tendency is to roll over the left and to yank the putt off line on the left side of the hole.

I find that there is a happy medium to strive for in putting as in every other department of the game. On the greens, it is to obtain a firmness of the left which will not interfere with the delicacy of the stroke. The firmness is required for direction and the delicacy for touch, and both are necessary for good putting.

LOOKS FOR GAIN IN BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—A general improvement in business will probably follow closely on any sustained improvement and higher prices in the oil industry, O. R. Seagraves, chairman of Republic Gas Corporation, vice chairman of United Gas Corporation and for many years a successful oil and gas operator in mid-continent fields, stated. He said:

"Oil was one of the first commodities to be deflated, the movement having started in 1925, and it is logical that it should be the first to turn upward. As this occurs, other commodities should reflect the trend in varying degrees, depending on conditions within individual industries."

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

MILL WHEAT STOCKS

Stocks of wheat held in mills at the end of June, 1931, totaled 37,770,871 bushels, a reduction of more than 50 per cent from the total of 81,841,063 bushels held March 31, 1931. The Commerce Department reports from returns of 834 milling concerns owning or operating 987 mills. Wheat flour held in mills, public and private warehouses and in transit—sold and unsold—totaled 2,829,682 barrels on June 30, against 3,712,138 barrels March 31, and 3,534,603 barrels June 30, 1930. The report covering stocks at the end of each quarter since June 30, 1930, shows that on September 30, 154,111,817 bushels of wheat, the highest for any of the five dates covered, was held by mills. On June 30, 1930, a total of 6,660,403 bushels was held in mills.

CORN BELT FEEDING

There were about 13 per cent less cattle on feed for market in the corn belt states on August 1 of this year than on August 1, 1930, it is estimated by the Department of Agriculture. Feeders report they expect to buy fewer cattle in the last five months of 1931 than a year ago due to unfavorable returns in the past two years.

WILL SCRAP FREIGHTS

The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad is reported to plan this year to scrap about 6,500 of its older, lighter and less efficient freight cars, and an equal number in the first six months next year. At the end of last year the road had about 69,000 freight cars.

Moderate Declines Recorded In Opening Transactions Around Bull Ring Here

Stocks on the Pittsburgh Exchange were slightly heavy in the opening transactions today. Mesta Machine and Hachmeister Lind recorded fractional declines in line with the weakness in the New York market.

Western Public Service, Lone Star Gas and National Fireproofing preferred opened at prices unchanged from previous closing levels.

Trading was more brisk than yesterday.

Increased interest has been shown in National Fireproofing recently due to the booking of a large order for tile to be used in the new Marshall Field building in Chicago. This order is responsible for the resumption of operations at one of National's plants.

National Fireproofing common responded to this news with a sale at 11¾, shortly after the opening. This represented an advance of three-quarters of a point over yesterday's close.

Britain Will Pull Through, But Weakened.

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

BRITAIN will pull through. How grave her condition has become is revealed by resort to the wartime emergency expedient of forming a government—a ministry—not of one political party but of all three parties.

The [illegible] more than any other [illegible] caused [illegible] overwhelm the Labor government [illegible] dole [illegible] have played [illegible] with Britain's [illegible] finances.

That is of special interest to our country, seeing that political proposals that we adopt the dole here are being made and are likely to be pushed aggressively forward at the next session of Congress.

FOR EVERYTHING under the sun there is a reason, though we cannot always put our finger on the reason.

There was a reason, a very powerful reason, for the starting of the dole in Britain.

When the flower of British manhood returned from the World War it was found impossible to provide them with employment. In pre-war times the British working classes were rather docile. Their forefathers had submitted to the overlordship of the moneyed classes. They themselves inherited a disposition to accept the place allotted to them.

WAR WROUGHT a revolution in the attitude of many, many of those who bore the brunt of it in the trenches. They returned home conscious that they had saved the nation. They were heroes and they demanded to be treated like heroes. They had been told that they were fighting a war to end war, a war to make the world safe for democracy. They had seen revolutions achieved in other countries through the uprising of the masses against their rulers.

And they were determined to have a larger share of democracy in their own country. They had become accustomed to fighting and they were prepared, if need be, to fight for a larger share than formerly granted them of the comforts of life.

AND NOW has come the day of reckoning.

A commission named by Ramsay MacDonald's own government recently recommended retrenchment which included cutting down the dole. The Socialistic wing of his party noisily protested against carrying such action into effect; the less radical of his own followers joined with the Conservative party almost as strong numerically in Parliament as Labor, in insisting upon drastic economies. The dole, which averted threatened revolution, now threatened to bring on revolution.

Faced with imminent defeat—and with a budget deficit amounting to the impossible sum of six hundred million dollars—Premier MacDonald consulted King George with a view to stepping aside. The King, alarmed by the sensational crumbling of British credit, the flight of money from Britain and the incalculable danger involved in throwing the country into a general election, succeeded in inducing all three parties, Labor, Conservative and Liberal, to unite in forming a national party to tide over the black, black crisis.

YES, BRITAIN doubtless will pull through. But whereas last century was Britain's, this century will be America's. Britain, fortunately, is not out, but the fact cannot be blinked that she is down.

SHAMROCK OIL TO CHANGE CAPITAL

President Tells Holders Plan Will Save Firm Liquidation Necessity

John J. Sheerin, president of the Shamrock Oil and Gas Company, has appealed to holders of the debenture notes to agree to a reorganization plan to save the company from liquidation and the loss of a portion of its gas holdings. This was made known in letters to the debenture holders also [illegible] the payment of indebtedness to officials of the company [illegible] and for the raising of additional cash.

The letter declares that the company has accounts payable [illegible] property payments [illegible] sinking funds due [illegible] current obligations [illegible] due during the month of September.

OWNS LEASES

Against these obligations the company has current assets of $111,356 which include $86,771 due from the McMillan Petroleum Company, which is now in financial difficulties.

The company owns 50,000 acres of gas leases, 17,000 acres of oil leases and a gasoline plant in the Texas Panhandle.

Sheerin said in his letter:

"If the above plan of financing is not consummated promptly the management of the company sees no alternative but a forced liquidation. Unless the $42,882 of property and lease rentals are paid before September 10 next, the company will lose a portion of its oil acreage and over 10,000 acres of its most valuable gas properties, and upon which the company has already paid over $200,000, and, as heretofore said, the remaining assets would produce only a small part of their real worth."

UNDERWRITE OFFER

The letter requests the holders of the $1,458,000 of 6 per cent debentures to agree to exchange their holdings for new 6 per cent first mortgage bonds and new debentures. For each $1,000 of debentures $250 of first mortgage bonds would be given and $750 of new debentures. The two new issues will mature September 1, 1939.

On the consummation of the plan $1,097,800 of first mortgage bonds and $1,160,000 of new debentures will be outstanding. The portions not exchanged for old debentures will be used for the payment of debts of the company to H. C. Fownes and W. C. Fownes, Jr., with the exception of $400,000 of first mortgage bonds which will be offered for subscription to debenture holders at par. This offering has been underwritten by the Fownes, who have agreed to purchase the unsubscribed balance at par within two years on demand of the company.

The letter declared that the plan will meet the needs of the company for three years even if there is no improvement in business.

STEEL OUTPUT DROPS POINT

The Iron Age says: With August drawing to a close, iron and steel demand still fails to foreshadow a seasonal rise in production. Evidences of improvement in business to date have been little more than ripples on a sea which remains at ebb tide.

The recent upturn in specifications from the automobile industry has not been followed by gains of sufficient magnitude to indicate a measurable expansion of motor car output in September. Requirements of other leading outlets for iron and steel show both increases and decreases largely offsetting each other, while releases from miscellaneous consumers disclose almost no significant changes.

Steel production continues to show the irregularity characteristic of a period when backlogs are low and specifications are intermittent. At Chicago, ingot output has risen from 30 per cent to 33 per cent of capacity, and there has been a minor gain at Youngstown, while the Buffalo rate has been raised by the resumption of operations at a steel plant which had been shut down for a week.

These increases are in contrast with declines at Cleveland, in the Wheeling district and in the east. Average rate of production for the country at large is estimated at 31 per cent, against 32 per cent in the previous week.

The Iron Age composite price for scrap is back to $9.08, the low level reached on June 23 and within 8 cents of the 30-year low, registered November 18, 1914. Pig iron and finished steel composite prices are unchanged at $15.50 for pig iron and 2.116 cents a pound for steel.

GASOLINE PRICE WAR ENDED

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The gasoline price war which sent prices to record low levels in the Middle West within recent months appeared at an end as Shell Petroleum Corporation moved to restore what the industry termed normal prices wherever competitive conditions existed. Principal competing companies have met the advances.

The normal prices were 14 cents a gallon for high grade and 11 cents a gallon for medium grade plus existing municipal or state taxes and fractional freight charges.

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 26.—Further improvement in the oil industry was noted today as the Texas Railroad Commission busied itself in the task of formulating proration plans for the vast East Texas pool, discovery of which was instrumental in bringing chaos to the oil business.

The first indication of what the probable daily production may be was seen in a recommendation made by E. V. Foran, technical adviser for a body known as the "central proration committee." He told the commission he believed the production should be held to between 225,000 and 250,000 barrels. This contrasts with the peak of about 800,000 barrels reached before the field was shutdown.

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the commission, said he expected new proration plans would become effective September 1.

WHEAT PRICES STEADY

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Relative strength of Liverpool quotations and scattered buying held the Chicago wheat market generally steady at the start today. Trade was light and price changes only fractional. Corn was also fairly steady with trade mostly of a local character. Wheat started unchanged to ⅛ cent higher and showed little change afterwards. Corn opened unchanged to ¼ off and held near this range.

Wheat was largely under domination of the Liverpool market where prices were generally little changed. Demand in Europe appeared insufficient to absorb offers from Russia and Danubian countries. Little attention was paid to official advices from Buenos Aires that the Argentine wheat increase this year was slightly lower than 20 per cent less than last year.

Oil Companies Start New Period of Mergers

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

A NEW ERA IN THE OIL TRADE to be marked by a procession of mergers to form a few dominant companies which will be strong enough to correct many of the present troubles of the industry is in the making.

The starting gun was fired last June when the Department of Justice announced that it would not appeal to the Supreme Court against a Circuit Court of Appeals refusal to grant an injunction restraining the consolidation of the Standard Oil Company of New York with the Vacuum Oil Company.

The decision in favor of the oil companies and the surrender of the Department of Justice let down the bars against mergers of companies in the Standard Oil group. The fact that three different consolidations of Standard companies are under way in addition to the one involved in the test case indicates that the oil men have not lost much time in taking advantage of the new state of affairs.

Segregated 20 Years Ago

THE ORIGINAL STANDARD Oil Company was ordered to segregate its 33 subsidiaries to establish competitive conditions in the oil trade 20 years ago. Since that time the various Standard Oil units have been going their separate ways, but there has been a vast change in the industry. Some of the pieces of the old company have become larger than the parent organization at the height of its power. Strong independent oil organizations have been developed. Foreign companies, unhampered by anti-trust laws, have given domestic organizations a hard fight for world markets. Large industrial corporations are no longer subject to bitter political attacks. The entire public attitude towards big business has changed.

A year ago Standard Oil of New York and Vacuum Oil, both former Standard Oil subsidiaries, took the first steps towards a merger. They proceeded on the legal theory that, once the original segregation order had been obeyed, the separate companies were in the same class with any other independent companies and were free to merge providing they did not eliminate free competition in the industry. The oil companies were upheld and the new Socony-Vacuum Corporation is the result.

Other Mergers In Making

THREE OTHER CONSOLIDATIONS of Standard companies are in the making and more consolidations are understood to be on the fire. Standard Oil of New Jersey and Standard Oil of California are supposed to have reached a tentative agreement for the formation of the largest oil company in the country.

Prairie Oil and Gas and Prairie Pipe Line Company, old Standard units, have reached an agreement to merge with Sinclair Consolidated Oil, an independent, to form the Commonwealth Petroleum Corporation.

Standard Oil of Ohio and Solar Refining Company, both Standard organizations, have actually called stockholders' meetings to approve their consolidation.

Bad Year Impelling Factor

THE SAD RESULTS of operations in the oil trade in the first half of the present year have been one impelling factor in bringing about the mergers. Oil men are agreed that there are too many companies in the business. This makes it difficult to control production and has resulted in unnecessarily severe sales competition with costly price cutting wars. Possibilities for cutting expenses also are a strong argument in favor of the mergers. In some cases the new alliance will join operating facilities which are complementary and will make large expenditures for improvements unnecessary.

It is quite likely that we have seen only the start of the oil consolidation movement. Just how far the courts will allow the Standard Oil units to go in rescrambling the eggs which were unscrambled 20 years ago is a question with a doubtful answer. In view of the wasteful practices of the oil trade under existing conditions, it is quite likely that oil companies will be allowed to go about the business of merging for some time before they are told to stop.

STOCK EXCHANGE TOPICS

Chartists Say Stocks Testing Important Resistant Point.

To the chart reader, movements of the stock market are interpreted as making a test of an important resistant point. Roughly, the market on the decline from the top of the Hoover moratorium rally in late June was checked early in August at the level from which the rally started June 20. At that point the brisk rally to mid-August ensued. The reaction point brought the market almost back to the same resistance level, and for the last few days it has been marking time around that level. Renewed attempts to break it through have ended merely in dullness and a stalemate. In the event that this point on the chart is not broke in the current swings, prospects of the hoped-for fall rise will be brighter. In its narrow, sidewise movements of late, the market still reflects considerable internal strength. It has proven more sensitive to good news than bad news.

Freight carloadings for the week ended August 15 show an increase of 7,956 cars over the previous week but the increase is smaller than what is regarded as normal for the period. In consequence, indices of carloading adjusted for seasonal trend are at the lowest for the depression. One explanation offered for the failure of carloadings to show normal seasonal improvement, aside from the low level of industrial activity, is that crop movement has been hampered because of lack of storage space. Wheat elevators are cluttered with the Farm Board's holdings. Rail securities continued heavy and until carloadings turn up it is difficult to conceive of a sharp rally in the carrier shares.

While recent price movements in the principal stocks have baffled interpretation, the conclusion can never be drawn that narrow fluctuations over an extensive period are meaningless. Later developments invariably prove that either accumulation or distribution was taking place while the market was thus mapping out a relatively straight line.

Since early July, the industrials used in the Dow-Jones averages have been moving in a 15-point area between 132 and 147. Meanwhile, bonds have been declining steadily, and rails have dipped to within a point of their average low for the bear market.

Although July was a month of restricted output, due to small yield of peas for canning and voluntary restriction of peach pack, American Can Company probably will make a relatively better showing compared with last year during August and September. Preliminary estimates indicate the corn pack will be as large, if not slightly larger, than last year. The tomato crop will depend to a great extent upon whether frost restricts its growth. As nearly as can be determined at present, American Can's net income for the current year will approximate $18,000,000 or about $6 a share for 2,473,998 common shares after deducting preferred dividends. In 1930, net income was $22,883,940 or $8.08 a common share.

Along with carloadings and steel production, another important weekly index, electric power production, failed to show any increase. The decline in power output, was around 2.8 per cent under that of the corresponding period last year. The curve of power production, however, has declined less than that of other lines of activity and students of the industry believe that lows of the first half of the year will remain the bottom for this depression.

Most market interests still favor a waiting policy on the side lines. They contend nothing has happened to change their attitude toward the market. Some of them are advising clients to protect their long holdings with stop-loss orders. Outsiders who have shown an inclination to purchase stocks are being told to wait for setbacks and then take on moderate lines of their favorites.

Collin Accuses Fanchon of False Pretense

Synopsis

Leaving Hawaii shortly after her father's death, young and beautiful Fanchon Meredith goes to San Francisco, where she meets and loves a handsome man named Tony. Fanchon is shocked to learn that Tony is a racketeer, implicated in a recent murder. She, too, is now wanted. Fanchon escapes in an airplane under the name of "Smith." Evelyn Howard whom she had met on the boat coming from Hawaii, is aboard. Evelyn is en route to New York to live with her aunt, the wealthy Mrs. Carstairs, whom she has never met. After Fanchon confides in Evelyn, the latter treats her coolly. The plane crashes and Fanchon is the only survivor. She decides to escape Tony and the past and start life anew by masquerading as Evelyn. She requests a doctor to wire Mrs. Carstairs that "Evelyn" is safe. A wire comes from Mrs. Carstairs saying that Collin cannot meet Fanchon. Fanchon learns Collin is Mrs. Carstairs' only son. Mrs. Carstairs meets Fanchon at train, exclaiming, "But you're not Evelyn, are you? . . . You can't be." The girl's terror of being discovered passes when Mrs. Carstairs explains she couldn't believe anyone so beautiful could belong in the family. Her kindness and affection prick Fanchon's conscience. Mrs. Carstairs gives Fanchon a liberal allowance and lavishes affection.

Now Go On

CHAPTER XII.

Emma brought her her tray after she woke. It seemed to Fanchon that the maid must have been listening at the door half the morning for it was almost noon before she came in on the very heels of Fanchon's amazed awakening. She had been lying there, very rested, wondering, remembering, hoping and fearing, when Emma's knock came. Emma smiled widely, her homely, pleasant face very friendly.

"Did you sleep well, Miss Evelyn?" she asked.

"Thank you, Emma, I did indeed," said Fanchon.

"It's a lovely day and quite cool," Emma told her. "I'll run the water for your tub and by the time you are ready for it your tray will be here."

"Mrs. Carstairs?" Fanchon asked, getting out of bed.

"She has been up a long time. She will come in with you while you are breakfasting," Emma told her.

"Goodness . . . what time is it?" asked Fanchon.

"Almost 12, Miss Evelyn."

"My watch," Fanchon said idly, "stopped when I had the the accident."

"I see," said Emma and added, "it was—terrible. I never saw Mrs. Carstairs so upset."

Some time later as Fanchon attacked her ice cold melon and her hot, crisp toast, eggs and coffee, Jennie Carstairs came in. She wore a cool suit of black pique with a frilly white blouse and looked entirely lovely.

REMAINS SILENT

"Did you have a good night?" she wanted to know . . . "You did? That's splendid. Now if you want to get up and spend the day out on the terrace, Dr. Wynne thinks it will be all right. Tomorrow I will have some people come in and fit you to a few essentials and then we will see if the next day we can't motor down to Southampton."

"My trunk—" began Fanchon, recalling her role.

"You sent it to Southampton, didn't you? And besides, you will need quite different things . . . you wrote me you had mostly utility things for the school," Mrs. Carstairs told her.

Fanchon was silent.

The rest of the day she lazed out in a big chair on the terrace. Mrs. Carstairs was with her most of the time. When she was not, there were books and magazines to read and the wide expanse of city towers, trees, sky and blue water to watch and wonder at. When her "aunt" was with her they talked as people do who understand one another yet who have not met for years. Mrs. Carstairs asked her about Hawaii and Fanchon, sighing with relief, was able to tell her much about the islands. As much as she dared, fearing to tell too much, for, after all, she had spent 20 years there to Evelyn's two.

START FOR ISLAND

In return Jennie Carstairs spoke of her place in England. "I didn't sell it," she confessed. "It has been let to American friends. We'll go there some day. And to France too." In France, it seemed she maintained a Paris apartment and a small chateau out of town. "But I want you to have a summer here and a New York season first," she explained.

Twice or three times she spoke of Collin. Always with that flush and the hesitant expression, always breaking off in, as it were, mid air.

On the following day, fitters and saleswomen came from the shops and Fanchon was measured for gowns. "They'll have to be ready made for now," said Mrs. Cairstairs. In the afternoon the saleswomen came back with the selections. Sport clothes, spectator dresses, afternoon frocks, evening gowns, sweaters, bathing suits, hats and stockings and shoes and lingerie. Nothing had been forgotten. There was something of everything, all in the most perfect taste. And as Fanchon had as perfect a figure as it is possible to have, it was easy to fit her. Even the soft little satin stays had not been forgotten, several of them.

GIVEN PRESENT

A trunk appeared as if by magic, several trunks, wardrobe, hat and shoe trunks and a matching suitcase and a small fitted overnight case, all of pigskin, all stamped in gold, "E. H." and these, Emma packed for her with her new clothes.

Then, they were ready to leave for the Island. Dr. Wynne having come in again and given his permission. The trip down, in the big closed car, was made with ease and comfort.

The Southampton house was long and low and rambling, painted white with green shutters. It stood very near the dunes, but there was much ground about it, gardens and tennis courts. Fanchon's rooms were overlooking the water, they were done in pale rose, with odd touches of turquoise blue and were very lovely. Emma, having gone down with Jameson and the trunks earlier, by train, was ready and waiting for them when they arrived and Fanchon's things were all unpacked. Despite her position and her sense of dreamlike uncertainty, Fanchon would not have been a normal human girl had she not been as excited as a child. And a child with an income of her own because Mrs. Carstairs had insisted upon her attending to the bank signature before she left and drawing out some money "for peanuts," Mrs. Carstrairs had told her, laughing.

"You're to have pearls," she said, smiling, "when you come out. My own must go to Collin's wife, of course."

Was Collin married—or engaged? thought Fanchon.

"When he marries," Mrs. Carstairs went on, "but you shall have a small string of your own. Open the box, Evelyn."

She did so. There was a watch in it, a small platinum watch, severely simple, on a twisted cord set with diamonds.

"Emma told me that you—broke your own," Mrs. Carstairs explained. Fanchon slipped the pretty thing on her wrist. She said, her eyes filling, "You shouldn't—it is too much."

"Oh, but I should! Nothing," said Jennie deeply, "is too much or enough."

She added, "Some day you will know—why."

They had been at Dunerose for almost a week before Mrs. Carstairs spoke of her son again. They had been living quietly, seeing no one and going nowhere until Fanchon should be entirely built up and the wounded arm healed. Then one morning at breakfast Jennie Carstairs spoke to her, hesitantly laying down the letter she had been reading.

"Collin will be home soon," she said, and added, a worried frown on her smooth forehead, "I hope you will understand . . . and not take him too seriously. I wrote you, of course . . . and am so ashamed of his attitude . . . it is so manifestly unfair. But he is terribly loyal . . ."

James came out to the breakfast porch with an announcement that Mrs. Carstairs was wanted on the telephone. When she came back other interruptions occurred and the conversation was not resumed.

The following day Jennie motored to Easthampson to see an old friend who was just there over night and who had been very ill. Fanchon, given her choice, stayed at home.

She was out in the rose-arbor, lying in the swing, an unread novel on her lap, listening to the crash of waves on smooth sand, feeling the warm sun on her body, catching the scent of salt and roses and somehow dreaming herself back home, back in Hawaii, when she heard the sound of light footsteps. She looked up, sat up, staring in amazement.

HANDSOME MAN

The man who approached her was very tall and broad shouldered. He was quite dark, with thick black hair and dark eyes and a small mustache. He walked as lightly as a cat, he wore slightly shabby, expensive clothes beautifully, and he was very good-looking and in a very bad temper. He walked directly to Fanchon, stopped beside her and stared down at her.

"I suppose you're Evelyn Howard," he said.

"Why, yes," Fanchon told him, still dazed from the sun and her half sleep.

He remarked, abruptly,

"We may as well have it out before my mother comes. I don't know what she has told you. I would rather tell you myself, anyway. I am perfectly well aware of your reasons for coming here. But dealing with a sentimental woman is one thing and dealing with me is another. I'd like you to understand once and for all that I am quite conscious of your game and that I will block it at every turn, if possible. If my mother hasn't sense enough to see you are here under entirely false pretenses . . . I have!"

Unlicensed Drivers

Five Fatalities Raise the Question, What Is Being Done to See If Autoists Have Permits?

The loss of life by five of the 18 victims of fatal automobile accidents in Pittsburgh last month involved drivers who either were unlicensed or were operating on a learner's permit.

Operation of cars by unlicensed drivers is, of course, a menace to the public safety. The state is being deprived of revenue, too, by persons who drive without paying the license tax.

We judge from the fact that a large percentage of Pittsburgh's fatal accidents are caused by such persons that they must be numerous.

It is in order to check autoists to see if they are licensed. Apparently nothing of the sort is being done until after accidents occur.

It may not be easy to make a complete check, but some sort of inquiry should at least be attempted. No one can object to a courteous request to show his driver's license.

Pymatuning Dam

The New Lake Will Bring Great Benefits, but Something Will Be Lost by Its Formation, Too,

The Chief Engineer of the Water and Power Resources Board at Harrisburg announces that all bids for building the Pymatuning Dam across the Shenango River Valley in Crawford County must be in by next Tuesday.

The construction of the huge new lake, for which the Legislature made a large appropriation at its recent session, is about to start.

It will bring great benefits by making it possible to regulate stream flow in the Shenango River and by providing a new body of water for recreation.

But something will be lost, too, by the passing of the Pymatuning Swamp. The great morass is rich in plant and animal life, a veritable treasure trove for the naturalist. Rare flowers and rare birds abound in its fastnesses—the lady's slipper and the pileated woodpecker, for example. It is a pity that their habitat has to be destroyed.

The Town Hall Project

It Is to Be Hoped the Litigation Holding Up Its Construction Will Soon Be Settled,

The Sun-Telegraph received yesterday from a former Pittsburgher now living in Philadelphia a picture and detailed description of that city's municipal auditorium, and with it a note to the effect that such an auditorium would add to Pittsburgh's prestige.

That the people not only of Pittsburgh but of all Allegheny County agree was shown by the large majority with which they voted in favor of a $6,000,000 bond issue to pay for the erection of a Town Hall.

After years of inexcusable delay the County Commissioners chose a site for the auditorium, only to have further progress balked by litigation contesting their selection.

It is to be hoped the litigation will be settled with the least possible delay and work started on the building. Building materials are so cheap and labor so plentiful that a better time could not be found for going ahead.

Illuminate It

The Beauty of the Westinghouse Memorial in Schenley Park Is Enhanced by Light.

Some visitors in Pittsburgh were driven in Schenley Park Monday night for a view of the Westinghouse Memorial, one of the city's gems of art.

On arriving at the place they were disappointed to find the monument in darkness. The car was maneuvered, however, into a position from which a searchlight could be thrown on the memorial.

The effect was striking. The beauty of the work was enhanced by the illumination and several other cars soon stopped, that their occupants, too, might see the beautiful object and its attractive setting.

If it involves no great difficulties the Westinghouse Memorial should be regularly illuminated at night.

A Rising New Author

John Angus Mackaye's Triumph Should Prove Encouraging to Those Past the Prime of Life.

A large New York publishing concern which has been conducting a nation-wide search for fresh literary talent, in an effort, as it said, to rejuvenate American popular writing, announced yesterday that it had discovered a new author of merit, had purchased a story from him, and intended to exploit it.

It will give a great deal of sincere pleasure to many Pittsburghers to learn that this rising new author is John Angus Mackaye, at present employed in a clerical position in the Cambria County Home at Ebensburg.

John Mackaye, now past the prime of life, was a newspaper reporter in Pittsburgh—and a good one—until about 25 years ago, when sickness and misfortune led to his retirement.

It should be an inspiration to middle aged and elderly people that Mackaye has scored such a success.

Bumper Crops

Huge Yield of Pennsylvania Farms Is a Blessing Notwithstanding Low Prices,

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture reports bumper crops.

The state's average yield per acre of winter wheat, estimated at 23.5 bushels, is a new high record. The corn crop promises to exceed the five-year average by 5,000,000 bushels. Rye production is expected to be the highest since 1923. Pennsylvania probably will recapture this year first place among the states in buckwheat production.

With favorable conditions the yield of potatoes per acre will be second only to the record production of 130 bushels per acre in 1928. The tobacco crop will be one of the largest, both as to total size and yield per acre, in a number of years.

The fruit crops, particularly peaches and apples, will be enormous.

In the diversity of Pennsylvania's farm products, as indicated in this brief review, may be found assurance that the farmers will benefit by large yields notwithstanding the low prices at which some products are selling. They do not carry all their eggs in one basket.

The Eleventh Scene of the Second Act of the great Opper melodrama, "The Perils of Prospy," continues—there are many more to follow.

Pity poor Prospy. She needs your sympathy. It won't help her very much, but at least it will do her no harm. It seems that she cannot hope for much help from Pubsy and Demsy, the great "yes" men of the cast. They "yes" Prospy when she cries for help; they "yes" the villain when he bids them: "Beat it." AND THEY BEAT IT."

The villain, it seems, has them "buffaloed," if you get what we mean. And he will continue to have them "buffaloed" right down to the final curtain.

Is there no hope for poor Prospy? Yes, a real savior may appear on the horizon, but it is too early in the play to even hint as to his identity.

Hold your breath and WAIT.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Nobody Can Tell You!

The moment a girl announces her engagement the priceless advice begins to flow in.

Here are a dozen of the most popular prescriptions.

Start right! Take the whip-hand at the altar or you'll never get it. When a girl marries she has to choose between sitting at the foot of a throne and standing on a door-mat.

Use tact. Never let your husband know that you can rule him. A man like a horse has to be backed into the shafts before he can be driven.

Tell your husband everything. Never let him suspect you of deceiving him or he'll never trust you again.

Never tell your husband anything. Nothing charms a man like a little "mystery," and what he doesn't know won't worry him.

Flatter your husband. Feed him plenty of applesauce. Fill him full of self-admiration—and what spills over is yours!

Don't flatter your husband or he'll soon begin to wonder why such a combination of brains and beauty should waste all of himself on a simple little thing like you.

Remember that you are your husband's guide, philosopher and friend. Also the keeper of his conscience and the guardian of his morals. Your mission in life is to hold onto your ideals with one hand—and onto him with the other.

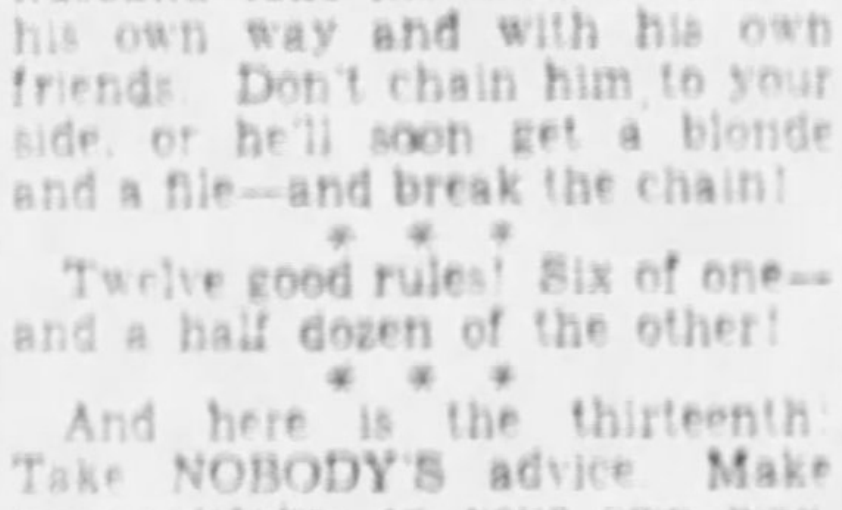
Don't try to "reform" your husband. A man does not marry in order to acquire a "keeper" and a life-critic, but in order to acquire an admirer. Cut out the missionary work. No man loves his guardian.



Never go away for a summer vacation and leave your husband lying around loose, where the blondes, the love-moths and the love-pirates can get him.

An ounce of matrimonial vacation is better than a pound of divorce, my dear. A little summer parting has held many a couple together.

Try to join in all your husband's amusements, pastimes and interests. Never let him learn to take his pleasures with others.

For the love of liberty, let your husband take his amusements in his own way and with his own friends. Don't chain him to your side, or he'll soon get a blonde and a file—and break the chain!

Twelve good rules! Six of one—and a half dozen of the other!

And here is the thirteenth: Take NOBODY'S advice. Make your mistakes in your own way. Nobody can tell you how to be happy!

(Copyright, 1931, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

Some people can do anything—except live within their income.

The final test of civilization is the way we trust those we don't expect to see again.

Suppressed desire on the part of some men is what keeps other men out of hospitals.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

That bread your mother used to make, John—

You've never forgotten it, have you?

The memory of it makes all other bread taste like sawdust. Queer how strongly you can see the picture of her bending over the old kitchen table, after all these years—smell the buttery brown crust—feel the warmth of the big wood stove welcoming you, as you raced in, cold and hungry, after school!

Makes a lump come to your throat to even think of it, doesn't it, John? And many a time you catch yourself wondering how life would have been if you'd stayed there with mother and dad, and had never left the old home. The missis? Yes, she's a good woman. But somehow she's never understood you, the way your mother did . . . never knew how to make a place homey and cosey. Oh, well—

And you, Alice?

Remember that sweetheart you had the year you graduated from High—your first serious love affair? As if you could forget him! You've had many a sweetheart since . . . been married a score of years and now your youngsters have sweethearts of their own. But you dream of Al yet. Find yourself comparing him with Tom. Could he ever have become as dull and uninteresting as Tom? Would you have grown as faded and fat if you'd been Mrs. Lester instead of Mrs. Brown?

Your first Romance! Over the years the thrill of it comes back to you . . . the memory of that last buggy ride . . . the smell of the stocks and the roses in a tangle by the picket fence. Ah, well—

The bread your mother used to make. The dream of your first sweetheart. How the memory of them persists . . . spoiling, somehow, all the bread, all the love that has come since.

AND YOU THINK IT WAS BECAUSE THAT BREAD WAS BETTER . . . BECAUSE THE SWEETHEART WAS MORE GLORIOUS THAN OTHER MEN.

You're wrong. Chances are, John, that your mother's bread was just so-so, and you've tasted a thousand better loaves since. And it's dollars to doughnuts, Alice, that your hero was just a regular kid and you'd never give him a second look if you saw him for the first time now. Then why has their memory persisted? BECAUSE IT WAS PART OF YOUR MORNING.

It was part of that magic which comes but once in life—part of that tip-toe ecstasy, that wonder and delight, that fire and fever and flaming faith which is youth.

You do not remember the taste of your mother's bread, John. You remember the flavor of youth. You do not remember the sweetness of first love, Alice. You remember the care-free glory and glamour of 18-year-old romance. And it will never come again, for there is only one morning.

But what of it? Why let the memory of that youthful yesterday spoil all your tomorrows? There is, it is true, only one morning. BUT HOW ABOUT THE NOON? Dewy dreams are rarely sweet, but why pass up life for the sake of a dream? What of the wide adventures, the long marches, the gallant battles that may be yours if you'll snap out of your dreams and get going.

Why has life been such a disappointing mess, John and Alice? Why have you never regained your lost happiness? WAS IT BECAUSE YOU WERE TRYING TO HANG ON TO YOUR MORNING? WAS IT BECAUSE YOU WEREN'T WILLING TO SEEK NEW HAPPINESS?

WAS IT BECAUSE YOU WERE A COUPLE OF BIG CRY-BABIES WHO WEREN'T WILLING TO GROW UP?

Hill Was Outstanding Astronomer

By Archibald Henderson

The competent and indefatigable astronomer, Hill, is one of the noted American astronomers, well known to scientists and the historians of science. But he is almost if not quite unknown to the general public. And this is because the work he did was so complex and abstruse, the equations he worked with so elaborate and lengthy, that the man-in-the-street is quite incapable, without very lucid explanation, of understanding just what Hill did accomplish.

George William Hill was born in New York City and received his education at Rutgers College. In 1861 he became attached to the staff of the Nautical Almanac and was elected a member of the National Academy of Science, in 1872, in recognition of the excellent work he had done in that position. He was a voluminous writer on mathematics and celestial mechanics and handled the most difficult equations with the ease of a master. Perhaps his most notable published scientific book is "A New Theory of Jupiter and Saturn," published in 1890.

Newton's theory is a very beautiful and indispensable mathematical and physical theory. But when we come to consider the attractive forces of three celestial bodies upon each other, the problem becomes one of indescribable complexity. As Von Wagenen states in Beacon Lights of Science: The mass of the sun is 330,000 times that of the earth, and its distance is 389 times that which separates the earth from the moon. Applying the law of gravitation as stated by Newton to these figures, it will be found that the attraction exerted by the sun on the moon is 2.18 times that exerted on it by the earth. Hence, if the earth were fixed in space, the sun would inevitably pull the moon away from it.

But the sun attracts both simultaneously, so that both fall toward it together. Combining that effect with the inertia (centrifugal force) of the two, the final result is the path in which the earth travels in its annual journey around the sun, carrying the moon with it.

By analyzing the problems, Hill showed that there were seven different types of disturbance or pertuberances, as they are called. Others had made an approximate solution of the problem of three bodies, notably the French scientists, Clairaut and Laplace. Hill's solution gave results which were much more accurate than those supplied by Clairaut and Laplace. It was for this great work that in 1874 Hill was awarded the gold medal of the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

There are some bosses who demand physical action from their employes, notwithstanding the fact that the line of work in which they are engaged may be something in which thought is necessary.

This idea may be well founded with reference to manual labor.

But there are comparatively few jobs in which the exercise of brain would not be of benefit.

Naturally, if the boss demands a showing of being busy, he will fail to get the benefit of work which comes from a mind in complete control.

The man who makes the most movements in his work usually turns out the smallest amount of production and certainly is not a top-notcher.

A visit to any place where piece work is done emphasizes the fact that the apparently slow worker is the one who draws the largest pay.

He is methodical and thoughtful in his work.

He has eliminated false moves, and his mind directs his hands before it is time for them to act.

When a boss demands faster and faster movements he fails to get full production, nor is it as perfect in results.

U. S. Workers Seek Jobs, Not Handouts, Mr. Hoover

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

WITH a third winter of suffering incidental to acute and widespread unemployment threatening, President Hoover has begun to mobilize forces for relief.

He has summoned to his aid the able Walter Gifford, head of the Bell Telephone interests, and a capable array of business executives.

BUT THE WEAKNESS OF THE MANEUVER IS THAT IT APPARENTLY RESTS ON NO CLEARLY CONCEIVED PLAN.

Obviously, it is necessary from a humane standpoint to provide succor and relief for the economic casualties.

But the President seemingly is prepared to deal only with the EFFECTS of depression WHILE IGNORING THE CAUSES.

One objective is to head off any political movement for a dole.

However, it is socially desirable not only to avoid a dole in name, but also in substance.

PRIVATE CHARITY IS A DOLE UNDER ANOTHER NAME.

The 6,000,000 or more unemployed and the large army of partially employed workers WANT JOBS, NOT HANDOUTS.

Political and business leadership should look beyond mere co-ordination of relief agencies.

The depression should be attacked on all fronts.

Congress must share with the Chief Executive the responsibility for helping to meet the situation.

Time is rushing by, and the emergency is too great to wait for the regular session of the National Legislature in December.

With business resting on the dead center and with necessitous liquidation accomplished, the occasion has come for co-operation between government and business in organization for economic recuperation.

The proposal for a $5,000,000,000 Federal Loan for doing promptly essential public works, which otherwise would be done gradually over a period of years, is in line with the creative thinking of modern scientific economists.

The Prosperity Loan should not be spent merely to make work, but should be economically used for developments which the Federal Departments already contemplate doing in time.

Unless the Executive is willing to take the initiative, Congress might well adopt a resolution calling upon the administration to make available to the law-making body the plans which already have been formulated and which now rest in the pigeonholes of the government departments. Then Congress could appoint its own corps of engineers to study the feasibility of such activities.

The Prosperity Loan would give stimulus to business at its weakest point, namely, the construction industry, and in so doing would generate a cycle of interacting forces which would tend to tone up stagnant trade generally.

It would REDEEM from unproductive idleness MILLIONS of UNEMPLOYED, whose precious work-power is now being wasted.

It involves a noble conception to undertake a gigantic co-operative enterprise without the goading of war.

The Prosperity Loan need not be the end-all and be-all of a program, but it goes to the heart of the movement LEGITIMATELY TO PROVIDE JOBS, NOT DOLES.

Along with it, there can be a helpful policy of credit easement by the central banking authorities, and a well conceived plan for marketing surpluses in economically backward countries through the extension of long term credits.

Let's galvanize the best thought of the country into a program of prompt action, rather than be satisfied with a timid, partial approach.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Debonair Michael Arlen, flashing so vividly on the literary horizon, is reported back-tracking as suddenly into the obscurity from whence he came. The roar of the crowd falls on deaf ears. Instead of the literary lion he is becoming the literary hermit.

In the beginning he was an unknown young Armenian with an unpronounceable name who plopped like a sky rocket out of the nowhere. Over night he became the dapper historian of Mayfair, gazing at the dazzling social whirl of London through rose colored glasses.

More than any writer of his time he created something new—something fascinatingly bizarre. His first novels became immediate best sellers. Chesterton, Belloc and Bennett hailed him. An American cigar, a Paris cocktail and an Italian hat were named for him. Along the Riviera he was the white-haired boy.

He came to New York while two of his plays were running simultaneously and successfully on Broadway. He moved on to Hollywood where he was feted by the movie crowd. From there he went back to London, then joined the social set at St. Moritz and married a beautiful Grecian princess.

In a brief space he flushed out most all of the honors that come to a writing man in the course of a life time. But on his last visit here Arlen had changed. While his furore had somewhat spent itself in America he was still the target of many luncheon and dinner invitations.

But shied away from all. Most of his short stay he kept to his hotel room, meeting old friends quietly. He was not seen at first nights. His flash clothes had softened to sombre hues—mostly plain black. He seemed fed up with frothy sophistications of life.

Those who know say he believes he has greater talents than first efforts revealed. He wants to take time and will spend three years preparing his next novel. He has the income from a carefully invested quarter of a million to indulge this leisure. And lives quietly at Antibes.

For some reason I am ill at ease among people who wear flannels and blazers and yesterday motoring on Long Island I stooped in a feigned effort to lace my shoe while passing a tally-ho party. H. N. Swanson's inferiority complex is taken for a ride when a group of habited riders gallop past in the park. Nothing makes him feel so much the groveling worm.

No square in New York has the summer mellowness of Mayor Walker's residential section, St. Luke's Place. Tucked out of the beaten path it luxuriates in a sort of civic decay. There are no ornate apartment houses but instead three and four-storied dwelling houses with iron fences, small plots of grass, chirping birds and brick walls. In the center is a playground, usually joyous with childish shouts. Sprawled sunning themselves on the sidewalk are friendly unleashed and unmuzzled dogs. At night many windows glow with hanging oil lamps.

Around the corner from the Mayor's, Greenwich Village frolics. It has taken on a renewed spurt of hop-de-do lately. The Nut Club, with bilious colored stucco front and electric sign letters crazily hung, is at the moment the Village rendezvous. Hard-by is the triangled tea room of Ann Sutherland with tiny green awninged roof—seating perhaps 20. A glorified mirror owl lunch wagon, with a poetical banjoist, bids for trade in the area. Village food and entertainment are cheap and fit in with the present-day purses, hence many haunts, so long facing bankruptcy, are now enjoying a puff of prosperity.

I notice, too, that The Black Cat is carrying on in the Village. It is a remembered spot during my first year in New York. At an adjoining table one night I was introduced to a man later to figure surprisingly in world history—Leon Trotzky. And it hived such characters as Tiny Tim and his tray of soul candy, Sonia, the beautiful cigarette girl from Minsk, and the troubador, Bobbie Edwards, and his cigar box ukulele.

Someone on the phone—Don Clarke, I think—mentioned casually that they heard the biggest seasonal dress bill was Geraldine Farrar's for $100,000. Why it should inspire me later in the day upon dropping in at a shirtmakers' to order six extra shirts is a little deep. But I can account for it in no other way.
